Crisis, Israel Demands Dim Talks' Prospects

Casualties Heavy on Both Sides

United Press International
Syria was reported Friday night to be moving armaments into Jordan to supply Palestinian guerrillas fighting the Jordanian army in the second day of a civil war.

The leader of the Palestinian resistance movement, Yasser Arafat, told his guerrilla followers in a message broadcast by Damascus radio Friday night to continue fighting because "victory is near."

Diplomatic and other reports broadcast by radio from Amman said fierce fighting continued for the second consecutive day Friday in the Jordanian capital and elsewhere in northern Jordan. Casualties were reported by both sides to be in the thousands, including civilians as well as guerrillas and soldiers.

The reports of arms supplies to the guerrillas from Syria came from travelers who arrived Friday night in Lebanon from the Jordan town of Ramtha, 50 miles north of Amman on the Syrian border.

THEY SAID six trucks loaded with rockets, machine guns, rifles and ammunition arrived in Ramtha from Syria early Friday. The arms were distributed to guerrillas who occupy the town, they said.

"They looked like Syrian guerrillas on the trucks — and Al Fatah," one traveler said.

Syria and Iraq have both pledged support to the guerrillas in the Jordan war. The Syrian government's Damascus radio has been turned over to the guerrillas for broadcasting orders and appeals, and Arafat used it Friday night to urge the Palestinians to continue fighting.

"Be patient, for victory is near," Arafat said. "We hail your steadfastness, and we are proud of your courage."

ALL communications and electric power in Amman have been knocked out by the fighting, but the U.S. Embassy was operating its own generator system. The embassy said Friday it had no reports of

Nixon Bans Railway Strike for 60 Days

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed executive orders Friday blocking a threatened nationwide rail strike for 60 days.

Acting under provisions of the Railway Labor Act, Nixon created a five-member fact-finding board to look into the dispute between four unions and some 160 rail lines.

If settlements are not arranged at the end of 60 days, the unions would be free to strike — unless Congress should enact emergency legislation in the interim.

W.J. Usery, assistant secretary of labor, told newsmen at the White House the Administration had hoped to win union-industry agreements without resort to emergency procedures and that it was "with great reluctance" that the Labor Department recommended signing of the executive orders.

The four unions involved represent about 400,000 rail employees — about 70 per cent of all those employed by the industry.

A strike had been set for Sept. 10 but the government won union agreement to extend discussions for five days — a move followed by a federal court order Tuesday blocking any selective strikes against some of the rail lines involved.

District Judge Howard Corcoran left in force an order restraining the unions from striking until Wednesday. The five-member board Nixon created is unusual. Most such panels have three members.

Usery said a larger board was being named, to consider all the disputes on a consolidated basis. "So that an equitable settlement may be reached at the earliest possible time."

He expressed hope that negotiations in which federal mediators had participated had already narrowed the points in dispute and that the board could quickly zero in on those of major importance.

Under the rail labor law, the board — its members will be named later — will report findings to Nixon within 30 days. There will be an additional period of 30 days in which the disputants can consider the board's recommendations and continue negotiations.

Unions involved in the dispute are the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, the United Transportation Union, the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and the Hotel and Restaurant Employee and Bartenders Union. All are affiliated with the AFL-CIO.

Mrs. Meir Adamant on Rockets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday night that Mideast peace talks are not expected to resume at this time because of the crisis in Jordan.

Difficulties in the way of getting the stalled talks going were also underscored by Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, here on a one-day visit.

After seeing President Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Mrs. Meir said Israel would not end her boycott of the U.S.-proposed Arab-Israeli peace discussions until Egypt and Russia roll back missiles installed in violation of the Mideast truce.

Rogers "feels the door to the talks is still open, and we are continuing every effort to keep that door open and having the parties go through it." State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said after the daylong conferences. However "as a practical matter it would be difficult to expect these talks to resume in the light of the present situation in Jordan," the spokesman said.

JORDAN, along with Egypt and Israel, is a party to the talks under U.N. auspices which are supposed to be part of the U.S. Mideast cease-fire plan which began August 8. But the Jordanian government is embroiled now in fighting with Palestinian guerrillas who hold hijacked hostages.

McCloskey declined to say whether the United States agrees with Mrs. Meir that the surface-to-air rockets emplaced on the Egyptian side of the cease-fire line must be withdrawn before the talks can get under way.

"Our objective continues to be to have the negotiations resume," he said. "We are encouraging both sides to continue observing the cease-fire."

"The secretary told the prime minister that we will continue our diplomatic efforts aimed at obtaining rectification of the violations on each side," McCloskey said.

'Desperate' Man Hijacks 727 Jet

PHILADELPHIA, Saturday (UPI) — A man carrying "some kind of explosives" hijacked an Allegheny Airlines 727 jet late Friday night and forced the crew to fly him to Cuba after a refueling stop at Philadelphia International Airport, police said.

All of the passengers got off the plane unharmed before it left here at 1:46 a.m. EDT apparently bound for Havana, police said.

THE PILOT told police the hijacker, a Negro male, entered the cockpit during a flight from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia. He appeared "desperate" the pilot said.

Police said the hijacker was carrying what looked like home-made explosives — several bottles with wires dangling from them. Another report indicated he had a gun.

The hijacker held the crew inside the cockpit of the plane while ground crews went about refueling it.

THE passengers, about 150 of them, were herded into a waiting room at the Philadelphia Airport where they were questioned by local police. FBI

SOUTHLAND WILL COOL

Cloudy mornings and only hazy sunshine in the afternoons throughout the Southland this weekend should help ease the youngsters back into the school grind and away from the recreation areas.

Long Beach and vicinity will have slightly cooler temperatures, with predicted high for today and Sunday of about 79, the Weather Bureau said.

747 Forced to Land by Blaze

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An American Airlines 747 jumbo jetliner with 134 aboard returned safely to San Francisco International Airport Friday minutes after takeoff when fire broke out in one of its four engines.

The pilot, Capt. Walter Steiner of Los Altos, used a built-in fire extinguisher to smother the flames in the air and brought the craft down 13 minutes after takeoff.

The New York-bound flight carried 117 passengers and a crew of 17. An airline spokesman said 107 passengers took a later flight on an American Boeing 707 and six switched to another airline. The other four were unaccounted for.

THE SPOKESMAN said the fire left holes in the plane's left wing and did extensive damage to the struts that hold the engine in place.

Steiner said the fire broke out in the No. 1 engine shortly after takeoff at 8:30 a.m. He said he completed a 180-degree turn, activated the fire extinguisher and returned to the airport.

The same officials hinted that Laird would probably reject another recommendation of the Fitzhugh panel, replacement of the field command with three major military commands, labeled strategic, tactical and logistic.

The joint chiefs also will retain all responsibilities they now have for operation of their own services. But they will not see or

Slaying Suspect Loses Bid

DENVER (AP) — Colorado's Supreme Court refused late Friday to block extradition to California of Robert Willard Liberty, 23, sought for questioning about "candlelight" killings in Orange County and San Diego.

It also refused to halt the extradition of his bride, Kendall Ann Bierley, 24.

Liberty was arrested in Colorado Springs June 10 after a 100-mph chase and gunbattle. He was taken into custody with Miss Bierley, of Eugene, Ore., and Glenn A. Facet, 17, of Midland, Tex.

The three were accused of attempting to rob a motel in which they were staying here.

Liberty once was charged with murder and flight to escape conviction after his roommate, Thomas Astronia, 25, was found dead last March 12 in Orange County.

POLICE said that four days before his arrest here, Liberty had kidnapped a teen-aged motorist in Long Beach and forced him to drive to Westminster, Calif., where the suspect allegedly robbed his own mother of $45 at gunpoint.

Police said the California teenager, Richard Greytak, was forced to take Liberty to San Diego where Robert Irion, 52, was killed. In the victim's apartment, a message on a closet door said: "The candlelight killer strikes again." A pair of candles were burning beside the body when police arrived.

Laird Cuts Joint Chiefs' Power

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird has decided to strip the Joint Chiefs of Staff of all day-to-day control over U.S. military operations around the world, Pentagon officials disclosed Friday.

They said Laird soon would announce publicly that this routine work is going to be handled by a new military operations command under Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the joint chiefs.

Under this plan, the officials said, the joint chiefs, who are the heads of the Army, the Navy the Air Force and the Marine Corps, would be responsible as a group only for planning and policy making.

Laird's decision represents a compromise with recommendations submitted in July by President Nixon's blue-ribbon defense panel, headed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Chairman Gilbert W. Fitzhugh.

That group, in an exhaustive survey aimed at streamlining the Pentagon, recommended that a special civilian deputy defense secretary be named to head the operations command.

But Laird plans to place Moorer, the Navy's top admiral, in this post. The effect should be to blunt criticism that the joint chiefs are being downgraded.

The joint chiefs also will retain all responsibilities they now have for operation of their own services. But they will not see or

Island Scene

Q. Where can one obtain color postcards or pictures of the oil islands lighted up at night? Many of my out-of-town visitors are taken with the display of lights and waterfalls. I have been looking all over, and can't find one. Mrs. H. P. H., Long Beach.

A. No one has yet made a postcard of the oil islands, but the Golden West Postcard Co. in Long Beach will have a color card of the night lights on island Alpha for sale next spring. ACTION LINE is sending you the address of a local company that will make a color print of a transparency they have of the oil islands at night for $6.80.

Chicano

Q. I am a chicano student, recently moved to Long Beach from East Los Angeles. Can ACTION LINE locate any Mexican-American organizations in this area I might join? L.G., Long Beach.

A. MECHA is a group affiliated with the Mexican-American studies department at California State College at Long Beach, 6101 E. Seventh St. According to Frank Sandoval, department chairman, the organization is open to any interested young persons. "MECHA is active on-campus and in the community," Sandoval told ACTION LINE, "working to bring more chicano students to college. We also strive for widespread academic success of Mexican-American pupils at the elementary and high school levels, by working with the schools as well as the students. The group also hopes to familiarize the community with the contributions of chicanos to the history and culture of the United States." You can contact the Mexican studies department through the college switchboard, 433-0951. Another chicano group, La Raza Unida, is based at the East Long Beach Neighborhood Center, 2338 E. Anaheim St., set up as a help-center for Spanish-speaking persons. Students are welcome to volunteer their services to this community organization.

Karter

Q. Can ACTION LINE give me information on go-kart racing. Where can I purchase a racing kart, where can I run it and are there any publications on the sport? V. K., Long Beach.

A. Meyer's Speed Shop, 16208 Clark Ave., Bellflower, 925-7682, has karts and all the extras you'll need for running and racing the vehicles, which are illegal to operate on public streets. Jack Nelson of Meyer's will be glad to answer your questions. "He can purchase a starter kart and equipment necessary for competitive racing for about $500," Nelson told ACTION LINE. Less expensive used machines often are advertised in newspaper classified ads. Meyer noted kart tracks require drivers to wear helmets and jackets. The nearest track, U-Drive Karts, is located at Orange Avenue and Spring Street in Long Beach. The International Kart Federation, 529 S. Second St., Covina, Calif. 91722, is the sanctioning body for kart racing. Dues are $10 a year which includes a subscription to Karter News, the official publication. Subscriptions alone may be purchased for $6 a year by writing Karter News at the federation's address.

Mitchell Attacks Campus Activists

Combined News Services

Attorney General John Mitchell was quoted Friday as saying that students, professors and "these stupid bastards who are ruining our educational institutions" are uninformed about the issues within government. In a candid, convivial mood at a Women's National Press Club cocktail buffet in Washington, Mitchell was reported to have said street violence and campus unrest were the biggest political issues this year and that "this country is going so far right you are not going to recognize it."

Mitchell was interviewed by Kandy Stroud, a reporter for Women's Wear Daily.

"He's (Nixon) probably the most informed President there's ever been. He reads everything and remembers it all. I really can't understand how people can call him isolated. He's aware of everything that's going on," Mitchell said.

"I'll tell you who's not informed, though. It's these stupid kids. Why, they don't know the issues. And the professors are just as bad if not worse. They don't know anything. Nor do these stupid bastards who are ruining our educational institutions."

"Listen, there is no such thing as the new left. This country is going so far right you are not even going to recognize it." On Dr. Henry Kissinger, Nixon's national security affairs adviser:

"Henry's an egocentric maniac. He loves to appear in the newspapers with Jill St. John. But when he gets back to the office he's really a brilliant man... he's indispensable. He's on the firing line every day."

On marijuana:

"My dear, don't you realize you can take a real trip in marijuana? ... These stupid jerks who smoke the stuff don't realize what they're getting themselves into. Now that we've stopped the flow of the milder stuff in the U.S., they're going outside the country and now the pushers are importing the cannabis plant from other countries. The same kind of stuff the opium smokers use. It's hashish and you can really become addicted to it."

GREEK JUSTICE

A judicial council Friday in Athens denied a public prosecutor's request for indictment of shipping magnate Stavros Niarchos and decided not to press charges against him in the death of his wife Eugenia. The ruling concurred with a coroner's report that Mrs. Niarchos' death was suicide resulting from an overdose of sleeping pills. Eugenia, 44, died May 4 after taking the overdose of barbiturates after a quarrel with her husband.

6 WILL GET YOU 8

Douglas Radcliffe — arrested for pilfering six empty pop bottles — was released from jail Friday after spending eight days behind bars while parole authorities conducted a presentencing investigation. "He might not have gotten out of there for six months if I hadn't pulled some strings," said Brevard County Sheriff Leigh Wilson. "The kid makes passing grades and I want to get him back in school so he can graduate." Radcliffe, 18, was picked up with three other youths as they stood beside the pop machine at a Merritt Island, Fla. store. "The kid had six empties in his hand," said the sheriff. "The machine was damaged and we had to take everybody in. Radcliffe posted $100 bond, and then last Friday pleaded guilty to petty larceny. Magistrate Robert McGregor ordered the freckled, blond to jail while probation officers conducted an investi-

POLICEMAN SHOT IN FACE, DIES

A Toledo policeman was killed Friday by a Negro who pushed a pistol through a patrol car window, shouted "Hey baby, I've got something for you" and shot him in the face. About 40 policemen rushed to the scene after the shooting and surrounded a Black Panther headquarters, where they said they were met with sniper fire. They riddled the one-story building with bullets. Patrolman William Miscannon, 33, married and the father of four children, was shot while he and a companion were sitting in their parked cruiser in the city's Detroit-Dorr section. John McClellan, 25, was apprehended and charged with first-degree murder. His case was continued until Sept. 24. Patrolman Walter Shaw, Miscannon's partner in the cruiser, said the man yelled "Hey baby, I've got something for you" and fired three shots. Shaw, who was not hit, was taken to a hospital and treated for shock. "From the information I have received, this was a cold-blooded killing," said Police Chief Anthony Bosch.

WIPED OUT

The New York City Board of Elections Friday wiped out 13-term Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's last hope of returning to Congress as Harlem's "Big Daddy" in the Nov. 3 elections. The board decided that only 1,345 of the 3,193 signatures of voters on petitions supporting Powell's bid to run as an independent candidate were valid. By law, a candidate must supply 3,000 valid signatures.

ZAHRA KHAN

The wife of the Karim Aga Khan gave birth to a daughter Friday, a spokesman for the Aga Khan announced in Geneva. The child, named Zahra, weighed seven pounds and both mother and daughter were in good condition. The child was born at one of the family homes in Switzerland. The Aga Khan and his wife, former British fashion model Sally Croker-Poole, were married a year ago.

BLACK PANTHER

Black Panther Lonnie McClucas, convicted of conspiracy to commit murder in the torture-slaying of an alleged police informer was given a 12-to-15 year prison sentence Friday in New Haven, Conn. Judge Harold Mulvey handed down the sentence of 12-15 years. The 24-year-old defendant was the first of eight Black Panthers including National Party Chairman Bobby Seale to stand trial in the slaying of Alex Rackley, 24, a New York City Panther.

6 WILL GET YOU 8

"I know about these investigations," Wilson said Friday. "These things can take six months. That boy belongs in school, not in my jail." So, after Wilson worked behind the scenes, Magistrate J. William Wadson, acting in the absence of McGregor, ordered the youth released on his own recognizance. He will be sentenced later, after the investigation.

JIMI HENDRIX AND HIS GUITAR

AUTOPSY OF ROCK STAR PLANNED

American pop star Jimi Hendrix, famed for his electric-shock mane of hair and hip-grinding delivery, died in London Friday at 27. A spokesman for a hospital where the guitarist was dead on arrival said: "We do not know where or how or why he died." A coroner's inquest will be held. He was named the world's top pop musician in 1967 in a poll of British fans. Hendrix was discovered in a cellar club in New York by a member of the Animals rock group. He came to Britain in 1966. Four hit records followed, including "Hey Joe."

Hendrix, born in Seattle, Wash., was a self-taught musician. A friend in London said: "Despite his reputation as a wildman, he was a perfect gentleman. He was gentle and quiet spoken."

ISRAELI HAM?

Mrs. Mary Ann Crider, a ham radio operator who became a personal friend of Jordan's King Hussein through airwaves said she continually encountered a signal from an Israeli ham operator as she monitored the king's frequencies Friday. "Call it coincidence, call it what you want," she said, "but that guy knows when I'm listening for his majesty, and I don't know what he's trying to prove." Hussein called Mrs. Crider twice this week at her home in Camp Hill, Pa., Mrs. Crider and her husband Charles have made radio contact with Hussein about 35 times, and last spring visited Jordan at the king's expense.

ROME QUADS

Mrs. Anlata Luzzl, 37, gave birth to quadruplets — three girls and a boy — Friday at the Rome Polyclinic. Doctors said the mother, who has four other children, was doing fine and the babies — ranging from 3 pounds 2 ounces to 3 pounds 10 ounces — had a good chance of survival.

ANONYMOUS

A Centre County widow who died recently has left the home for crippled children in Pittsburgh richer by 12,280 dimes and two Pomeranian dogs. A spokesman for the home said the woman, who requested anonymity, accumulated the coins in a lard can in her kitchen. Arrangements were being made to provide a home for the dogs.

URGES RETURN

Foreign Minister Edgaro Mercado Jarrin of Peru Friday urged the return of Cuba to the Organization of American States. In general debate before the U.N. General Assembly, Mercado Jarrin said the matter of Cuba ought to be given "urgent consideration" in the regional organization which ousted it after Fidel Castro's rise to power.

MOON TRIP

Apollo 14 astronauts Alan Shepard and Edgar Mitchell took a simulated flight Friday at Cape Kennedy in the lunar module which they hope to land on the moon early next year. The two spent 7 hours and 20 minutes in the moonship checking out its systems at a simulated altitude of 200,000 feet. Spokesmen said the tests went very well. This was the final altitude test by crew members before their flight next year, scheduled to land at Fra Mauro.

Key Cambodia Battle Looms

Combined News Services

PHNOM PENH — Elite Cambodian paratroops broke through Friday and relieved a 4,000-man government task force trapped by the Communists for five days 50 miles north of Phnom Penh. The breakthrough set the stage for what could be one of the biggest battles of the Cambodian war. In Saigon, U.S. military spokesman said Communist groundfire shot down three more U.S. helicopters Friday, bringing to at least 25 the number of U.S. aircraft destroyed in the past week. To the north, American warplanes hammered away at the area around Comhal Base O'Reilly, which has been under heavy Communist pressure for more than two months. Although the Communists appeared to be gradually disengaging from the battle near the Laotian frontier, several sizeable skirmishes were reported in the surrounding region.

Edison Discs, Phono Draw $139

LONDON — A London dealer paid $139 at auction Friday for an early 20th century Edison phonograph and 93 cylindrical records. The lot, included a record made around 1910 as a joke by Carrie Tubb, then a Covent Garden opera soprano during a visit to the Edison studios in New Jersey. Miss Tubb said Friday she sang "Bid Me to Love" by Robert Herrick "as a joke, because this is a baritone's song and I was a soprano." Miss Tubb is now 94.

Nixon Faces Demonstration

ROME — The Italian Communist Party called Friday for demonstrations "against the American imperialism and NATO" during the visit of President Nixon to Italy at the end of the month. Demonstrations by leftists during Nixon's previous visit to Italy, in 1969, led to the worst street riots in Italy in years. The downtown area of Rome was turned into a battlefield between rioters and police.

Upset Election in India

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi carried her Congress party and a leftist coalition to an upset election victory in southern Kerala State Friday. It sets the scene for a possible national alliance with the Communists. The voting for the 133-seat Kerala legislature showed that Mrs. Gandhi's unprecedented poll pact with the pro-Moscow Communist party and other leftist allies had soundly defeated opponents from the extreme left and right.

Uruguay Terrorists Mark Time

MONTevideo — Leftist terrorists appeared Friday to be marking time to give the government additional opportunity to review their demands for release of a captured American hostage. The terrorists said they would release Claude L. Fly, 65, an American agricultural expert, if the government would authorize the Uruguayan news media to print a 1,500-word statement of their political position. The government flatly refused to deal with the terrorists but Fly's family, in Fort Collins, Colo., appealed to Uruguay President Jorge Pacheco Areco to acced to the demand. Fly has been held a captive by the underground Tupamaro organization for seven weeks.

28 Dead, 35 Hurt in Korea

SEOUL — The heavy rain that had deluged South Korea since late Wednesday stopped in most parts of the country Friday. National police put the toll from the storm at 28 dead, five missing and 35 injured.

Panthers Try, Beat Undercover Agents

NEW ORLEANS — Two Negro undercover police agents said Friday they were beaten and tortured following a mock trial conducted by Black Panthers Monday night. Fellow officers said the two victims were made to mop up their own blood. Police said it was this incident which led to a shootout Tuesday between Black Panthers and police. Officers said regulations prevented them from disclosing how the Panthers discovered the identities of the agents.

The Panther "trial" was described by agents Melvin Howard, 20, and Israel Fields, 21. "We were beaten with the guns, jammed in a corner with 50 people jumping on us, kicking us, punching us," Fields said. Some of those who beat him were Panthers, Fields said. He said a crowd of blacks gathered outside Panther headquarters and yelled "send the pigs out" and "let the community deal with them."

Fields said a mock trial was conducted by a Panther "from another town." "At one point of the trial the two officers were forced to lay on the floor and .357 magnum pistols were placed at their heads," police said. Howard and Fields said they managed to break free and run after being taken outside.

Small Business Loan Ruling

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Friday to subsidize interest payments on government loans to small businesses. Opponents said borrowers would enjoy an unfair edge over the 99 out of 100 firms which are denied such loans. The proposal of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., was adopted over the objections of Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and John Williams, R-Del., who both contended that Small Business Administration loans often are granted on the basis of political pull rather than merit. The Percy amendment was attached to a small business bill which passed the Senate by a 62-0 vote and was sent to the House for consideration.

Oregon Candidates Agree

SALEM — Oregon's gubernatorial candidates have agreed to a limit of $118,000 each for campaign expenditures. State Treasurer Robert Straub, the Democratic candidate, proposed the limit — which amounts to seven cents per vote cast in the last gubernatorial election. Gov. Tom McCall, a Republican, said he would "take every possible step" to limit his expenses to $118,000. Straub said such a limit would relieve Oregonians of large amounts of campaign verbiage. He said he wants to keep the state from joining the national trend toward enormous campaign spending.

Blacks End Protest March

NEW YORK — About three dozen blacks completed a 300-mile march to New York Friday to protest what they called "American genocide against non-white peoples of the world." The demonstrators, led by the Rev. James Bevel, an aide to the late Martin Luther King, marched across the George Washington Bridge and into Manhattan Friday afternoon.

Americans Called the Mis-Feds

WASHINGTON — Anti-hunger crusader Robert Choate renewed his attack on the nutritional value of many breakfast cereals Friday, and said the U.S. rather than being the best-fed nation in the world may be the most mis-fed. James McFarland, board chairman of General Mills, agreed with Choate that nutrition education in the U.S. "Has a long way to go." But he defended the record of the cereal industry in promoting such education, and pledged its willingness to do even more.

Regents Await Rule on Davis

Associated Press

A federal judge took under submission Friday a motion to dismiss Angela Davis' suit to force University of California regents to renew her one-year contract to teach philosophy at the UCLA campus.

The suit was filed before Miss Davis, 26, a black militant, was charged with murder and kidnap in the Aug. 7 shootout that killed a judge and three others at the San Rafael Courthouse.

Authorities say she provided the guns used in the abortive escape attempt. She fled after the incident and subsequently was placed on the FBI's 10 most wanted list.

AT A hearing Friday in San Francisco, U.S. District Court Judge Albert C. Wollenberg heard arguments on the regents' request for dismissal of the suit and a summary judgment in their favor. Miss Davis' attorney, John McTernan of Los Angeles, moved that any dismissal be without prejudice.

He told the court he had no idea where Miss Davis, a self-described Communist, is and had last had contact with her June 30 except for a telephone call before the San Rafael shootout.

Miss Davis was named an assistant philosophy professor at UCLA in July 1969 at a salary of $10,260. Her contract was terminated by the regents after she made several public speeches but a Los Angeles court ordered her reinstated.

WHEN the regents refused to renew her contract, which expired in June, she filed suit claiming a violation of her rights to free speech and equal protection.

Donald Reidhaar, attorney for the regents, noted Miss Davis was charged with capital offenses and said the request for judgment was based mainly on grounds she is not available to perform the contract she seeks.

McTernan said his client's disappearance may have been for reasons other than guilt. "She may feel she could not get a fair trial at San Rafael and she is frightened," he said.

Deputies Get Raise, End Strike

United Press International

Sheriff's deputies in Santa Barbara County ended a 24-hour strike Friday when the county supervisors unanimously voted them a 12 1/2 percent pay raise and other fringe benefits.

The supervisors accepted the recommendation of Administrative Officer Raymond B. Johnson, who worked it out in a negotiating session Thursday night in conference with representatives of the deputies.

The deputies returned to work immediately.

It was the first time sheriff's employees have struck in this state. Gov. Ronald Reagan had sent California Highway Patrolmen in to provide law enforcement to the county during the strike.

Police officers in Antioch, Vallejo, and Monterey have gone out on strike within the past year.

Deputies had demanded a 15 per cent pay increase and time and a half for overtime. The current scale ranges from $690 to $830 a month.

Watson, a Zero in 1st Appearance

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Charles "Tex" Watson, the fifth member of Charles Manson's "family" charged with murder, made his first appearance in the Tate-LaBianca murder trial Friday but refused to give even his name.

The six-foot Texan, a former star athlete, who has successfully fought extradition for the past nine months, appeared in the Los Angeles Superior Court Department 104 as tempers flared between defense and prosecuting attorneys.

Two motions for mistrial were denied and a shouting match between three defense attorneys highlighted the close of the fifteenth week of the trial of the long-haired sex guru and three of his girl disciples — Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten.

Watson appeared smiling and gaunt as he entered the courtroom to be greeted by smiles and waves from his former "family" members.

HIS APPEARANCE, however, triggered an outburst from Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, who objected because the Texan's appearance was "prejudicial."

"I will ask for a mistrial if Tex Watson is brought before the jury," Kanarek shouted to Superior Court Judge Charles Older. "It's a show. There's no probative value whatsoever. It's like a vaudeville show."

Kanarek's objection was overruled, but he requested the mistrial in an after-bench conference. It also was denied.

Prosecution witness Danny DeCarlo, a former Manson "family" member, was asked to identify Watson as being at the ranch during the time of the Tate-LaBianca killings in August, 1969.

DeCarlo identified Watson, who was asked by Older to stand and give his name. Watson stood mute. After Watson was taken from the courtroom Kanarek continued cross-examining DeCarlo about a conversation which he claims was interrupted by Dep. Dist. Atty. Vincent Bugliosi, the prosecutor.

Bugliosi, whose temper has flared often during the lengthy trial, jumped to his feet, shouting, "It's Mr. Kanarek who has been interrupting me."

The young prosecutor then apparently made an additional aside to Kanarek.

The hasty defense attorney claimed Bugliosi's conduct was "unbecoming a lawyer in a courtroom."

"YOUR CONDUCT is grounds for disbarment," Bugliosi shouted in reply.

At that point, another defense attorney, Donald Hughes, requested a mistrial, claiming Bugliosi's statement prejudiced the case.

Older finally restored order and Kanarek resumed cross-examining the 26-year-old DeCarlo whose testimony has been most damning thus far to Manson.

DeCarlo earlier testified that he brought guns to the Spahn ranch, headquarters for the Manson family at the time of the killings, over the objections of the hippie leader.

"WEREN'T you jealous of Charles Manson because of the attention given to him by the girls," Kanarek asked.

"Naw, there were enough girls to go around," DeCarlo replied. "I had the time of my life there."

In earlier testimony Friday, DeCarlo admitted that he had had three charges against him dismissed because of his testimony in the Gary Hinman murder case but denied that he had been promised anything for his testimony in the Tate-LaBianca murder case.

"My agreement with the D.A. was that if I testified they'd drop the charges (in the Robert Beaudouille trial). I had agreed to do it before they offered it."

wasn't in return for anything. I would have testified anyway."

Charges of grand theft, receiving stolen property and possession of marijuana were dismissed following DeCarlo's testimony in the Beausoleil trial. Beausoleil was formerly a member of Manson's "family" who was convicted and sent to death for the Hinman killing.

MANSON, Miss Atkins, and Bruce Davis, who is still being sought by police, are also charged in the Hinman killing.

DeCarlo said there are three charges currently pending against him, including a federal charge of the illegal registration of a firearm.

DeCarlo has listed his occupation as that of a gunsmith in Medford, Ore.

At one point during defense attorney Dave Shinn's cross-examination, Kanarek objected to DeCarlo being considered a gun expert.

DeCarlo turned his head, spit on the floor, and uttered an obscenity. Then, as Kanarek rose to object to the obscenity, DeCarlo pointed the gun used in the Tate killings at the defense attorney, cocked the hammer and pulled the trigger.

The click silenced Kanarek.

DeCarlo is expected to undergo further cross-examination when court resumes Monday. Thirty more prosecution witnesses are expected to be called to the stand, followed by at least a dozen defense witnesses.

Sculpture Show Petition Denied

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

A suit seeking to force the showing of a controversial sculpture exhibit at California State College at Long Beach was denied Friday by a Los Angeles Superior Court judge.

The decision by Judge Richard Schauer upheld State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke's blockage of the exhibit May 24, 1968.

One of the plaintiffs in the suit filed in February 1969 was graduate art student William Spater, whose nude sculptures in a master's exhibit were barred from public showing.

The case was tried on declarations and affidavits from the chancellor's office and from plaintiffs Spater, Paul Versailles, student; Stephen Werhick, associate professor of art, and Kenneth Appelgate, history department chairman.

The suit was filed through the American Civil Liberties Union on behalf of Spater, a 1968 graduate with a master's degree in art.

Exhibition of the series of lifesize nude sculptures was first scheduled for one week under "limited conditions" and in accordance with rules governing all master's showings but was blocked despite widespread student and faculty support.

Blockage of the showing was followed by student rallies and demonstrations, including a mill-in at the campus administration building which resulted in the arrests of 42 students and one instructor.

LONG GM STRIKE SEEN

365,200 Receive Last Full Check

DETROIT (AP) — Approximately 365,200 striking and laid-off workers of General Motors Corp. in the United States and Canada drew their last full week's pay Friday for what may be a long, long time.

The paychecks covered work done last week, the last full week of work before the United Auto Workers struck GM at midnight Monday in support of new contract demands.

THE AVERAGE hourly pay of auto industry workers is $4.02, thus the average paycheck contained $160.80 — before deductions for taxes. Only last Monday's pay will be forthcoming for the idled next Friday.

And then, after workers return to their jobs, it will be two weeks before they're paid again, since Friday's payouts cover the previous, not the current week.

While no one can foretell the length of the strike for certain, most informed sources predict it possibly will extend beyond the seven weeks it will take strike benefits to empty the union's $120 million treasury.

First strike benefits aren't payable until Sept. 29 — 10 days hence. And then they'll fall far short of the normal paycheck.

374 PW Letters in the Mail

NEW YORK (AP) — The 374 letters written by U.S. prisoners of war and seized by Customs agents Wednesday from a delegation of young leftists "are in the mail" to wives and families of the servicemen, a delegation spokesman said Friday.

Robert Scheer, 34, deputy chief of the U.S. People's Anti-Imperialist Delegation, an 11-member group recently back from a trip to China, said the letters were mailed immediately after their return by the government. Still being held is film carried back by the group.

SCHEER, wearing a Chinese-made Mao tunic, told a news conference that the delegation toured North Vietnam, North Korea and China during the three-month trip, meeting in Hanoi with Pham Van Dong, premier of North Vietnam.

He added the delegation planned to distribute pamphlets and books "on how to make a revolution," working in conjunction with the Black Panther party on campuses throughout the United States.

Traveling in the delegation to Southeast Asia with Scheer were Black Panthers Elaine Brown and Eldridge Cleaver, the latter a U.S. fugitive and head of the party's International Section.

Cleaver did not return with the delegation, sending instead tape-recorded messages addressed to his mother and members of the Black Panther party, Scheer said.

Bellflower Tot Killed by Car

A 2-year-old Bellflower boy was fatally injured Friday when he ran into the street in front of his home and was struck by a car.

Martin J. Garcia, of 9328 Ramona St., died at Bellflower Community Hospital at 6:50 p.m., almost an hour after the accident.

Deputy David Gardner said young Garcia dashed between two parked cars into the path of an auto driven by Larry D. John, 24, of 9116 Artesia Blvd., Bellflower. John was not cited or held.

PEACE TALKS HOPES DIM

ly four hours with Rogers at the State Department, emerged at the end of the day with general praise for her Washington reception.

Nixon and Rogers showed a "spirit of real friendship and real understanding" about Israel's problems, she said. But while claiming "we haven't disagreed on anything," she declined to say that the Nixon Administration backs Israel's position about the missile withdrawal. Privately, U.S. authorities say it would be unrealistic to expect Moscow and Cairo to roll back the missile buildup.

Earlier Mrs. Meir told a news conference she found in the President "a sincere desire to help Israel in any way that the United States can."

While refusing to be specific, she said she reached a full understanding with Nixon on Israel's needs for assistance.

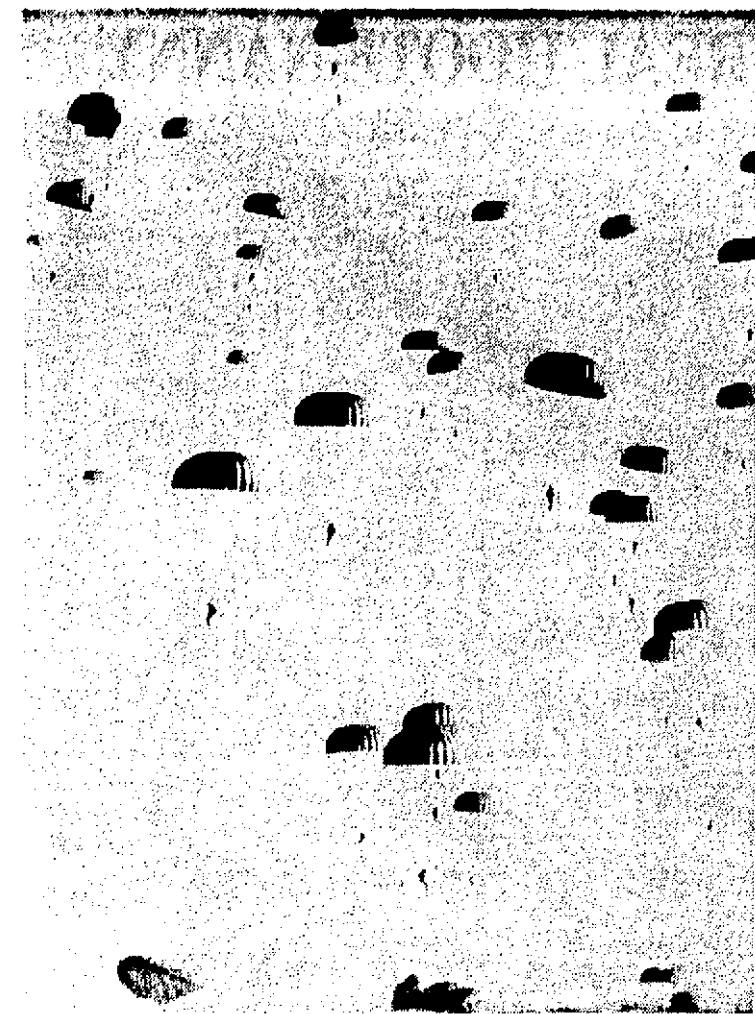

Under questioning she charged both Russia and Egypt with not acting in good faith when they accepted the U.S. cease-fire and military standstill proposals.

SHE HAD been asked for an assessment of their intent in moving missiles in the prohibited cease-fire zone and whether Egypt or Russia encouraged the other to violate the standstill agreement.

"The only interpretation one can give," she said, "is that they did not sign the agreement in good faith and wanted to use the cease-fire to build up the missile system. They had the intention of coming into the period of peace (the cease-fire) to renew the war."

"Not only did Egypt agree to the cease-fire and the standstill but so did the Soviet Union. And no matter who encouraged whom they are both culprits."

JORDAN CIVIL WAR

American casualties as a result of the fighting.

The U.S. Navy helicopter carrier Guam, carrying 1,500 Marines, led other units of the Atlantic Fleet toward the Mediterranean Friday to reinforce the 6th Fleet. A Defense Department spokesman in Washington described the movement as a "precautionary" step in the event the evacuation of civilians from Jordan becomes necessary.

A State Department spokesman in Washington left open the possibility of military intervention to rescue American civilians if the guerrillas succeeded in overthrowing the government of King Hussein. In addition to the 390 American nationals in Jordan, the guerrillas also are holding a number of Americans among the 54 hostages taken from three airliners hijacked Sept. 6.

The Palestinian Red Crescent Society, Moslem world equivalent of the Red Cross, said Friday night hundreds of persons had been killed and thousands wounded in the civil war and Amman "is burning with phosphorous bombs."

THE RED Crescent, broadcasting over a Damascus-based guerrilla radio, appealed to the International Red Cross to dispatch immediate relief to the wounded, who it said were without medical aid.

Arab guerrillas, in a statement, said the Jordanian army bombarded the huge Al-Baqaa refugee camp on Amman's outskirts with incendiary bombs Friday night, but gave no further details on the fighting.

and other high U.S. officials, Mrs. Meir was urged to go ahead with Arab-Israeli peace talks and received assurances of further U.S. backing and economic aid.

There has been no indication that Egypt would move any of the missiles against which Israel, with U.S. support, has protested.

Mrs. Meir promised, "Israel will not renew the fighting, unless it has a very good reason for doing it . . . if Egypt falls in love with the cease-fire as we did there will be no problem of maintaining the peace."

SHE WAS pressed repeatedly — and refused — to report what she may have learned about Jordan from Nixon and Secretary of State William P. Rogers and to assess the prospects of foreign intervention.

She said Israel's interest is in a stable government in Jordan but she declined

Official Soviet commentators Friday suggested the fighting between Arabs in Jordan might offer a pretext for American and British intervention and called 6th Fleet movements in the Mediterranean and British military preparations on Cyprus "alarming symptoms."

Alexander Slopak, commentator for the official Soviet news agency Tass, said in an analysis "any attempts at intervention . . . will entail a worsening of the conflict which may then overstep the borders of Jordan."

THE FIGHTING in Jordan was reported to have spread during the day.

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — The Libyan government canceled Friday $24 million worth of aid to Jordan and formally protested what it called the attempt by Jordanian troops to "crush" the Palestinian revolution.

The guerrillas claimed to have seized control of Mafraq, 32 miles north of Amman. The town is the site of Iraqi troop concentrations and has an air strip.

At the United Nations, delegates from Syria, Kuwait, Morocco and Egypt warned of the "serious implications" of any intervention by Israel or the Western powers in what they said was "exclusively an intra-Arab question."

An Arab correspondent who got a message out of Amman said "losses of lives are increasing with astonishing speed and the figure of wounded among civilians is reaching the tens of thousands." Cairo newspapers said the death toll could reach as high as 20,000 to 30,000 with army tanks and artillery shelling guerrilla headquarters and refugee camps.

There were these related developments:

—In London, Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas Home conferred separately with visiting Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban and Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Smirnovski. No details were disclosed.

—Anti-Jordanian demonstrations flared in Lebanon, Syria, Algeria, Britain and the Soviet Union. Palestinians staged sit-downs in several embassies and vowed to remain until the Jordanian government was overthrown.

—Libya announced it would cut off its financial aid to Jordan amounting to $21 million annually until the Jordanian situation is clarified.

Israel Sees New Suez Violation

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Israel charged in a new complaint Friday the Egyptians were continuing to construct sites for Soviet surface-to-air missiles in an area within 19 miles of the west bank of the Suez Canal in violation of the cease-fire.

A military spokesman said the complaint, 16th lodged by Israel since the Suez cease-fire began Aug. 7, was handed to United Nations observers in Jerusalem.

The complaint did not specify whether the sites were for Egyptian-manufactured SAM-2 missiles or Soviet-manufactured SAM-3s.

One Still Free After Melee

One escapee from the California Youth Authority still was at large Friday after a melee Thursday.

A total of 40 of the inmates of the institution scaled a chain-link fence during the disturbance, but all but Anthony T. Reyna, 20, of Paramount, were rounded up within a few hours.

Assistant Superintendent Dean Fairchild said the disturbance was connected to disorders in the Mexican-American district of Los Angeles.

Cocds Experiment at Male College

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP) — Ten coeds from women's colleges in Virginia are going to attend formerly all-male Davidson College this year as part of an experiment in coeducation.

As the other part, five of Davidson's 1,000 male students will attend Hollins College in Virginia, a female school.

U.S. Airlines Begin Hand-Luggage Search

WASHINGTON (AP) — Customs agents will begin within the week searching all hand luggage carried by passengers boarding international flights at the nation's 33 "gateway" airports, the Treasury Department said Friday.

The new program, designed to thwart potential Arab guerrilla hijackers, has already begun at John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, Dulles International Airport, the department said.

About 10 airports will be added today, with the others to follow next week, a Treasury official said. He would not specify which airports will begin the program on what days.

"The new program will include instructions to customs inspectors to examine the hand baggage of outbound passengers and, whenever appropriate, suspected individuals will be searched for instruments of piracy or sabotage," the announcement said.

Luggage searches for weapons are one more step in the government's attempt to insure that guerrillas do not hijack commercial airliners. It already has begun assigning armed plainclothes guards to some flights.

Before four planes were hijacked from Europe to Jordan and Egypt earlier this month, screening of passengers for potential hijackers and the use of electronic instruments to detect guns or other weapons had begun at some airports. This, however, was designed to ferret out hijackers who wanted to go to Cuba.

Treasury officials said the new inspections would be an expansion of these current measures.

Boy's Sis Helps His Kidnapers

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Police held a 15-year-old Sylmar girl and three older companions Friday in the kidnapping of the girl's 9-year-old brother, who was held for $10,000 ransom, officers said.

Police said the boy, Charles McKinney, was found unharmed in a Hollywood hotel Thursday night after being kidnapped in the morning while walking to school.

Booked for investigation of kidnapping were his sister, Ruth; Kenneth L. Houston, 34; Ralph E. LaRue, 18, and Paula Morrissey, 19.

After preparing a dummy package as the ransom, police chased a car that approached the designated site, fired two shots and arrested Houston and Miss McKinney when their car crashed into a parked car. LaRue and Miss Morrissey were arrested at the hotel.

Nixon Hails 1,000 Aides to Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon entertained more than 1,000 congressional staff members at the White House late Friday, then took off by helicopter for a weekend at Camp David.

He was accompanied by his wife, Pat, daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower, C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo, a close friend, and top staff aides H. R. Halderman and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President told the gathering of top congressional aides — two from each House and Senate member — that he knew how important their jobs were, helping to make Washington and the government understood by the people back in their home districts.

Warren said Nixon planned to stay at the mountaintop presidential retreat until Sunday.

U.S. Sets Piracy Treaty Deadline

MONTREAL (UPI) — The United States warned Friday that it reserves the right to take "any type of unilateral action" if the world community cannot agree on a strong anti-hijacking treaty and set a six-month deadline to put it into effect.

U.S. Transportation Secretary John Volpe, acting as President Nixon's special envoy, told a United Nations agency that the United States wants to see concrete signs at its next meeting — in 10 days — that such an agreement is being worked out.

Volpe delivered the U.S. stand to the 27-nation governing council of the International Civil Aviation Organization, the air travel arm of the United Nations. The U.S. proposal calls for an international agreement on a "prompt and effective quarantine" to seal off from world air traffic any nation that does not punish hijackers.

Such an agreement could deny hijackers a safe refuge in any of the 119 member nations of the organization.

"We would hope we can act in concert with other nations," Volpe said.

"But we are not foreclosing any type of unilateral action on our part if we do not see any sign of firm action by the international aviation community."

Volpe refused to rule out military action by the United States as one possible response to plane hijackings constituting "international blackmail" to achieve political goals.

Q. We have had two more accidents at Third Street and Chestnut Avenue in the last week. The most recent one involved a pedestrian. There have been many injury accidents here. Is it still too much to expect a signal at that intersection? N. N., Long Beach.

A. Signals will be installed there around the first of next year, according to Martin Wallen, city traffic engineer. He said that signals were installed at the intersection of Broadway and Chestnut Avenue in March, and since that time there has been a startling, and unexplainable, increase in accidents at the Third Street and Chestnut Avenue. "After the lights went in on Broadway, motorists started running the stop sign on Chestnut Avenue at Third Street," Wallen said. Larger stop signs and new street markings were placed at the intersection on Aug. 27, as an interim measure until the signals can be installed, Wallen said.

Commissioner of Poetry?

Q. Is there a department or service in Washington D.C., that accepts poetry for publication? I recently heard a radio commentator say that such a department existed. R. S., Long Beach.

A. After checking with several federal offices in Washington, ACTION LINE could not find any department that publishes new poetry. The announcer, however, may have been speaking about the American Literature Anthology that was published annually under the sponsorship of the National Endowment of the Arts. The anthology, edited by George Plimpton, editor of the Paris Review and author of "Paper Lion," and Peter Arter, is a collection of the best works printed in literary magazines throughout the nation. The National Endowment of the Arts, however, no longer sponsors the anthology, so future publication will depend on private grants.

Witness Tells of Seeing Newsman Salazar Shot

By VERN SMITH
Staff Writer

A metal finisher testified Friday that he saw Mexican-American newsman Ruben Salazar struck in the head last Aug. 29 with what was later determined to be a tear gas projectile fired into an East Los Angeles bar by Sheriff's deputies.

George Garcia Munoz Jr. is the first of 20 witnesses in six days of a coroner's inquest to testify to the actual incident that took the life of the 42-year-old Los Angeles Times columnist and news director of television station KMEX.

Munoz told the coroner's jury that at the time of the incident in the Silver Dollar Cafe, 4945 Whittier Blvd., he did not know Salazar by name and he initially assumed the newsman had been struck by a rifle bullet.

Munoz said he first arrived at the cafe around 2 p.m. on the day of the incident, stayed until about 3 or 4, then walked out to Whittier Boulevard to observe "people running up and down the street breaking windows and looting."

MUNOZ SAID he went back inside the bar and again took his seat near the rear of the place.

He said he believed Salazar was among a group of men who entered the cafe a short while later and stood near the bar.

Munoz testified his attention was drawn to Salazar by "the discharge of what I assumed was a rifle."

"It hit Salazar on the left side of the head and he grabbed his head with his hand and slumped to the floor."

After the first shot, Munoz said, "I was just dumbfounded."

A second tear gas projectile landed near where he was seated, Munoz said, and he yelled to a group of women sitting nearby, "Let's get the hell out of here."

Munoz, who will take the stand when the hearing resumes Monday at the Old Hall of Records building in downtown Los Angeles, was not asked by hearing officer Norman Pittuck if he had heard any warnings by sheriff's deputies before he heard the first shot.

HE DID TESTIFY, however, that it was "very peaceful and quiet" in the bar before the first projectile was fired.

Munoz also was not asked if he had seen any men enter the Silver Dollar carrying guns, as other witnesses have alleged. He did say he did not see any men run into the bar.

Before Munoz took the stand in late afternoon, testimony had been dominated for the third straight day by witnesses who produced photographs of deputies' activities at an East Los Angeles park where a rally scheduled following the antiwar march soon erupted in violence and grew into a major riot.

Henry P. Nava, a skills center counselor who presented 21 photographs of activities at Laguna Park, said he could offer no testimony about the Silver Dollar shootings, but Joe Razo, a co-editor of the chicano newspaper La Raza, followed Nava to the stand and testified he was standing outside the bar and heard or saw deputies fire five tear gas missiles into the place.

Razo said the first warning given by deputies came only after the five shots were fired into the cafe. Razo testified that the first two tear gas projectiles were fired into a bar by a deputy standing near the entrance.

RAZO SAID he did not see the deputy fire the first shell into the bar because he was busy loading film into his camera. He said he looked up at the sound of a gun being fired and saw smoke coming from the barrel of a tear gas gun of a deputy standing to the right of the bar's doorway. He said he saw another deputy fire into bar from the left hand side of the entrance.

"There was no warning given whatsoever," Razo said.

Previous witnesses have testified that they heard two or three clear warnings before deputies fired any shots.

Razo said deputies then got into a patrol car and pulled it around to the corner of Whittier Boulevard and Laverne Street, just opposite the front of the Silver Dollar.

Deputies then fired three more projectiles into the bar from where they knelt behind the vehicle's open doors, Razo said.

IT WAS THEN, Razo, a Loyola University law student, continued, that deputies gave a warning over the car's speaker system, that sounded like, "You in there, throw your weapons out — come out with your hands in the air."

The Sheriff's Department earlier issued a statement that deputies approached the bar on a tip that an armed man was inside. A witness testified on the second day of the inquest that he had seen two armed men enter the place and had informed deputies.

A barmaid at the Silver Dollar, who Munoz said served him a beer, testified Monday that she did not see any men enter the cafe with guns.

Nava, the first person to take the witness stand Friday, is the brother of Dr. Julian Nava, the Los Angeles Board of Education president and professor at San Fernando Valley State College in Northridge.

WEARING glasses, sporting a moustache and speaking in a somber tone, Nava described a sweep of Laguna Park by sheriff's deputies as "like a horrible nightmare."

Nava said he took his photographs from the top row of a section of bleachers "about 20 feet up in the air," overlooking a baseball diamond.

His sequence of pictures showed deputies first arriving at the northeast corner of the park in buses, then slowly moving into the area on foot. He said persons "immediately began to retreat at the sight of the advancing officers."

Nava said it soon became evident "that there was going to be violent action taking place." He presented a picture that showed two or three persons sprawled on the park grounds, and said they were among the first to be clubbed by deputies.

"I BEGAN to become horrified at the tremendous number of screams from women and children," Nava said.

At no time during the deputies' advance did he hear orders for the crowd to disperse, he testified.

A sheriff's lieutenant testified last week he had declared an unlawful assembly at the park and ordered the crowd to disperse.

"I was shocked at the manner in which some of the officers were carrying out their duties," Nava said.

At no time during the deputies' advance did he hear orders for the crowd to disperse, he testified.

said. I saw many people being hit and clubbed very energetically."

Nava said he saw some persons charging officers in attempts to fight them off "only with their fists." He said he was "shocked to see people being knocked down in submission, held by two officers, helpless — then a group of four, five or six officers surrounding the individual. . . . Then all I saw were batons going up and down, up and down, as far as they could go."

NAVA'S testimony about the Laguna Park events largely agreed with that of Raul Ruiz, co-editor of La Raza who also claimed that deputies charged into the peaceful crowd without provocation.

Many of the photographs presented by Razo were similar to those presented by Ruiz Thursday. At one point during testimony that centered on the photographs, Razo called deputies a "wolfpack."

One of Razo's pictures showed deputies aiming guns at persons on the front porch of a house near Laguna Park. Razo said that the officers went into the house without knocking to apprehend a member of the crowd who had sought refuge there.

Razo also claimed that a deputy struck a man with the butt of a rifle after refusing a request by the man to be allowed to look for his son, who was somewhere in the area of Whittier Boulevard.

In addition to Munoz, Pittuck ordered three men to return Monday. The three, who say they were with Salazar at the time of his death, are Guillermo Restrepo, a KMEX cameraman, and two of his friends, Hector Franco and Gustavo Garcia.

N.Y. Subway's 1st Bullet-Proof Change Booth

NEW YORK (AP) — The city subway system's first bullet-proof change booth has been put into service at Times Square.

The new booth with walls of 3/4-inch fiberglass and windows of two-inch glass is designed to stem the rising tide of robberies.

The Transit Authority said 461 actual or attempted robberies took place in the first eight months this year as compared with 178 in the same period a year ago.

Geyserville Fire Burns 710 Acres

GEYSERVILLE (UPI) — State Forestry crews Friday contained a brush fire that charred 710 acres of brush and grass land.

The fire broke out Thursday afternoon in a mountainous, sparsely populated area ten miles northwest of Healdsburg.

NO MONKEY BUSINESS

Firemen Nolan Conte and Carl Schul lend aid to Charley, a pet monkey, who was found semi-conscious in the flaming home of his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Minty, 1368 Molino Ave. The Friday night blaze caused extensive damage to the dwelling while the Mintys weren't home. Fire investigators could find no cause for the fire and said it must have been started by Charley, who had broken out of his cage and overturned furniture.

Growers to Fight Lettuce Boycott

SALINAS (AP) — Two western grower organizations announced plans Friday to fight the nationwide boycott called for by farm labor leader Cesar Chavez on all U.S.-grown lettuce that doesn't bear his union's label.

Chavez said Thursday the boycott will focus on 64 cities across the country and "will last until the last lettuce grower is signed" by his United Farm Workers Organizing Committee. UFWOC recently won a five-year battle with the state's table grape growers after employing the same boycott tactics.

Rich Freeland, a spokesman for the California Council of Growers, said his organization will distribute nationwide a brochure answering arguments advanced by Chavez in his call for a boycott.

AT THE SAME time, Freeland said Jack C. Hart, president of the Western Growers Association, has sent a telegram to all major grocery chains in the country, to the National Association of Food Chains, and to all wholesale produce buyers in all major markets promising that "every conceivable action will immediately be taken to counteract the boycott move."

Freeland said the California Council of Growers, with headquarters in San Mateo, represents about 18,000 growers throughout the state.

He said the Western Growers Association represents about 5,000 growers in California and Arizona.

Chavez has called for a boycott of all lettuce that does not bear the black Aztec eagle on a red background which is the mark of his union. The Salinas Valley produces 70 per cent of the solid-head lettuce grown in the nation.

The UFWOC strike has slowed shipments of lettuce from last year's high of 242,000 cartons of 24 heads each to around 195,000 daily. Prices have doubled in some places.

ONLY ONE major grower in this area has signed with Chavez, but this firm, Interharvest, Inc., a subsidiary of United Fruit

Co., produces roughly one-third of the lettuce grown here.

Governor Signs Oil Drilling Ban

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday signed a bill designed to halt the award of new offshore oil drilling leases from Monterey Bay to the Oregon border.

The bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, places a five-year moratorium on the award of offshore and submerged land oil leases in San Mateo, San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Napa, Alameda, Santa Clara, Del Norte, Solano and Contra Costa counties.

The measure includes the San Francisco Bay up to the Carquinez bridges.

The effect, combined with current state law, would be to halt the award of oil and gas leases by the State Lands Commission along the entire coast from Monterey Bay to the Oregon state line.

Reagan also signed two bills by Sen. Donald Grunsky, R-Watsonville, ensuring all of San Luis Obispo County is included in the sanctuary where oil development is restricted.

GARDEN JOBS TO DO NOW

Continue staking, disbudding, and tying mums. Feed the ones whose flower buds haven't shown color. Watch for pests and if any are found spray the plants.

Scale insects on citrus, gardenias, oleanders and other plants should be sprayed with an oil spray if weather is not hotter than around 75 degrees. Usually there's a break in hot weather for a few days.

Feed St. Augustine, hybrid bermuda, and the common bermuda (devil grass) with a fertilizer formulated for coarse-bladed lawns because it contains a higher nitrogen content than the usual turf fertilizers. The lawn should be thoroughly watered a day or two before feeding. Apply fertilizer when leaves are dry, then water in well.

Don't wait until fall to set out a ground cover planting. Plant it soon as possible to give the roots a good start before cold weather slows down the growth.

IT'S TIME TO PRUNE FLOWERING SHRUBS

By EARL ARONSON
Newsfeatures

After blossom time, flowering shrubs should be given their annual pruning to keep them in shape and to encourage development of new wood. It also will encourage vigorous growth.

Azaleas should be pruned lightly, thinning dense surface growth and removing dead wood. Andromeda may be reduced in height by fairly heavy pruning. Rhododendron seldom needs pruning. If you do trim, cut only above the whorls of leaves.

KEEP YOUR beauty bush in bounds by reducing the number of old canes. Be careful in thinning lilac since blossoms appear on two and three-year old wood. Deutzia should be shaped but not pruned heavily.

Flowering almond's old wood should be pruned each year and flowering wood trimmed back after flowering. Long shoots of forsythia should be cut back and old wood thinned at ground level. Weigela canes need thinning and flowering branches should be reduced to encourage strong wood for next year's bloom.

As far as evergreens are concerned, prune to remove winter-killed areas and to shape and promote thick growth. Pine, fir, and spruce develop compactness when half to three-fourths of new growth are removed. Hemlocks become bushier when tops are cut.

PLANT PSYCHOLOGY

Fertilize Flower's Ego, by All Means

Editor's note: For the past several years theories which property plants and animals with qualities usually associated with the human have become popular. Milk cows have been subjected to the calming influence of chamber music, and plants have been treated as though they could be psychoanalyzed. In the following study the jargon of the times is applied to the gardener's more enduring problems. If any of these are solved it is purely coincidental.

By MICHAEL KRUGLAK
Staff Writer

Plant psychiatrists are hailing as a great breakthrough through experiments aimed at integrating Eupychian, B-psychological and metamotivational superstructures with what is already known about those physical forces such as fertilizers and soil additives that contribute to a plant's growth and well-being.

The starting point is the assumption that the basic needs of a plant, like those of a human, are life, safety, security, belonging, affection, respect and self-respect, and finally, self-actualization.

How then can you help your plant realize these goals and fulfill its potential?

First, you must understand that deficiency-need gratification and growth-need gratification have different subjective and objective effects on the personality of your plant, and if your plant is to achieve health and a properly integrated personality, its deficiency needs must be either satisfied or sublimated. Its ego too must be fertilized.

A deficiency-need motivated plant can never be a healthy plant, can never achieve a sense of oneness with the universe, because it is ever afraid of its environment, living as it does in a constant state of anxiety-dependence and repressed hostility.

As long as your plant is trapped in the vicious cycle of deficiency-need motivation, it will evade personal growth out of a feeling of awe, weakness and inadequacy. It will deny its finest side, its potential, for growth, and in sum, struggle against its own potential for greatness; the fear of hubris.

Just as the negative aspects of the crisis of identity of your plant produce a life of role confusion, paranoia and neurosis (one can only pity the shrinking violet) so does the quest for external validity in your plant's drive for self-actualization contain an inner dynamic of its own, and indeed, its own rewards.

Preliminary experiments with plants indicate a kind of dynamic parallelism or isomorphism between the inner and the outer. This is to say that as the essential Being of the world is perceived by your plant, so also does it concurrently come closer to its own Being.

As it reaches toward the goal of self-actualization, your plant will experience an expansion of consciousness as its powers come together in a particular efficient and intensely enjoyable way.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD.

Larry Sisk a hobby gardener, dahlia fancier, and dahlia show judge recognized the unselfish blooming performance of the Zonal Geraniums. Having checked up on a number of low shrubs and herbaceous plants, he decided to grow a row of geraniums in front of the large shrubs that provide screening on his back yard.

The expense of the green lawn is bordered by the house and on three other sides by a wall of natural stones supporting the higher level of the garden where those plants are growing.

THE GERANIUMS seem impervious to an invasion of shrubs roots, grow well and blossom for long periods of time. The colors of orange, pink, red, rose and white show off well against the green shrubbery background.

Sisk also grows geraniums in pots. Visitors are surprised, when having admired a particular color of geranium, they are offered a potted plant to grow in their own garden.

Geranium hobbyists may differ in the culture care of these colorful bloomers. Geraniums grow in fairly well-drained garden soil, not too rich as the foliage becomes lush and there's a paucity of flowers.

The plants grow best in full sun, but grow fairly well in areas of up to half shade. Blossoms of those growing in sectors having intense summer sunshine tend to fade and may not attain full maximum size. In these areas they should be grown in partial shade.

GERANIUMS . . . Grow Well And Bloom For Long Periods of Time

POTTED geraniums are fine plants for the sunny patio or porch, or are handy to have around to plant in garden areas where quick color is desired.

These are several perennials too that are long-blooming season plants, and may be set out any time of the year. One of the foremost perennials that bloom off and on year around is Dianthus Rose Marie! But they are hard to find nurseries. The rose-color blossom have a light spicy fragrance.

Vinca rosea-Madagascar periwinkle in dwarf form or the large, white or bright pink varieties are unselfish bloomers throughout the summer season.

So far as we know, yellow flowered Primavera chrysanthemum is the only cushion mum that produces two to three crops of blossoms annually.

All three of these plants, Dianthus Rose Marie, Vinca Rosea and Primavera mum grow in full sun yet do well in up to half shade, and are good pot plants.

Cactophile Grows 1,400 Different Types, Some Too Rare to Sell

LAUCERNE VALLEY — Gil Tegelberg admits it: he's a cactophile. He loves cactus.

Here in the desert about 30 miles east of San Bernardino, Tegelberg grows 1,400 different types of cacti, all sizes and shapes, from all parts of the Western Hemisphere.

With 6,500 square feet of greenhouses, his collection at Tegelberg Cactus Gardens is one of the largest in the world.

Although he works out of love, there is a profit to be made.

HE SAYS he can't keep up with the business from plant dealers. Some plants sell for $5 each, others at $500 each. And still others are too rare to sell.

One rarity is a type first discovered in Brazil about 50 years ago which never was cultivated.

But Tegelberg bought old seeds and succeeded in growing and breeding the plants. Soon he will have enough to begin selling them.

Another scarce strain is a three-foot specimen from southwest Africa, said to be the first type of seed bearing plant.

There also is a Mammillaria Tegelbergiana and a Ferobergia Gil Tegelberg. Both are obviously named for him, the first because he discovered it in Mexico, the second because it's a hybrid he created from two other cacti.

BUT HIS favorite, he says, is a foot-high variety which sprouts what looks like a white, woolly beard. It's soft enough to touch and fine enough to comb. He nicknamed them "old men" and jokes: "I'm teaching one to talk."

Growing cacti has been a lifelong occupation for Tegelberg, who has lived in Lucerne Valley with his wife and son since 1958. He says he inherited a love for plants from his mother.

Regents Urged to Stop Politicking at Irvine

United Press International

Regents of the University of California, who Thursday reaffirmed the school's nonpolitical stance, were accused Friday of playing politics at the Irvine campus in Orange County.

Regent Norton Simon Friday criticized a plan recommended by University President Charles Hitch which would line up the university with a land development company proposal to enlarge the city of Irvine from a planned population of 100,000 on 10,000 acres to a city with a projected population of 430,000 on 53,000 acres.

The university also would join with the developer, the Irvine Company, in resisting annexation of the area by adjoining cities such as Newport Beach.

"WE ARE asked to make a political decision against Newport Beach without knowing why," said Simon.

He succeeded by an 8-7 vote in getting the proposal delayed until the next meeting of the regents Oct. 15-16. Public hearings on the Irvine plan will be held by the Orange County Planning Commission in November.

Lyndol L. Young of Los Angeles, attorney for Mrs.

Joan Irvine Smith, granddaughter of James Irvine, offered his explanation of "why" at an impromptu news conference.

Young had set forth his views in a nine-page statement.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday praised guidelines laid down by the University of California to keep the university politically neutral. "These guidelines are evidence that there is a new awareness of the seriousness of the problem and that there's going to be a change," Reagan said.

ment to the regents but was not allowed to address the board, meeting in San Francisco.

"IT'S A political shindig," he fumed. "It is strictly a political matter from top to bottom and the regents should keep out of it."

Young said the Irvine Foundation has been ordered by the federal government to divest itself of its 53.7 per cent interest in the Irvine Company.

"The foundation is interested in forming a city which will encompass most of the Irvine Ranch. They want to set up their own government — their own political entity," Young said.

"They are ramrodding it through because the make-up of the Orange County Board of Supervisors will change after the November elections. There has been a lot of talk of hijacking lately. And that is what the James Irvine Foundation is doing — it is attempting to hijack the Irvine Ranch."

MEANWHILE inside the meeting room, Simon was engaging in a confrontation with Regent Board President William French Smith over Simon's remark at the July regents' meeting that "some people have been caught with their hands in the cookie jar" in connection with the Irvine property.

Smith, who refrained from entering the discussion on the Irvine issue and abstained from voting because his law firm represents the Irvine Company, told Simon he should retract the "cookie jar" statement, offer proof or "you have forfeited your credibility."

"I have made no explicit charges on any individual," replied Simon.

Regent Edward Carter, who is on the board of directors of the Irvine Foundation, also stayed out of the discussions and abstained from the vote.

WOODY'S WORLD

"Bear just loves to listen to these fairy tales. . . Say, I thought you two were going fishing."

SAVIO TO RETURN TO UC AS STUDENT

BERKELEY (AP) — Mario Savio, forceful leader of the 1964 Free Speech Movement, said Friday he will return to the University of California this fall as a student.

In a telephone interview, Savio said he will re-enter classes which begin Oct. 5 for 28,000 Berkeley students.

Asked if he would again enter the campus political arena, Savio replied, "I am going back as a student."

A UNIVERSITY spokesman confirmed Savio's readmission as a junior in biological sciences.

"In applying for readmission Mr. Savio provided clear evidence of serious interest in pursuing academic studies at the university," the Berkeley administration said late Friday.

"He had already begun such studies by auditing courses without credit."

Clean Exhaust Date Can Be Met--Muskie

As Los Angeles smarted under its third consecutive day of heavy smog, Sen. Edward Muskie said Friday the auto industry could and would meet the deadline for emission standards set in his clean air bill now pending in the Senate.

The bill would set Jan. 1, 1975, as deadline for the auto industry to reduce auto emissions to 90 per cent of the present permitted level. Senate approval appears excellent, said Muskie, D-Maine.

But the outlook when it hits a congressional conference committee is not as good, he said, noting that a similar bill passed by the House contained no such deadline.

deadlines would be impossible to meet, Muskie said he was amazed at the statement.

"I don't believe the auto industry is that ineffective that it can't meet the deadline," he said. "It can and will meet it."

Muskie also noted another deadline in the bill which would require cities and counties to regulate air pollution within their limits to meet national health standards.

BECAUSE of the great numbers of used cars which do not have emission control devices, this would be the tougher of the two deadlines to meet, he said. He said it would require changes in driving, industrial and residential patterns.

As Unruh continued his campaign with an evening party, a poll was released in Sacramento which the Ingelwood Assemblyman said shows he has made a "substantial gain" on his front-running opponent, Republican incumbent Ronald Reagan.

The Opinion Research, Inc., poll taken early this month in 1,267 interviews shows Reagan leading with 48.3 per cent, Unruh preferred by 39.7 per cent of those polled and 12 per cent undecided.

L.A.-ORANGE CO. FUNDED AS U.S. RETRAINING AREA

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday picked three major metropolitan areas with high aerospace unemployment to take part in a $9 million federally-funded manpower program.

The areas and approximate grant amounts are: Los Angeles-Orange Counties, $5.4 million; Santa Clara County, $1.7 million and San Diego County, $1.9 million.

Reagan said the aim is to retrain aerospace workers out of that economically depressed industry into other, higher-demand industries.

The California projects, he said, are part of a $25 million national effort to stem critical jobless problems.

Keep your lawn greener this fall.

Spread Scotts new Super Turf Builder now at big savings.

Gives double the greening power of long-famous Turf Builder • prolonged steady feeding

Whether your lawn is grass, dichondra, or a mixture, one thing is certain — it will benefit greatly from a feeding right now with Scotts SUPER TURF BUILDER. New Super Turf Builder contains double the greening power of famous Turf Builder. It goes right to work helping both grass and dichondra recuperate from summer's wear and tear.

Because Super Turf Builder is made by Scotts exclusive new Polyform process, it releases its nutrients almost reluctantly. This means there's no "surge growth" to cause extra mowing. Instead, it develops sturdy root growth, a prerequisite of all good California lawns.

Convenient to Use
Super Turf Builder is a pleasure to use. It's clean, odor-free and easy to handle. Its white granules are easier to see when applying which helps prevent missed streaks on your lawn.

You can spread new Super Turf Builder in any weather, without danger of burning your grass or dichondra. It doesn't need to be watered in.

The Time to Buy!
Super Turf Builder is a bargain anytime. It's a special bargain now, during Scotts 100th Anniversary Sale. Spread a bag this weekend. Enjoy the benefits yet this fall — and next spring, too.

64 Enlisted Men Feted at White Hat Banquet

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Long Beach's top enlisted men were spotlighted at Friday night's 10th annual Independent Business Men's Association White Hat Award Banquet at the Lafayette.

Present were 61 of the 114 honorees from the area's Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard units. And their ranks included a woman.

Storekeeper Leona Trojan, an IBM computer operator from the Navy supply unit at El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, was rewarded with a thunderous ovation when Tom Franden, the master of ceremonies, called her name. It was only the second time for a woman to be so honored.

Miss "White Hat" Patty Long and Princesses Sharon Kishwara and Diane Hernandez presented engraved certificates to the winners as the spotlight picked them up in the audience.

The handsome parchments were signed by their commanding officers. Other signatures included those of Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade, who earlier had read a proclamation designating Sept.

18 as "White Hat Day in Long Beach"; IBMA President Roland Baker and Rear Adm. H. V. Bird, Naval Base commander.

The winners, all from the first six enlisted grades, were chosen by their commands.

The Navy's Master Chief Petty Officer Delbert D. Black, was the speaker for the fourth successive year.

"You are the quality people the Navy needs," he told the award recipients.

"There are going to be less people in the Navy of the 70s, but better people, such as you here tonight," he added.

Chief Black, who will retire next March, said:

"The new chief of naval operations (Adm. Elmo Zumwalt) is 'people oriented' and realizes that for the Navy to function as it should in this decade it must accept changes for the better. Daily the Navy is doing so."

Private Aid Asked for CSLB

By TOM WILLMAN
Staff Writer

Public colleges must look increasingly to private sources for financial aid to education, California State College at Long Beach President Stephen Horn told members of the Downtown Lions Club Friday.

Horn, who spoke at a Lions champagne reception and luncheon in his honor said:

"If private institutions are to look increasingly for support from public sources, so must we public institutions look increasingly to private sources."

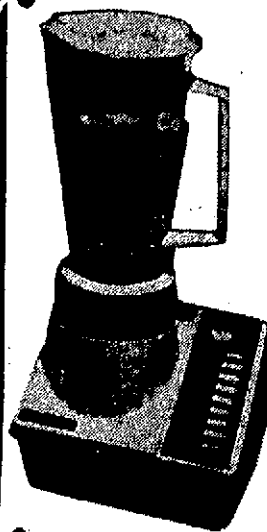

CSLB's new president also briefed club members on "the state of the college", and thanked them for contributing to the financially-pressed Long Beach Free Clinic, which recently moved to 1228 Pine Ave.

"Now, I know that in some quarters the Free Clinic is still controversial," said Horn, "but our students participate in it because they believe it fulfills a real need in the community."

"When a downtown service club supports a project originated by young people, they are smart enough to conclude that maybe the system does work, maybe the establishment is not so bad after all."

Horn also extended an invitation to Lions Club members to a campus-community convocation, scheduled Sept. 30 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the campus.

The convocation offers citizens opportunities to view regular classroom sessions, hear the opinions of student leaders and administrators, and discuss issues with faculty members.

Ditch Dam Stops Oil

By JACK BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

A brush dam across a drainage ditch stopped more than 1,500 barrels of crude oil from flowing to sea after a break in an underground pipeline in La Habra Friday.

The crude oil, which was being pumped from Shell Oil Co.'s tank farm to its Carson refinery, bubbled to the surface near Idaho Street and Imperial Avenue.

A leak was suspected shortly after noon when pipeline pressure dropped. Pumping was halted while crews began tracing the pipeline route.

But a construction crew spotted the oil leak first.

Ralph Wells, a warden for the state Department of Fish and Game, said the oil had flowed into an open drainage ditch and was trapped behind a natural dam of shrubs, bushes and debris three quarters of a mile downstream.

Firemen sprayed foam on the oil and an oil clean-up company sucked more than 700 barrels into eight vacuum trucks dispatched to the scene.

CREA President Calls for Short Money Remedies

The president of the California Real Estate Association, Melvin L. Mould of Long Beach, has outlined a seven-point attack to overcome the shortage of mortgage money.

Speaking before officers and members of several Boards of Realtors gathered for a district meeting, the head of the 50,000-member association called on federal and state governments to take these actions:

1. Raise savings and loan association rates paid investors to allow competition for the investment dollar.
2. Issue tax exempt certificates of deposit for mortgage investment purposes with a $1,000 minimum purchase requirement.
3. Raise the minimum purchase requirement on government notes and U.S. Treasury bills to $25,000.
4. Lengthen FHA mortgage amortization schedules from 30 years to 35 or 40 years as a means of allowing more potential buyers to qualify. Due dates would remain at 30 years.
5. Create a state secondary mortgage market similar to the Federal National Mortgage Association.
6. Create incentives for pension fund investment in home mortgages.
7. Establish a minimum mortgage investment requirement for insurance companies licensed to operate in the state.

MOULD denounced the recent increase in FHA and FHA interest rates from 7½ to 8½ per cent. "It's inflationary," he said, "and will not cause more money to flow into the mortgage market, the announced purpose."

"As long as the government is in direct competition with the private sector for money," he added, "and is willing to pay an extremely high price for it, that's where the money is going. Raising the interest rates won't change that."

He commented that the 6 per cent certificate of deposit for mortgage investment purposes recently created by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board was self-defeating because of a $10,000 minimum purchase requirement. He advocated lowering that to $1,000 to allow the small investor to buy.

"TREASURY bills and government notes," he said, "can be bought in minimums of $1,000 to $5,000, depending on where you do your shopping. And they pay from 7 to 8 per cent.

"Here," he commented, "is a perfect example of our federal fiscal policy in action. It creates a special mortgage money instrument paying 8 per cent and puts a $10,000 minimum on it. Then it offers short-term treasury bills paying considerably more than that, with a small minimum requirement, to the small investor," siphoning money from housing into government spending.

He lauded proposals by state legislators and others to create a secondary mortgage market in California and tied it in with using pension funds for the purpose. "ONE method," he suggested, "might be to issue state treasury debentures, bought by pension funds, then putting those funds into the secondary mortgage market."

On extending house payment schedules, he said a 30-year amortization, a family applying for a $22,000 FHA loan must have debt-free income of $840 a month. Not many buyers with that income will accept a house in that price range, he said.

"Let's base the monthly payments on a 35 or 40 year amortization schedule," he suggested. "The average loan actually exists for only 13 years anyway. Then the home buyer will be able to qualify as a purchaser of that house."

IF SOME of his proposals or similar ones are not put into effect, Mould said, "one day we are going to hear government say to the private sector: 'Okay, fellows, we need the housing and you're not providing it, so government is going to do it.'"

"This is the excuse that will be used," he contended, "and this will be one more giant step toward socialism in this country, which we want to avoid."

Commenting on the need for tax reform to give tax relief to the property owner, Mould listed guidelines CREA will use to evaluate such proposals, either through direct ballot measures or by the legislature.

He gave these CREA requirements:

1. Establish a tax ceiling of 1 per cent of the property's cash value.
  2. Abolish tax exemptions where feasible.
  3. Avoid property transfer taxes.
  4. Avoid using property taxes for school support and welfare.
  5. Establish a statewide property tax allocated to local governments with offsetting reductions in local property taxes.
  6. Consolidate overlapping governmental jurisdictions if a statewide property tax is allocated.
  7. Apply tax rates equally to all classes of real property.
  8. Avoid allowing state income tax credits for special classes of property owners.
  9. Oppose the negative income tax principle for tenants' tax relief.

NEWLY OPENED HUNTINGTON SHORE CLIFFS . . . Park For Adults

Huntington Shorecliffs, Mobile Home Park, in Grand Opening

A public party with refreshments and entertainment will be held over the weekend at the Huntington Shorecliffs mobile home park in Huntington Beach as Signal Landmark fetes the grand opening for its retail Mobidental sales outlet, according to Robert R. James, vice president and general manager of Signal Landmark, Inc.

Capital Sales Co. will officially open its doors at Beach Boulevard and Atlanta Avenue in Huntington Beach as the first mobile home sales outlet for Santa Ana-based Signal Landmark, Inc., one of The Signal Companies.

Huntington Shorecliffs, adjacent to the Capital Sales complex, is an adult mobile home park of over 200 spaces, also developed by Signal Landmark, Inc. Robert M. McIntosh, manager of Capital Sales Co., said the new retail facility will be landscaped and designed to complement the firm's new line of custom mobile home coaches, the Mobidentals.

He said Signal Landmark will use the firm's hand-built prototype 36-foot-wide Mobidental as the Capital Sales counseling office at 20951 Beach Blvd.

Capital Sales Co. will also handle other lines of popular mobile homes ranging in price from $6,000 to $18,000, McIntosh said.

THE GRAND opening party will be held Saturday and Sunday, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the larger of Huntington Shorecliffs' two recreation

Only a quarter mile from 10 miles of public beaches, Huntington shorecliffs has two community recreation centers and storage space for campers, boats and trailers. The shortage area is equipped with electrical recharging outlets.

Included in the recreation centers are two large swimming pools, heated therapeutic whirlpool, a billiards room, game room, shuffleboard courts and a large social hall with adjacent kitchen facilities.

The area has gas, water, twice-weekly refuse service and cable television at each site included in the rental price.

Rentals range from $85 to $125 per month and the park's unique "jog lots" range in size from 30 to 105 feet wide.

With the jog lot, offset areas of approximately 10 feet provide extra space for side yards, covered patios or gardens. Several different lot configurations are being offered at the adult park, including the conventional straight yard.

Huntington Shorecliffs is a joint venture by Signal Landmark, Inc. and the American Hawaiian Steamship Company.

U.S. CHAMBER OFFICER SPEAKS OUT:

'We'll Economize—When Convenient' Say Congressmen; Public Apathetic

(NOTE: This is the second "Voice of Business" column by Arch N. Booth, executive vice president, United States Chamber of Commerce. It is on inflation. The first was on welfare reform.)

By ARCH N. BOOTH

Almost every time you buy something these days—food for the family, clothing or what not—you are conscious of inflation. Prices are higher. Your money doesn't go as far as it used to.

Your dollar has lost about 15 per cent of its purchasing power in the past three years, U.S. Department of Commerce statistics show.

The trend is continuing. The value of your dollar is shrinking rapidly.

We all know what the main cause of this inflation is: It is excessive government spending.

The government has been spending far beyond its income.

Continued deficit spending puts more money into circulation in relation to the amount of goods and services available, and makes prices go up.

IN THE long run, no one escapes the inroads of inflation.

It certainly affects you if you live on a pension or a fixed income. Yes, but it also affects you if you earn wages, carry insurance, have a savings account, or own property, stocks or bonds.

By undermining the value of the dollar, inflation affects the whole economy. It affects the future of the country.

There are two ways Congress could hold inflation in check, if it would. It could increase taxes. It could slow down the rate of federal spending. It could do both.

The businessmen of America feel that the sensible place for Congress to start is by reducing spending.

FOR SOME reason, however—whether the reason is political or otherwise—Congress is in a spending mood.

In fact, it looks as though Congress is deliberately trying to perpetuate inflation. Consider what has happened on Capitol Hill recently:

— Action by the Congress will add $7.5 billion to the President's 1971 budget request, if the House action is sustained by the Senate.

— Appropriations bills already passed by both the House and the Senate total $2.8 billion more than the President requested—and final action has been taken on only five of the 15 regular appropriations bills.

As originally proposed by the Administration, the budget for this fiscal year projected a surplus of $1.3 billion. Subsequent changes in estimated revenues, and spending actions taken by Congress, have put the budget in the red. The estimated deficit is now $10-$15 billion.

For fiscal 1972, forecasts of the deficit run as high as $23 billion.

IF AN about-face is not taken on deficit spending, we will have inflation with a vengeance. How could it be otherwise?

Once inflation is permitted to become a way of life, a tax increase would not be able to slow it down. Nor would governmental controls on wages, prices, rents and credit solve the problem.

Certain Congressional leaders are rationalizing their present spending actions by promising that they will economize later on, when they find an opportunity to do so.

The way to economize, however, is to economize now.

The way for Congress to put the brakes on inflation is to look the facts in the face, and to get out of the spending mood.

CANYON LAKE EQUESTRIAN CENTER . . . Show Ring, Judges Stand

Canyon Lake Equestrian Center to Host Horse Shows, Fine Rides

Horse shows and other equestrian events are being planned for the new $30,000 Equestrian Center at the $45 million private family resort development of Canyon Lake, 20 miles southeast of Corona.

"We are going to have shows and spectacular rides that will bring the Canyon Lake Equestrian Center to the attention of horse lovers everywhere," said wrangler Jerry Francisco, who also judges shows and horses.

"This center has the potential to become one of the best in the country for gymkhanas and other programs."

THE CANYON Lake Equestrian Center has a large show ring with a judge's stand for the staging of events as well as permanent stalls, a tack-room and other horse-care facilities.

Developed by the Corona Land Company, developers of the entire Canyon Lake resort, the center already is boarding several horses, and the weekends are seeing increasing activity from equestrians who bring their mounts to the lake for long and enjoyable trail rides.

Scenic Perris Valley in Riverside County is the "Big Sky" country of Southern California, with miles of trails, open country and rugged canyons for Canyon Lake equestrians to explore, Francisco said.

One of the most sporty and unusual courses in Southern California is the Canyon Lake Golf Course,

Sulfur Control Is Told

Development of a process for removing virtually all sulfur from refinery and gas plant sulfur recovery units was announced this week in a technical paper presented by D. K. Beavon of the Ralph M. Parsons Company (ASE), Los Angeles, speaking to the Canadian Natural Gas Processing Association in Banff, Alberta, Canada.

In a talk entitled "Prevention of Air Pollution by Sulfur Plants," Beavon said the new process has been tested in a Canadian pilot plant and is capable of tail gas purity better than 250 parts per million, for sulfur recovery of 99.9 per cent or more.

"RESIDUAL" sulfur is, chiefly carbonyl sulfide with a trace of hydrogen sulfide," Beavon added. He said that Parsons has applied for patents on the new process.

Beavon is the developer of many hydrocarbon-industry process steps now in general use, holds over 20 patents.

Parsons, based in Los Angeles, is a worldwide engineer-constructor of major industrial facilities including over 150 sulfur recovery plants now in operation.

Now It's Shop by Phone

TeleMart Enterprises, Inc., the nation's first computerized home-delivery shopping service opened this week in San Diego, pilot city for the new marketing concept.

The revolutionary supermarket operation, which eliminates a trip to the store, enables customers to order by phone more than 3,500 grocery and other non-food items.

The system utilizes an advanced audio-response computer called "Clara," along with some 90 TeleShoppers.

The 54,000-square-foot TeleMart Distribution Center is headquarters for the shopping service capable of serving 40,000 member-customers in San Diego County.

TO JOIN TeleMart, consumers pay an annual $2 membership fee which registers their account for computer handling and enters their subscription to Shopper's Guide, full-color magazine listing the complete line of TeleMart products.

To place an order, a customer calls the TeleMart number and is greeted by a TeleShopper. Then the customer and TeleShopper interconnect to Clara the Talking Computer.

After identifying himself through his membership number, the customer pro-

No Employment Cutback at W&L; 100 More Hired

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Business-Real Estate Editor

Employment cutbacks isn't exactly startling in this era of retrenchments.

But, when a company announces it has increased its payroll by more than 100 employees since January, that's surprising.

Frank Hart, president of Walker & Lee, Inc., Anaheim-based realty firm, reports his company has done just that.

More than 700 people now are Walker & Lee staffers.

Hart said this increase was necessitated by the best seven months in company history. During the January-through-July period, sales hit an all-time high, totaling $106.2 million, an increase of $20.2 million over the same period last year.

New home sales, at $43.1 million, were up $14 million over last year and resales, at $63.1 million, were up $6.2 million.

Hart stressed that all totals are net figures with cancellations deducted.

"Our sales success is due to rigid adherence to our founding philosophy of personalized service," said Hart. "Our personnel are always concerned as individuals and they deal with clients as individuals with unique needs."

The staff totaled 703 at the end of August.

Included were: 433 in the Resales Division's 31 sales offices around Southern California, 133 at the New Homes Division's 51 home developments in Southern and Northern California and 140 in administration and Walker & Lee's insurance and escrow subsidiaries.

They're Here to Stay

The world's largest bank believes 1971 will be a year of "restless resurgence, coupled with a long-term transition to a quality-oriented economy."

Bank of America, taking an early look at the year ahead, emphasized that news events would play a key role in spurring economic upturns or dips.

"Any substantial piece of 'good news,' especially about the war in Southeast Asia or the reduction of social unrest and violence or improvement in the management of government fiscal affairs, could touch off a significant upsurge in confidence — a prerequisite to the restoration of strong business activity," the bank said.

"Conversely, 'bad news' in any of these sensitive areas almost certainly would prompt an equally significant adverse reaction."

"Consequently, real business activity over the next 15 months will experience surges mixed with periods of slower growth."

In its report entitled "Focus on The U.S. Economy: An Early Look at 1971," Bank of America noted:

"The worst of the second period of tight money and severe liquidity pressure since 1965 is just behind us. Ironically, the prospect of another acute credit squeeze will grow as confidence and economic momentum improve."

Need More Parks

Mobile home parks have become big business with a considerable growth in sales, but there is still an acute need for more and better family parks throughout California.

The latest edition of Bank of America's periodical The Small Business Reporter states that mobile home sales are being held back less by the number of interested customers than by the scarcity of good parks.

"Continued growth of sales will depend largely on the mobile home industry persuading the public to consider it on a par with conventional housing," the bank report says.

"This includes city planners, financial institutions and members of the general public who must be reconciled to having a mobile home next door, if not to living in one themselves."

Terming the modern park manager a "cross between a janitor and a mayor," the report notes that many parks have become little different from tract home subdivisions.

Last year nearly one of every three single family dwelling units produced in the United States was mobile, and California alone now has 4,800 mobile home parks.

The report includes figures on mobile home park construction which, based on 100 spaces with eight to 101 spaces per acre, would range from $219,000 to $330,000.

Speeding Cost Up

It is costing more for travelers to eat and sleep across the country — and to speed, too.

I found, during a two-week motor trip through the Midwest, I was paying more for food and motels — and I wondered if anyone else had noticed. They had.

Robert Kastengren, executive vice president of Runzheimer and Company, Rochester, Wisconsin, last week put out some figures.

"Meal and lodging costs in America's cities have advanced 7.2 per cent in 12 months," said Kastengren, whose company maintains a continuing price survey of first class eating and sleeping establishments.

"One year ago," he said, "the average cost of a single lodging and three meals came to $20.24. By July of this year, this figure had risen $1.46 — to a new level of $21.70."

In cities with more than a million population, he added, the percentage increase was 11.29; in the half-million to a million group, 7.42 per cent; in cities between 100,000 and a half million, 5.41 per cent, and in cities under 100,000, it's 4.11 per cent.

Kastengren missed one inflated feature.

A few years ago, a Nebraska Highway Patrol officer stopped me for exceeding the night speed limit (55 at that time). It didn't cost me anything.

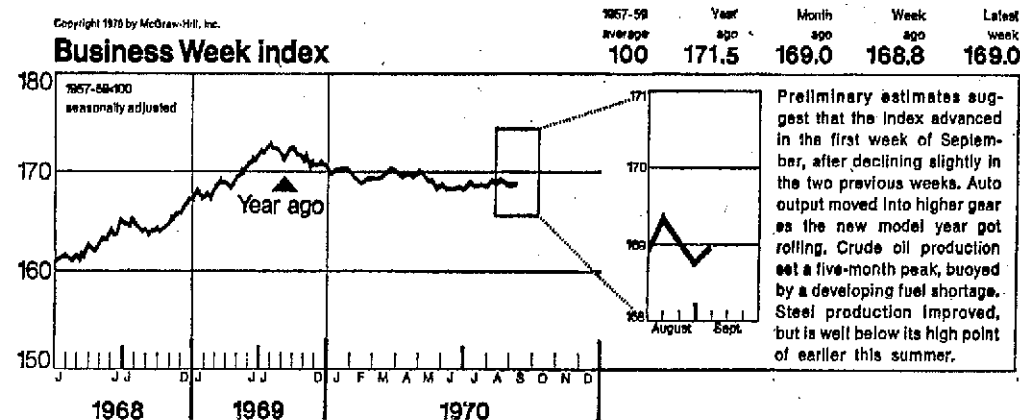

Last month, a NHP plane hovering just north of Columbus, Neb., clocked me in excess of the speed limit and radioed that information to a waiting patrol car ahead.

The cost: $24. Percentage-wise, that's a whopping lot more than anything Kastengren encountered.

Alive — and Well

California foreign trade is not only alive and well but growing beyond previous expectations, a report released by the Bank of America indicates.

Crude Oil, Auto Output Climbs

The Index inched its way 0.1 per cent above the week ago level.

Auto output continued to rise, with a 9.6 per cent gain in the current week — a 39.9 per cent hike above a month ago.

Steel production went up 3.6 per cent — gaining slightly as mills attempted to keep pace with the pre-strike date auto assembly.

Crude oil refinery runs gained 2.3 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings continued its upward climb, being pushed by an increase in motor vehicle transport. All other carloadings dropped 0.3 per cent, reflecting a loss in metallic ore loadings. Inter-city truck tonnage slipped 0.1 per cent.

Some materials basic to manufacturing are bucking a trend and coming down in price, Industry Week reported.

In most cases of declines, prices are being marked down, but in some the reductions are the result of discounting, the business magazine said. For the second month there has been a definite slackening in price increases on catalog items. However, prices on custom work continue to increase.

Among products on which prices are down are some of the nonferrous metals, rubber, softwood lumber, white paper, tempered glass, and men's worsted suiting, Industry Week pointed out.

Because of low demand from the home building and die casting industries, zinc recently declined to 15 cents a pound from 15½ cents. Likewise, lead recently slipped a half a cent a pound to 14.50 cents, although not all producers joined in the reduction. Lead consumption is not down, but domestic output and imports of the metal are up.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Stale Mail? Pay Less Postage

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America has just observed the 123rd anniversary of one of the nation's greatest mistakes — the U.S. postage stamp.

It was on July 1, 1847, that the first letters bearing official U.S. stamps for prepayment of postage were mailed. And some of them probably are still awaiting delivery.

For adoption of the stamp marked the beginning of modern postal service, which has been going steadily downhill ever since.

Today, as we enjoy such blessings as junk mail, postal strikes, zip codes and massive deficits, we should remind ourselves that such things wouldn't have been possible without stamps.

However, it was not until 1856 that the use of stamps became compulsory.

(Note use of the phrase "to whom it was delivered," rather than "to ry. Until then the postage payment system was optional.

A mailer could buy a stamp for a letter or he could simply drop the envelope in a mailbox and let the person to whom it was delivered pay the postage.

whom it was addressed." These two phrases are not (Continued on Page 12) due to the East and Gulf Coast strike, the Vietnam war and large increases in imports generated by U.S. inflationary pressures.

The latest complete figures show that California exports and imports for 1967 totaled $4.96 billion.

For the first time, the bank said, these figures include air shipments and all other methods of transportation as well as waterborne trade, making comparisons with previous years difficult. In earlier years only waterborne figures were available.

Vernay Chosen by NAB

The appointment of John S. Vernay Jr. as Long Beach metropolitan area director of the National Alliance of Businessmen was announced by the NAB this week.

Vernay, who will be on loan for a year to NAB from the Douglas Aircraft Company, succeeds Harry Stroud of TRW, Inc., Redondo Beach. Stroud recently was named NAB's Region 9 director.

The new metropolitan area director's office will be located in the Bank of Long Beach Building at 4201 Long Beach Blvd.

A Southern California resident for 46 years, Vernay has spent eight years with Douglas' public relations department and in company marketing assignments.

He was employed previously by Matson Navigation Co. and Castle and Cooke, Ltd., for 14 years in cargo administration assignments.

Lin-Brook Opens Its F. V. Store

Grand opening continues at Lin-Brook Hardware's new Fountain Valley Store.

Lin-Brook President Jerry Marks said the new store has over 66,000 square feet of home improvement ideas and employs about 90 persons.

The new facility is the first step in the company's announced expansion program which includes two new stores each year.

Following in the steps of its predecessor, Lin-Brook, Fountain Valley is a complete, one stop, do-it-yourself center, stocking every conceivable type of item needed by the homeowner.

Lin-Brook's unique Do-It-Yourself classes which have been acclaimed in the community will also be offered each Thursday night at the Fountain Valley facility.

The new store is located at 17200 S. Brookhurst.

Chamber Topic: Russ Sea Power

Lt. Jim Reilly, navy public affairs specialist and assistant to the commander, Long Beach Navy Base, will speak to members of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce at their 7:15 a.m. meeting Wednesday at Victor Hugo Restaurant.

Dr. C. Robert Hastings, program chairman, said the speaker will discuss "The Soviet Sea Power Presence."

Wall Street Briefs

NEW YORK (UPI) —

The cost of cans, bottles and jars is going higher this fall, adding millions of dollars to the overhead of food and beverage companies that use them. Aluminum Co. of America and Reynolds Metals Co. have scheduled price increases on aluminum canning sheet for Oct. 1, the same date the steel companies boost prices on tinplate and tin-free steel for making cans. Two weeks later, Owens-Illinois, Inc. boosts prices on glass containers across the board by four to six per cent.

NEW YORK (UPI) —

Environmental problems are creating "a profound and growing disillusionment" with the industrial system and its goals, a Department of Health, Education and Welfare officer said. Charles Johnson Jr., administrator of HEW's environmental health service department, also told an American Management Association meeting many people "are questioning whether rights of private property are so sacred that they include the right to untrammelled exploitation of natural resources." Johnson said the trend now is toward stricter and more direct controls in the air and water pollution areas.

MONTREAL (UPI) —

Microsystems International Ltd., which is controlled by Bell Telephone Co. of Canada, reported it holds unsecured notes of Penn Central Transportation Co. which it purchased last February for $1,500,000. Microsystems said there is no current market for the notes and it is impossible to determine what value, if any, may be placed upon them in the future. Penn Central Transportation filed for reorganization under the U.S. Bankruptcy Act last June.

NEW YORK (UPI) —

Berkey Photo Inc. has filed suit against Movielab Inc. for non-payment of an obligation totaling $14,931,178, plus interest, stemming from Movielab's purchase of Berkey's Pathe Motion Picture processing division in June 1969. Movielab said it has filed a suit against Berkey in federal court and that it had no further comment on either action.

DETROIT (UPI) —

General Motors Corp. has recalled 4,400 light-duty trucks for inspection and possible replacement of bolts which hold the front suspension control arms to the frame. GM said the bolts may be subject to brittleness and, under certain conditions, could cause the driver to lose control of the truck. About 3,200 Chevrolet and 1,200 GMC trucks are involved in the recall.

NEW YORK (UPI) —

Cities Service Co. has begun construction of new facilities to produce fuel oils and coke it said will meet the most stringent environmental standards now foreseen. The facilities, which will cost $7,500,000, are being added to the company's Lake Charles, La. Refinery. One is a 25,000-barrels per day fuel oil desulfurizer, while the other will be an expansion of an existing unit that makes low-sulfur metallurgical coal.

William Logue, Long Beach, has been appointed assistant vice president at Los Angeles-based head office of Security Pacific National Bank. He is former marketing officer.

NAMED

Mrs. Sylvia Ray, Lakewood, has been named lending officer at Bank of America's Washington Center branch, Santa Fe Springs. She joined bank in 1955.

SEPT. 24 TARGET

Woolco to Open La Mirada Store

Woolco Department Stores, one of the nation's fastest-growing department store chains, will mark its entry into California with the opening Sept. 24 of a 115,000-square-foot store currently nearing completion on a 14-acre tract adjacent to the La Mirada Shopping Center.

Lester F. Davis, F. W. Woolworth vice president and general manager of the Woolco Department Stores Division, said this will be the first of a planned series of Woolco units to be located in various parts of northern and southern California.

"We plan to locate Woolco Department Stores in numerous areas of California, including such cities as Anaheim, Fountain Valley, Riverside and Sacramento," Davis said.

SITES FOR these and other units are in the negotiation stages.

"The La Mirada store will represent the latest in modern department store design with spacious aisles, high ceilings, the latest in illumination and carpeted floors in selected areas, and it will be air-conditioned to ensure comfortable shopping conditions in all seasons," Davis said.

"Featuring all categories of merchandise traditionally associated with a department store operation, the La Mirada Woolco, like its counterparts throughout the United States and Canada, will make available to local shoppers nationally known brands at competitive prices. The store will operate a complete credit program including revolving, 30 day and time payment accounts."

SINCE THE opening of the first Woolco Department Store in Columbus, Ohio in June 1962, the number in operation in the United States and Canada has increased to 140, of which 15 have been opened since February of this year.

"Plans for the rest of 1970 include the opening of 20 more stores," Davis said, adding that, "35 to 40 additional units are scheduled for 1971."

Woolworth has 148 Woolworth stores in California as well as stores in all other states in the United States. A diversified retailer, the company also has stores outside the continental United States, in Canada, Great Britain, Germany, Mexico and Spain.

The Kinney Shoe Corporation and Richman Brothers Company are also parts of the Woolworth company.

PORTS O' PROGRESS

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Editor

A unique complaint filed against the City of New York by the operator of a Panama-based cruise ship is being eyeballed by officials of the Ports of Long Beach and Los Angeles.

The six-count complaint charges the city refused to provide docking facilities for the SS Caribia operated by Universal Line, S.A.

The complaint alleges the City of New York must make docking and berthing facilities available to any ship or vessel requesting them.

If the Federal Maritime Administration rules in favor of the ship operators it could have an impact on all parts — especially those operating under tidal grants such as the two local ports.

Legal advisers fear the ruling could mean that port authorities would have to provide berthing facilities for any ship regardless of its ability to pay the tariff charges.

LATEST ADDITION TO THE 11th Coast Guard District's fleet of cutters, the Point Hobart, went into service Sunday at its home port in the Ocean-side Small Craft Harbor.

The Point Hobart with a crew of eight is skippered by Chief Boatswain Mate Joseph F. Burgess. The 82-foot cutter was commissioned recently at the Coast Guard Shipyard, Curtis Bay, Md.

The cutter is assigned to search and rescue operations and law enforcement duties principally between Newport Beach and San Diego and elsewhere as she may be needed.

THE OCEANGOING SUPERBARGE, Hawaii, arrived on its maiden call at the Port of Long Beach recently to take on 16,000 tons of fertilizer compound bound for the island state.

The 430-foot self-loading barge can carry the entire fertilizer requirements of Hawaii for one year in nine trips. The new barge is equipped with an on-board power plant and a 600 ton-per-hour conveyor belt system feeding a swinging boom atop the cargo house.

The barge is operated by Ultramar Chemical Co., a subsidiary, C. Brewer Co., Ltd., and Monsanto Company.

THE DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR has extended for 10 years the time which commercial fishermen can make loans to buy or repair fishing boats.

Loans are limited to $40,000 at eight per cent interest.

The loan program, established by a section of the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956, authorizes the Secretary of the Interior to make loans for financing or refinancing the cost of purchasing, constructing, equipping, maintaining, repairing, or operating new or used commercial fishing vessels or gear.

Red Ball Branch to Move to Watson Area

Red Ball Van & Storage, Inc., will move its Long Beach branch operations next spring into a new 31,000-square-foot warehouse in Watson Industrial Center at Carson, President H. E. Lamance announced.

This will be the company's second new warehouse construction within the last two years. In 1968, Red Ball built its Anaheim headquarters at 2323 W. La Palma.

Owned by Lamance and Peter V. De Santis, vice president, the firm's business has grown 16-fold since 1961, and its transport volume through South Bay and Orange County points required expanded storage and handling facilities, Lamance explained.

As agents for American Red Ball Transit Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., the Anaheim firm handles all military shipments, worldwide, routed via Red Ball through the Los Angeles and Long Beach sea and airports.

AS COMPARED to five units in 1961, Red Ball now operates a fleet of 75 transport units, of which one-third are vans. The new South Bay terminal will employ a staff of 20 persons, one-third of the company's personnel.

Lamance is a director of the California Moving & Storage Association and a member of the Bay Cities Traffic Club of Los Angeles and the Citrus Belt Traffic Club of Orange County.

De Santis is a native of Los Angeles and a business administration, trade and transportation graduate of the University of Southern California. Before joining Red Ball in 1967, he was with Trailmobile for 10 years, a division of Pullman, Inc., becoming its Los Angeles branch manager.

'No Penalty' Plan Offered in Showcase Homes' Sales

Spearheading the big closeout campaign at the Showcase Homes in Westminster is a 5 per cent down payment requirement with no closing or other impond costs, according to Dick Kurth, of Kurth & Associates, sales agents for the complex.

In addition to the minimum down payment requirement, there is a spectacular "no penalty plan" by which the purchaser is guaranteed an opportunity to refinance his present loan at Showcase at any time for one and half years after the initial purchase and pay no penalty.

By this method the buyer is totally safe regardless of whether the interest rates go down, stay the same or even if they go up, said Kurth.

These homes are a development of William

Krueger and the three to six bedroom homes with two and three baths are selling for as low as $33,495. There are 33 exteriors to select from as well as 10 family floorplans from which to choose.

"THE REASON why these Showcase Homes are so popular all over Orange County is because of two revolutionary concepts utilized in these homes. One is the Custom Completion Plan and the other is the 'Growing Room', both of which have added a whole new dimension to quality building," commented Kurth.

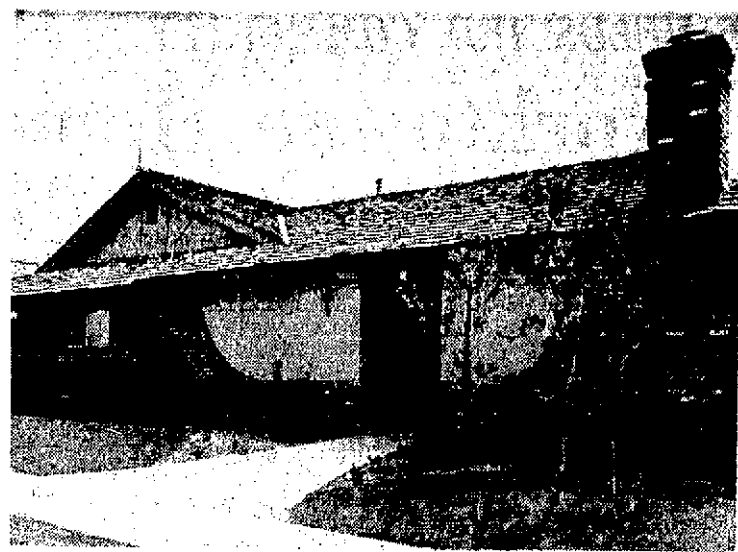

The Custom Completion Plan, is a Showcase exclusive, and offers the buyer the unique opportunity to literally design and construct their own home. The color schemes, fabrics as well as where and how large a room will be are within the decision-making power of the purchaser.

THE "Growing Room" is fully framed and rough plumbing for the bathroom is installed. This area is flexible and can be rearranged over the years to suit the families needs or desires.

However, if the family has decided on a definite use for the area, the builder will finish it to their exact specifications at a nominal cost that can be added onto the original loan.

To see these beautiful homes in the Showcase series, now being offered at down-to-earth prices, take the Garden Grove Freeway to Magnolia, and then drive south to McGadden in Westminster.

SHIELDS' H.B. COMMUNITY

Yorktowne Homes in Closeout

Spotlighting the builder's closeout sale at the Shields Development Co. community of Yorktowne in Huntington Beach is a special $1,000 reduction in price of the outstanding two-bedroom homes, according to Dick Kurth, of Kurth & Associates, sales agents.

"We are anxious to close out the remaining homes in this unit and we figure the best way is to cut our prices," Kurth said.

The agent added that the bargain price is even more impressive when the buyer considers that the two-bedroom model can be expanded at a minimum of cost and that there is enough space to add a room or two.

There are also special terms available on some of the larger homes which include the three and four-bedroom models in a choice of one or two-story design.

"NOW IS the best time to shop for that new home, lege. The community colleges provide a fine two-year education which can lead to an associate of arts degree in any number of subject areas. They also provide the necessary transfer requirements to many four-year institutions.

THE CAMPUSES of the University of California at Irvine and California State College at Long Beach provide quality education which can lead from a bachelor's degree to the while we still have a wide selection and the homes are going at big sale prices which still includes many extras given to the potential purchaser at no cost," Kurth said.

Some of these "turn key" incentives include complete built-in kitchens with many time-saving devices, wall-to-wall carpeting, drapes, rear-yard fencing and free decorating service.

Priced from only $25,995, these colonial styled homes can be financed by FHA, VA or by flexible conventional terms. The buyer also has his choice of 12 exteriors to select from.

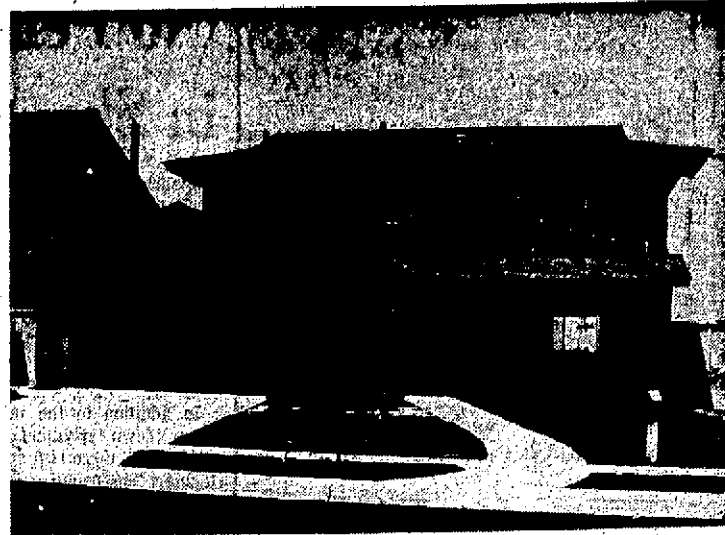

Within walking distance is the John B. Bushard School with grades kindergarten through eighth. The high school is also within walking distances.

There are several junior colleges in the area, including Orange Coast College and Golden West College campus, where Ph.D.'s are awarded.

Shopping needs can be easily solved at either the South Coast Plaza, a short drive from Yorktowne or from any number of neighborhood centers which provide all of the necessities of life. The Huntington Center is also nearby.

To reach these fully furnished models take either the Santa Ana, Garden Grove or San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst and drive south to Yorktowne to the homes and sales office. The homes are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

F. Shilling Named to Committee

Frank Shilling, executive director of the Recreational Coach and Equipment Association with headquarters in Long Beach, has been appointed to a committee studying recreational vehicle standards for the International Association of Plumbing and Mechanical Officials (IAPMO).

Shilling was notified of his appointment by Norm Latter of Los Angeles, technical advisor for the sponsors of a uniform plumbing code, following the IAPMO convention in Seattle.

THE Trailer Standards committee will study, then make recommendations, for new standards to insure better and safer recreational vehicle products and accessories, including those for travel trailers, campers, motor homes and van conversions.

Shilling recently assumed executive leadership of the RCEA, a trade association serving the western United States recreational vehicle manufacturers, industry suppliers, RV dealers and publications, and truck manufacturers.

John Alexiou to Headquarters

Long Beach resident John Alexiou has been appointed assistant vice president in the National Division at Bank of America's Los Angeles Headquarters, announced Regional Vice President George A. Skoglund.

Alexiou assumes the position after 19 months as manager of the Highland Park branch.

LUXURIOUS LIVING ... Available At Friendly Village

$8,000 Initial Price at L.B. Friendly Village

With emphasis on value and quality, more and more families are discovering a completely new way of life at Friendly Village, the mobile home park on Paramount Blvd. between 54th and 56th Streets, Long Beach, according to officials of American Mobilehome Corp., developer of the new community. American Mobilehome Corp., the nation's largest developer of mobile home parks is expanding into the Southern California area, with three other parks in addition to that in Long Beach.

"We are able to give homebuyers excellent value, especially in today's inflated market," said Guy Thull, marketing manager.

"We are giving them a well-built home with all of the amenities built in without making them pay for the continually rising costs of land which conventional builders are demanding. These families are also acutely aware of the lower maintenance costs involved in owning a mobile home as well," Thull added.

"THE FACT we have had continually increasing sales proves that these value-conscious buyers are aware of what they receive in a Friendly Village," he said.

Thull pointed out that everything — from the initial price which is $8,000 — is designed for the budget-minded family.

In addition, maintenance is practically non-existent; there are 10-year terms and life there means living with other families with common interests.

"FRIENDLY Village is an adult community and we provide a large community center with complete facilities for parties and dances and all sorts of functions. We also have a large swimming pool," he added.

The village offers mobile homes from several leading manufacturers. Furnished and decorated models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

"We're sure that others are aware of the benefits of living in a mobilehome, since there were more than 6 million families living in them last year alone," he concluded.

Keeping Employees Is Tough

Finding and keeping good employees is often the biggest problem for many small firms as well as their biggest single expense of doing business.

Suggestions for solving that problem are offered in the latest edition of Bank of America's periodical 'The Small Business Reporter,' which notes:

"In a small retail or service firm, sales are directly related to how well customers get along with employees and how well employees anticipate and serve customer needs.

"And whereas help is available to solve many other business problems — legal, accounting — when it comes to personnel, the small business owner is on his own."

"In trying to fill this gap, the Reporter contains a list of the basic obligations of employers, tells how to write a job description and to find and select employees, and discusses working conditions and fringe benefits.

THE REPORT emphasizes that the employer should approach all personnel problems directly and openly.

"He can never afford to be 'too busy' to discuss an employee's problems or suggestions. And when personality conflicts exist between employees, the employer must deal with the situation promptly and in a nonpartisan manner.

"But if being a personnel manager is one of the independent businessman's major problems, it is also one that will bring him some of his most gratifying rewards.

"Helping his employees develop their full potential has its own satisfactions, as well as making a solid contribution to the success of the business."

Copies of the report may be obtained through any Bank of America branch.

located in the huge private family recreation development of Canyon Lake.

Golfers testing the 71-par, 6,400-yard-course are finding it a real challenge, calling for keen judgment and good ball control. The general consensus of players is that the course is "tough, but fun."

Stockbroker Chuck Enos of Fullerton thought the course was "ideal." "I shot a 36 on the first nine holes," he said. "I've been playing for 20 years and I haven't shot a score this good in years."

His son, David, who is only 13 and attends Troy Senior High School, birdied the tough No. 6 hole.

"BEARING in mind that Canyon Lake Golf Course is only in its first year, the fairways are still improving week by week," said John Kile, Canyon Lake golf professional, "and the greens are beautiful and well trapped."

A horseshoe of water protects the No. 2 hole, and Nos. 5, 15, and 17 also have water hazards. A study is being made by W. Gordon Heath, president of Corona Land Co., developer of the resort, and Ted Robinson, course architect, on the feasibility of putting a small lake in front of the 8th green, thus adding another water hole to the course.

In addition, certain fairways are being widened and the 7th fairway is being redesigned to remove a natural hazard and plant grass in its place.

"These are some of the refinements we are making to add to the quality of this fine course, but the work will not disrupt or interfere with play," said Heath.

AGREEING that Canyon Lake was an outstanding course were Fred Marquez, tool and die maker of Bellflower; Harold Scruton, hotel supervisor of Gardena; Charles Bledso, a boilermaker, of Torrance, and Marvin Pike, termite controller, of Torrance, who played as a foursome.

"In fact," Pike said, "I think it's fabulous. The greens are the best I've seen."

Warren Nule, sales representative and head of the W. W. Nule Co., of Long Beach, played the course with his wife, Jo. He seemed to sum up the spirit of all the golfers when he said of the course: "It's tough, but that's the way I like it."

One of the toughest holes on the course is the par 3 no. 6. The green lies 135 yards away and 100 ft. below the tee. The elevation makes the green look much farther away than it is. Further complicating the shot, the green lies between two large oak trees and one's drive had better be straight and true.

But, if No. 6 doesn't do it, the 18th hole will deliver the coup de grace. It's a double dog-leg, 520 yd., 6-par hole.

KITCHEN IS LA LINDA FEATURE

Spacious, warm kitchens with plenty of sunshine are feature of new La Linda homes in Fountain Valley, on Euclid Street north of Warner Avenue. Mile Square Regional Park is just across from models, offering buyer's families good recreational facilities. Prices range from $31,950 to $37,000. Plans with three-four and five bedrooms, two or three baths and two and three-car garages are available.

Gifts Offered During La Linda Closeout Sale

A color television set is among the items to be given away during the builder's close-out sale at La Linda Homes Magnolia Series in Fountain Valley, according to La Linda principal Richard Hall.

With only five homes remaining at the Magnolia Series of La Linda Homes, buyers will have a choice of either a color TV set, washer-dryer combination, refrigerator or a home freezer, Hall said.

The homes are priced from $40,500.

Included in the purchase price are luxurious carpeting, front lawns with a tree and sprinklers, draperies, rear and side yard fencing, concrete drive-ways, and a host of luxury items — practically eliminating normal after move-in costs.

IT WAS the Magnolia Series that received the Gold Nugget award for homebuilding excellence from the National Association of Homebuilders last year.

The Magnolia Series is the first of two subdivisions of La Linda Homes in that city.

Hall pointed out that gifts being offered to the last five homebuyers will compliment the deluxe equipped kitchens at the homesite.

The kitchens already include double ovens, built-in Nutone food center, electric can opener, electric toaster, coffee timer, clock and trash receptacle under the sink.

THE average home in the series has 2200 square feet of living space and the largest model has over 2500 square feet.

One model has a master suite with over 700 square feet. All master suites have separate dressing areas and walk-in closets or double wardrobes. Some have Roman tubs.

On Magnolia Street, one block north of Talbert Avenue, the models may be reached by taking the San Diego Freeway to Magnolia, then driving south one mile on Magnolia to the model site. Or Talbert may be taken east from Beach Boulevard or west from Brookhurst Street.

Landmark Home Prices May Increase in 1971

Landmark Homes in La Palma may be priced 7 per cent higher in 1971 predicted Robert R. James, vice president and general manager of Signal Landmark, on evidence of recent large corporate borrowing trends.

"New home prices are rising at an average of $1,000 to $1,500 per year,"

Tytula Named to C-C Post in F. Valley

Kenneth Tytula of Long Beach has been named as assistant manager of Crocker-Citizens National Bank's Fountain Valley office, it was announced by Harold C. Kipp, senior vice president and regional manager.

Tytula recently completed the bank's officer development training program. With three years banking experience in Tennessee, he joined Crocker-Citizens' operations department at the Wilmington office in 1965.

L.B. Accountants Meet Wednesday

The Long Beach Chapter, National Association of Accountants, will host a "Bosses' Night" Wednesday at the Long Beach Elks Lodge.

Speaker will be Richard Murphy Jr., banking services officer with Wells Fargo Bank. His topic: "Changes — The Banker's Dilemma."

he said. "Translated into total costs, this means today's $33,000 house will cost from $35,000 to $37,000 in 1971."

Landmark Homes in La Palma are priced beginning at $32,875, but if current trends continue Signal Landmark is not optimistic about forestalling a price increase as soon as a month from now, James indicated.

FIFTEEN homes remain in the final unit of the La Pala, $2.6 million subdivision on Walker Street between Orange-thorpe and La Palma avenues, according to sales counselor Dick Sheakley.

The units are tabbed "family ready", meaning the purchase price includes such items as draperies, carpets, sprinklers with front yard landscaping and rear yard fencing.

The inclusion of such items was figured to save the homeowner some $2,000 since the builder purchased the items in quantity.

IN ADDITION, the homes include a built-in television antenna, patio kitchen with deluxe range, oven, disposal, hood, fan and dishwasher, shake roofs and concrete drive-ways. The homes are served with underground utilities.

The two-story, four and five-bedroom homes also have three baths and two and three-car garages. Fireplaces are in the living rooms and each home has a large separate family room.

Models are open daily.

Leadership Homes' Contest Continues

The Leadership Homes "Win a Wild Way of Life" contest continues to hit new peaks in popularity as the crowds who visit the outstanding homesites view the model homes and enter the contest all in the same day.

The second grand prize winner was announced this week by Tom Dorsey, marketing director of Leadership homes.

She is Mary Ann Adeo who lives in Northridge and entered the contest through sales manager Dan McDonald of the "Porter Today" homes which are also located in Northridge.

There will be a luncheon held in Mrs. Adeo's honor at The Hungry Tiger restaurant in Hollywood.

Dorsey will be there along with McDonald to award the Real McCoy massive steer that was Mary Ann's prize.

Seabury Homes Only 800 Yards From Beach Activities

The close proximity of Seabury Homes to the Huntington Beach State Beach has been a primary factor in the steady sales success of the development, according to Hal

Creegan of Seabury Development Co. "We're only 800 yards from the shore," said Creegan. "So the swimming, sunning and surfing of one of California's finest beaches are within easy walking distance." "Seabury is also within walking distance of four new schools... John Eaton Elementary School, St. Simon and Jude Parochial School, Gisler Junior High and Edison High School. They're all less than a mile away," said Creegan.

FAMILY convenience was also important to the design of Seabury Homes. Garden-patio kitchens are equipped with built-in appliances, including a dishwasher.

Living rooms are spacious, with traditional fireplaces and sliding walls of glass. Some models provide a formal dining room, and all offer large family rooms.

Also included in the turn-key complete Seabury package of luxury amenities are double-door entries, wall-to-wall carpeting, cultured marble and mosaic tile pullmans and handrubbed ash cabinetry.

Quality construction features include central forced-air heating systems, underground utilities and attached oversized garages.

The ranch homes are available for only 5 percent down, and are priced from $27,450. They are located on Atlanta, between Beach Boulevard and Magnolia in Huntington Beach.

Public Interest Runs High at Cerritos Village Units

With its grand opening little more than a month old, Cerritos Village in Cerritos is generating "a tremendous amount" of public interest, said George D. Buccola, builder of the community, located on Norwalk Boulevard and 195th Street.

One of the major factors causing the excitement and interest is the special $1 total move-in cost available to all qualified veterans.

"These men have all done an immeasurable service for their country and since many of them don't have the cash required for a normal down payment we feel that this special plan is the least we can do," Buccola said.

The $1 move-in cost also covers impound and any other normal home purchasing costs.

THIS exciting new complex features one and two-story homes with extra large rooms and a choice of three or four bedrooms. "We have put a lot of work into these units and I feel that families looking for a different type of home at a reasonable price will find something to their liking here at Cerritos Village," Buccola said.

With conventional, VA or FHA financing available, these models are priced from only $29,995 to $34,800.

Buccola, who has built more than 3,000 homes and apartments in Southern California over the years was recently awarded the General Electric Gold Key Award, which is a national honor. In the six years of the award, it has only

Computerized Inventory System Tabulates Sales

New York Times Service
WASHINGTON — In an inventory system being patented by Luther Simjian of Greenwich, Conn., a central computer will keep track of many different items in many stores or warehouses.

The commodities being distributed are identified and measured without the need of any written notations. The computer records how much is still on the shelves and reminds the management when it is time to reorder.

Patent 3,523,177 is assigned to General Research, Inc., of which Simjian is president.

A dispenser is an essential part of the equipment. In the case of textiles, a stockroom employee who has an order to fill carries a bolt of cloth to the dispenser and prepares to feed one end between its rollers. However, before the rollers will start measuring the cloth, he must insert in the machine a check card that identifies the goods. Once the dispenser does operate, the lot number and the length of the cloth are automatically signaled to the computer.

Besides maintaining inventory, the computer can tabulate sales.

Simjian believes his system eliminates human error. He contemplates its use to control bulk materials other than yardgoods — such as sand, gravel and liquids. For these, special measuring or weighing devices can be provided.

TANNED sharkskin, when properly conditioned, is highly regarded as a covering for astronauts' boots and gloves.

Frank Burgett and Jerry Poradek, project engineers for the Apollo and Skylab space suits at the manned spacecraft center in Houston, were granted Patent 3,526,473 for such articles to be worn in a "hostile environment."

The tanned sharkskin is soaked in a solvent to remove oils, is treated with a deodorizer to get rid of the fish odor, and is baked for a half-hour to pre-shrink it. The finished sharkskin has excellent abrasion resistance and remains flexible at extreme temperatures.

The sharkskin articles have not been used on the Apollo moon flights but may be taken aboard the Skylab orbiting space station and on other manned flights of long duration.

AN ATOMIC-POWERED

screen that was patented is intended to cause dust to settle outside open windows instead of entering a room.

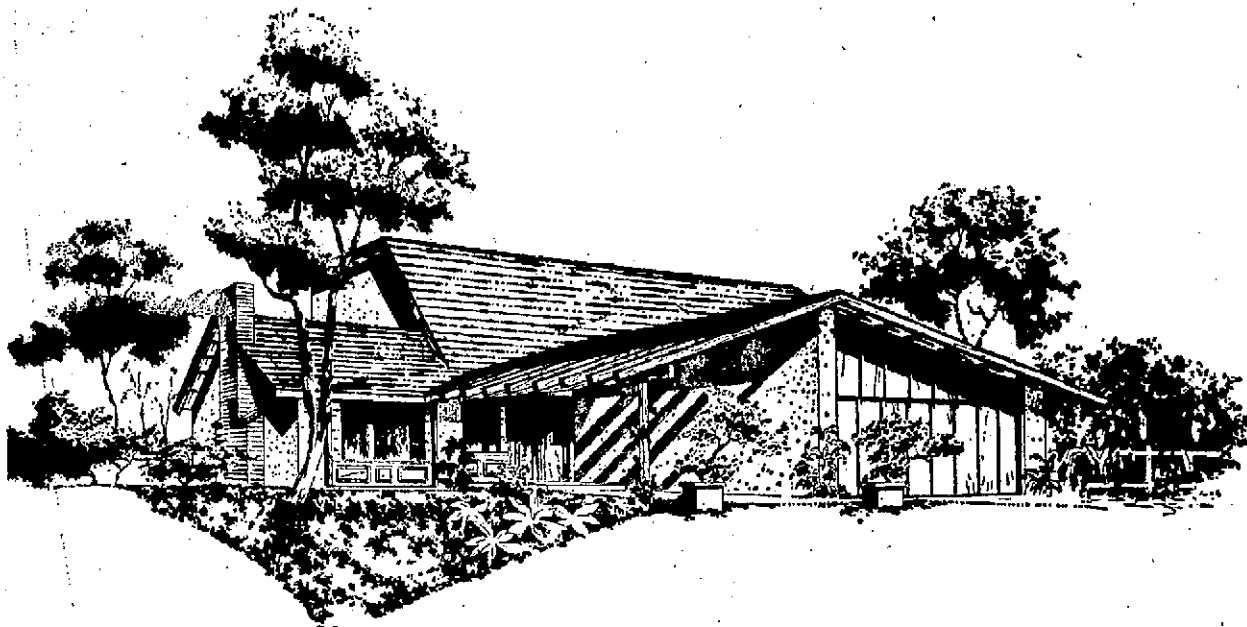

Patent 3,528,080, which was awarded to Alexander Senkewich, a Russian-born New York engineer, says dust suspended in the air has its own static charge, negative or positive, and will settle on any object charged with opposite polarity.

The screen has parallel vertical rows of wires, alternatively carrying positive and negative current. The power is derived from an atomic battery that is expected to generate high voltage for "tens of years without special maintenance."

Senkewich is reported to have operated his screen experimentally.

PAUL VANDERS of New York has invented a folding drinking cup that provides its own aspirin or other pills. Patent 3,526,317 says that tearing off a strip that holds the tablets opens the cup.

Made of aluminum foil, the cup may be carried flat. The medicaments may be cold tablets, tranquilizers, bromides, vitamins, diet pills or denture cleaners.

VALLEY PARK HOMES ... Range From $28,950 To $33,500

ACCOUNTS FOR MOST NEW SALES

Instant Trade-in Plan at Valley Park Homes

The new "instant trade-in plan" introduced recently at Valley Park Homes in Fountain Valley has accounted for more than 60 per cent of all new home sales in the past 30 days, according to Chuck Sandberg of the Harville Development Co., builders of the four-unit community.

"We are in a position to make more lucrative trade-in offers to homebuyers since we deal in a much greater volume than most developers," Sandberg said.

"The Valley Park move-in plan also affords immediate appraisal of the buyer's present home, usually within one or two days of the first meeting."

DURING the recent sales period, Valley Park Homes have averaged three to four sales per weekend and visitor traffic has been continuous, he said.

The one and two-story model homes, ranging in price from $28,950 to $33,500, are available in four new floor plans and feature a variety of 17 distinctive exteriors.

Golfing and recreational facilities are located across the street from the 167-home community in Mile Square Park.

To reach Valley Park Homes in Fountain Valley, take the Santa Ana or Garden Grove Freeways to Brookhurst and drive south to the models at Heil Avenue. Or, take the San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst and drive north to the development.

THE DAILY INVESTOR

Don't Fret Over Legacy

By CHARLES J. ELIA

Q. I'm 87, my wife 91, and both in pretty good health. We don't own our own home and have no life insurance. Our income is entirely from dividends on blue-chip stocks. We receive about $8,000 a year this way but it isn't enough to keep up our way of living. We've lived above our income by about $2,000 a year for the last 10 years until I now have $20,000 in loans from the bank at 7½ per cent.

The question is: Should I sell all or part of my stocks and buy high-interest AAA bonds paying about 8½ per cent or keep the stocks? We're anxious that our estate pass on to our only son in good shape so I hesitate to sell the stocks. I'm told bonds would double my income.

A. It's conscientious of you to fret over the legacy to your son but don't you think you and the Mrs. have earned the right to live on $10,000 a year if that's what it takes?

I'm not suggesting you should kick up your heels and fritter away your life's savings, by any means, but that extra $2,000 a year shouldn't be a source of worry to you at this stage either.

As you note elsewhere, there is a capital-gains tax bite to consider if the stocks are sold. This is minimized somewhat, however, by your lower tax rate and double exemption for age.

There's no doubt you could raise your current yield substantially by careful investment in top-grade industrial and utility bonds, but I doubt if you'd double it.

You don't say what market value of stocks you're holding. If they're yielding close to 5 per cent overall, your portfolio is in the neighborhood of $160,000. The individual stocks you mentioned range in dividend yield from 3.2 to 8 per cent, but only a couple of them are yielding under 5 per cent. If you boosted over-all return to 8 per cent on that amount through use of bonds, you'd have current income of about $12,800 a year.

Your stumbling block appears to be an aversion to leaving a bond portfolio rather than a stock portfolio to your son. You may be making too much of this distinction.

A good portfolio of high-quality, readily-marketable bonds should prove just as handsome a legacy as stocks when you factor into your plans the prime responsibility you have now to yourself and your wife. By all means, consider putting a large part of your holdings into higher-yielding bonds.

One other suggestion: Talk to your banker or broker about including some of the deeply-discounted government bonds that are acceptable at par value in payment of estate taxes. They'll help soften the tax bite when your son becomes the owner.

Q. A year ago I bought $10,000 of one-year bonds of the Consolidated Federal Farm Loan Bank through a broker. I paid $100 in commissions, plus accrued interest, which cut my yield considerably. The bonds are now maturing and I'd like to know how I go about redeeming them.

A. You can turn the bonds in for redemption to your nearest Federal Reserve Bank, in person or by mail, or you can ask your commercial banker to handle the paperwork for you. If you deal through your commercial bank, there may be a fee; it's good policy to check first on this point.

If you deal by mail, write to the Federal Reserve Bank and ask for Form 311. If you hold a "bearer" bond — one not registered in your name — be sure you register and insure the mailing of the bond itself. You can redeem it in person at the Fed bank if you prefer.

If you hold a registered bond, fill in a signature of assignment on the back of the bond to the Secretary of the Treasury and have your assignment certified by an officer of your bank. The Treasury will mail you a check.

Seabury Homes Only 800 Yards From Beach Activities

The close proximity of Seabury Homes to the Huntington Beach State Beach has been a primary factor in the steady sales success of the development, according to Hal Creegan of Seabury Development Co.

"We're only 800 yards from the shore," said Creegan. "So the swimming, sunning and surfing of one of California's finest beaches are within easy walking distance."

"Seabury is also within walking distance of four new schools... John Eaton Elementary School, St. Simon and Jude Parochial School, Gisler Junior High and Edison High School. They're all less than a mile away," said Creegan.

FAMILY convenience was also important to the design of Seabury Homes. Garden-patio kitchens are equipped with built-in appliances, including a dishwasher.

Living rooms are spacious, with traditional fireplaces and sliding walls of glass. Some models provide a formal dining room, and all offer large family rooms.

Also included in the turn-key complete Seabury package of luxury amenities are double-door entries, wall-to-wall carpeting, cultured marble and mosaic tile pullmans and handrubbed ash cabinetry.

Quality construction features include central forced-air heating systems, underground utilities and attached oversized garages.

The ranch homes are available for only 5 per cent down, and are priced from $27,450. They are located on Atlanta, between Beach Boulevard and Magnolia in Huntington Beach.

Public Interest Runs High at Cerritos Village Units

With its grand opening little more than a month old, Cerritos Village in Cerritos is generating "a tremendous amount" of public interest, said George D. Buccola, builder of the community, located on Norwalk Boulevard and 195th Street.

One of the major factors causing the excitement and interest is the special $1 total move-in cost available to all qualified veterans.

"These men have all done an immeasurable service for their country and since many of them don't have the cash required for a normal down payment we feel that this special plan is the least we can do," Buccola said.

The $1 move-in cost also covers impound and any other normal home purchasing costs.

been given on two other occasions.

THERE ARE four furnished models in Cerritos Village, located in an area convenient to almost anywhere in Southern California because of its proximity to two freeways.

The community is east of the San Gabriel River Freeway (605) and south of the Artesia Freeway, making commuting to anywhere in Orange County and Los Angeles County simple.

Among the many outstanding and time-saving features included in the total cost of the homes are wall-to-wall carpeting, cathedral ceilings, rear-yard fencing, step-down living rooms and all homes are ducted for air conditioning.

In addition, the kitchens come complete with many outstanding appliances including dishwashers, big double ovens, built-in ranges, laminated plastic counters and natural wood cabinets.

These fully furnished models are open every day from 10 a.m. until dusk and can be reached by taking the San Gabriel River Freeway (605) north to the Artesia Freeway, then east to Norwalk Boulevard, then south to 195th Street.

THIS exciting new complex features one and two-story homes with extra large rooms and a choice of three or four bedrooms. "We have put a lot of work into these units and I feel that families looking for a different type of home at a reasonable price will find something to their liking here at Cerritos Village," Buccola said.

With conventional, VA or FHA financing available, these models are priced from only $29,995 to $34,800.

Buccola, who has built more than 3,000 homes and apartments in Southern California over the years was recently awarded the General Electric Gold Key Award, which is a national honor. In the six years of the award, it has only

Instant Trade-in Plan at Valley Park Homes

The new "instant trade-in plan" introduced recently at Valley Park Homes in Fountain Valley has accounted for more than 60 per cent of all new home sales in the past 30 days, according to Chuck Sandberg of the Harville Development Co., builders of the four-unit community.

"We are in a position to make more lucrative trade-in offers to homebuyers since we deal in a much greater volume than most developers," Sandberg said.

"The Valley Park move-in plan also affords immediate appraisal of the buyer's present home, usually within one or two days of the first meeting."

DURING the recent sales period, Valley Park Homes have averaged three to four sales per weekend and visitor traffic has been continuous, he said.

The one and two-story model homes, ranging in price from $28,950 to $33,500, are available in four new floor plans and feature a variety of 17 distinctive exteriors.

Golfing and recreational facilities are located across the street from the 167-home community in Mile Square Park.

To reach Valley Park Homes in Fountain Valley, take the Santa Ana or Garden Grove Freeways to Brookhurst and drive south to the models at Hill Avenue. Or, take the San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst and drive north to the development.

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — In an inventory system being patented by Luther Simjian of Greenwich, Conn., a central computer will keep track of many different items in many stores or warehouses.

The commodities being distributed are identified and measured without the need of any written notations. The computer records how much is still on the shelves and reminds the management when it is time to reorder.

Patent 3,528,177 is assigned to General Research, Inc., of which Simjian is president.

A dispenser is an essential part of the equipment. In the case of textiles, a stockroom employee who has an order to fill carries a bolt of cloth to the dispenser and prepares to feed one end between its rollers. However, before the rollers will start measuring the cloth, he must insert in the machine a check card that identifies the goods. Once the dispenser does operate, the lot number and the length of the cloth are automatically signaled to the computer.

Besides maintaining inventory, the computer can tabulate sales.

Simjian believes his system eliminates human error. He contemplates its use to control bulk materials other than yardgoods — such as sand, gravel and liquids. For these, special measuring or weighing devices can be provided.

TANNED sharkskin, when properly conditioned, is highly regarded as a covering for astronauts' boots and gloves.

Frank Burgett and Jerry Poradek, project engineers for the Apollo and Skylab space suits at the manned spacecraft center in Houston, were granted Patent 3,526,473 for such articles to be worn in a "hostile environment."

The tanned sharkskin is soaked in a solvent to remove oils, is treated with a deodorizer to get rid of the fish odor, and is baked for a half-hour to pre-shrink it. The finished sharkskin has excellent abrasion resistance and remains flexible at extreme temperatures.

The sharkskin articles have not been used on the Apollo moon flights but may be taken aboard the Skylab orbiting space station and on other manned flights of long duration.

AN ATOMIC-POWERED

screen that was patented is intended to cause dust to settle outside open windows instead of entering a room.

Patent 3,528,080, which was awarded to Alexander Senkewich, a Russian-born New York engineer, says dust suspended in the air has its own static charge, negative or positive, and will settle on any object charged with opposite polarity.

The screen has parallel vertical rows of wires, alternatively carrying positive and negative current. The power is derived from an atomic battery that is expected to generate high voltage for "tens of years without special maintenance."

Senkewich is reported to have operated his screen experimentally.

PAUL VANDERS of New York has invented a folding drinking cup that provides its own aspirin or other pills. Patent 3,526,317 says that tearing off a strip that holds the tablets opens the cup.

Made of aluminum foil, the cup may be carried flat. The medicaments may be cold tablets, tranquilizers, bromides, vitamins, diet pills or denture cleaners.

THE DAILY INVESTOR

Don't Fret Over Legacy

By CHARLES J. ELIA

Q. I'm 67, my wife 91, and both in pretty good health. We don't own our own home and have no life insurance. Our income is entirely from dividends on blue-chip stocks. We receive about $8,000 a year this way but it isn't enough to keep up our way of living. We've lived above our income by about $2,000 a year for the last 10 years until I now have $20,000 in loans from the bank at 7½ per cent.

The question is: Should I sell all or part of my stocks and buy high-interest AAA bonds paying about 8½ per cent or keep the stocks? We're anxious that our estate pass on to our only son in good shape so I hesitate to sell the stocks. I'm told bonds would double my income.

A. It's conscientious of you to fret over the legacy to your son but don't you think you and the Mrs. have earned the right to live on $10,000 a year if that's what it takes?

I'm not suggesting you should kick up your heels and fritter away your life's savings, by any means, but that extra $2,000 a year shouldn't be a source of worry to you at this stage either.

As you note elsewhere, there is a capital-gains tax bite to consider if the stocks are sold. This is minimized somewhat, however, by your lower tax rate and double exemption for age.

There's no doubt you could raise your current yield substantially by careful investment in top-grade industrial and utility bonds, but I doubt if you'd double it.

You don't say what market value of stocks you're holding. If they're yielding close to 5 per cent overall, your portfolio is in the neighborhood of $160,000. The individual stocks you mentioned range in dividend yield from 3.2 to 8 per cent, but only a couple of them are yielding under 5 per cent. If you boosted over-all return to 8 per cent on that amount through use of bonds, you'd have current income of about $12,800 a year.

Mood Is Casual Living at Park Huntington Units

Casual living only minutes from the sea is the mood set at Park Huntington.

This S & S Construction community in Huntington Beach takes on all the flavor of the leisurely Southern California style of life.

In tune with this easy-going style, Park Huntington homes are built for versatile, flexible living. Five models of single and two-story homes offer a variety of floor plans to suit the needs of any family, with up to six bedrooms and three-and-a-half baths.

Family rooms in all homes are large, designed for informal indoor family recreation or casual entertaining.

Some family rooms offer pass-through wet bars, dramatic conversation pits, or fireplaces.

Family rooms open onto outdoor patios through sliding glass doors. Formal dining areas for more elegant entertaining are complemented by kitchen nooks — perfect for California people on the go.

FOR PARENTS, escaping from family noise and traffic is a breeze.

One master suite features a private retreat with imaginative possibilities as a sitting room or hobby room.

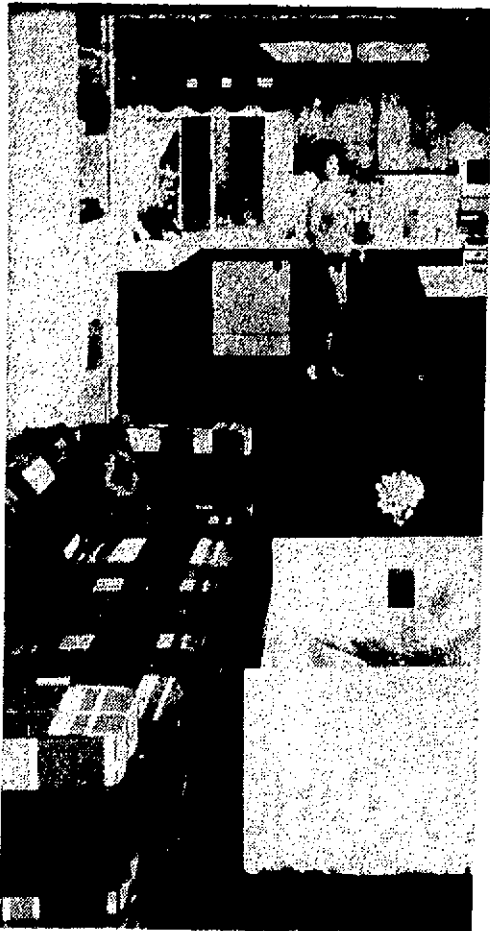

Another plan offers a choice of a fourth bedroom or den which might be used as a private library or office-at-home.

For the large family, the La Mer model features a second-floor recreation room which may be converted to two extra bedrooms, if desired. A three-car garage is also available with this plan, for the outdoor family that needs room to store an extra camper or boat.

THE versatility of Park Huntington homes is combined with quality construction. Each home is built with the finest materials available including genuine lath and plaster — which gives durability, a longer life and higher resale value. Other quality materials included in the purchase price of every home are: wall to wall luxury carpeting, marble fireplaces, crystal chandeliers, all-electric kitchens and automatic dishwasher.

Park Huntington homes are priced from $30,990.

To see the decorated models, take the San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst, continue south to Park Huntington.

Motor Truck Distributors Opens Signal Hill Facility

Sat., Sept. 19, 1970 INDEPENDENT PRESS-TELEGRAM—R-7

Motor Truck Distributors Co. has opened its newest sales and service facility on the Pacific Coast, this one in Signal Hill.

This new facility will give this Mack truck distributor four locations in the Southern California market area and is in line with a concept of facilities as close as possible to their customers.

More stores are planned. The new facility is a 20,000-square-foot sales, parts and service building at 2800 Cherry Ave. It will serve Long Beach, Orange County and the harbor areas.

The new ultra-modern operation is located on a 91-thousand-square-foot lot offering ample customer parking.

A COMPLETE line of new Mack trucks, and a good selection of used trucks and trailers are available.

Four 90-foot drive-through service bays assure customers the latest in complete equipment and service, while a 5,200-square-foot parts department assures immediate parts availability and service for all makes of trucks.

Dynamometer and steam cleaning facilities, as well as a customer lounge, further complement this location.

THE NEW facility will be staffed by experienced personnel.

Don Schuyler will serve as branch manager. He previously held this same position at the Los Angeles branch of Mack.

The service manager will be Jim Stevens, who also served in this same capacity at the Los Angeles branch. Whitie McGee, former L.A. parts manager, rounds out the group as parts manager.

Sales will be handled by Dick Bowdey, long time Long Beachite and Don

MOTOR TRUCK Distributors Co. operates, Mack truck sales, parts and service facilities in Colton, Los Angeles, and Ventura in Southern California as well as Oakland, Eureka, Redding, Sacramento and

6 Million Living in Homes-on-Wheels

NEW YORK (UPI) — One in every two single-family homes sold this year will be a mobile home. Newlyweds will purchase about half of them; retirees or older couples whose families are grown will buy more than 20 per cent.

The attraction? Modern convenience at low cost.

One young couple explained their decision to buy: "We couldn't afford the down payment on a house. We didn't want to pay high rent for an apartment. We bought a new, completely furnished mobile home for $5,000. After living in it for three years we sold it for $3,000. It was a rewarding way to beat the housing shortage."

The industry describes a mobile home as a "portable, wheeled structure that can be towed on its own chassis, connected to all utilities and used for year-round residential living."

TODAY, that's home for almost 6 million Americans. The Department of Commerce reports mobile homes accounted for more than 90 per cent of all new single-family residences priced below $15,000. The industry expects to sell 475,000 units this year; one million by 1975.

What does the mobile home family get for its money?

A fully furnished, completely equipped home ranging in price from $4,000 to $15,000 depending on size and furnishings. The variety in size and style is enormous. The average cost is $6,300, or about $8.75 per square foot, compared to approximately $20 per square foot for an unfurnished site-constructed home. Monthly space rentals range from $30 to $70.

PROMOTING the growth of the mobile home market is the increasing number of specially planned mobile home parks. There are 22,000 throughout the country at present; and the number is growing. Many of the new developments provide a package that includes paved streets, lighting, maintenance, cable television, playgrounds, swimming pools, man-made lakes, shopping centers, day-care centers and other facilities.

The mobile home is outfitted much as any dwelling — better than all but the most modern apartments. The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association says more than 90 per cent of mobile homes have refrigerators, 25 per cent have air conditioning.

ABOUT 85 per cent cook with natural or LP gas and 70 per cent heat with natural or LP gas. There are well-planned laundry areas equipped with automatic washers and dryers. Kitchen appliances are limited only by the homemaker's wishes, her budget and space.

Most mobile home families have rather limited property but they make the most of it. Grounds are landscaped and, often, fenced. Patios, redwood decking, shaded and screened sitting areas, storage buildings are common. Outdoor lighting, infra red heaters, barbecues help to expand living space.

Waiting for low home prices

could be like waiting for your proverbial ship of good fortune . . . a very long wait.

Sure, new homes cost money today . . . but they'll cost even more in the future. Interest rates, building costs, prices on everything are going up . . . by a thousand or two dollars a year.

You can beat this cost-price spiral if you buy your home NOW. That way you'll be covered. Your home will rise in value as real estate prices rise. You'll build equity instead of spending money on rent. But you've got to do it soon . . . before it costs you even more.

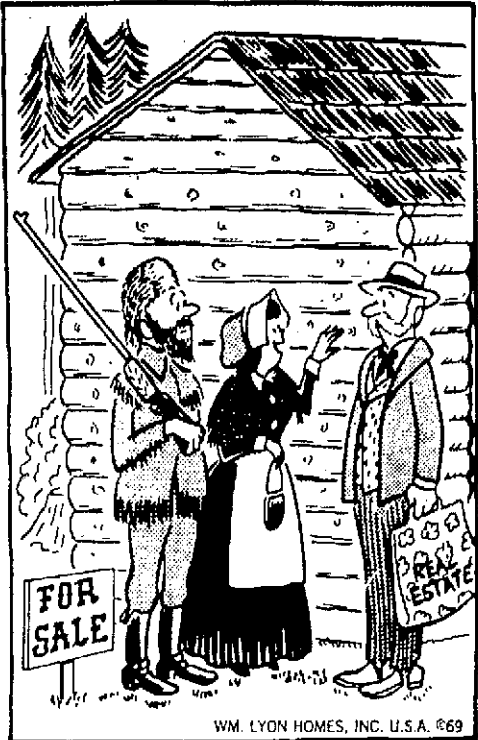

Take a look at Saturday's PROGRESS section. It's packed with information on beautiful new homes from the area's finest builders. Pictures, features, advertisements will show you where to look and what is new in the construction industry. Do it soon . . . for relief from that cost hang-up!

needs with his order for groceries, meat, gift items, musical records, flowers, travel tickets, liquor, pharmaceutical supplies, health-beauty aids, bakery and dairy products, plus other items and services that even extend to insurance.

ITEMS carried by TeleMart are described and illustrated in the attractive 286-page guide which also includes recipes, meal planning ideas, shopping tips, new product information and other items of interest to homemakers.

Prices, however, are not listed for they fluctuate and are computer-tabulated daily to be competitive.

One of the 80 Tele-Shoppers, assisted by Clara The Computer, quotes three prices — the cost of a single item, multiple items and a case — giving the customer the opportunity of benefitting by volume buying. Price savings also are featured on the private TeleMart labels offered on many quality items including liquor.

WITH ALL items carrying a 100 per cent customer satisfaction guarantee, shoppers are assured of "fresh from the field" produce and fresh meat.

TeleMart's USDA Choice meat is specially bred by the Arizona-Colorado Land & Cattle Co. which uses computer controls for feeding cattle. The aged meat is then shipped direct to TeleMart for processing and custom cutting. The Distribution Center's warehouse constructed at a cost of $500,000 by Don Koll, Inc., is equipped with an exclusively designed conveyor system developed by the Rapistan Corp.

Again, assisted by "Clara," one of Rohr Corp.'s two IBM 360-65 computers, the items are selected for delivery, conveyed in the shipping dock and inventory records updated.

From the Distribution Center, the order goes to one of 75 awaiting Tele-Trucks which deliver the items at a time specified by the customer when the order is placed.

3-Car Garages Now Standard at Mission Ridge Homes

Dramatizing the exclusive appeal of its executive Mission Ridge homes, Mission Viejo Company has announced the addition of a new standard feature for the home — full carpeting in the three-car garage of every home.

The totally elegant homes are adjacent to the Mission Viejo Golf Course and Inn. Most of the homes include views of the surrounding hillside areas.

Large master suites with sitting rooms, private bath and dressing area, two fireplaces, spacious pool-sized lots, tiled patio bar, high quality wall-to-wall carpeting throughout and living areas ranging from 2400 to 3400 square feet, are included in the basic prices, which start at $45,950.

CUSTOM interior and exterior light fixtures, numerous panels of glass, vaulted ceilings with exposed beams, built-in appliances in several decorative colors (including self-cleaning oven) are also included at Mission Ridge.

"The neighborhood is also quite close to a medical-dental building, new schools, and recreational facilities. Residents enjoy all advantages of living in Mission Viejo, plus the prestige of living in the most exclusive neighborhood of the community," said Martin.

Three elaborately-designed plans, with 10 exterior elevations, are on display from 9:30 a.m. till 6 p.m., and are located on Bodega Road, approximately a half mile from the junction of Marguerite Parkway and Oso Parkway.

The San Diego Freeway is easily accessible via the La Paz Road ramps.

Rancho La Cuesta's New Model Nears Completion

A new model is nearing completion at Don Ayres Jr.'s Rancho La Cuesta in Huntington Beach.

The Wimbeldon is a two-story home with 2200 square feet of living area downstairs and 230 upstairs.

Early buyers will receive their homes with the upstairs bonus area finished.

SALES manager Heinz Lueck points out now is an excellent time to see construction features of the home while it is being built. Artist's renderings

The Wimbeldon has a formal dining room and a rumpus room with a wet bar and fireplace. The master bedroom suite has a private bathroom with a sunken Roman tub.

The Wimbeldon is selling for $34,390 to $35,700. There are five other furnished and decorated model homes open to visitors daily, according to Lueck.

The model home and sales-information complex is located at Brookhurst Street and Atlanta Avenue, Huntington Beach.

New El Ray Park Homes Cerritos, Handy to Stores

Boise Cascade Building Co.'s El Ray Park, in Cerritos, is offering the final homes in the present unit. The homes are convenient to schools, churches, shopping, entertainment, recreational centers and all the facilities in Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

The Morningside, a three-bedroom, two-bath home, sells for as low as $24,950.

The Chevy Chase, with four bedrooms and two baths, is selling from $29,950. A four-bedroom, two-bath home, The Madrid, is selling for as low as $31,950.

El Ray Park homes are located near the new Cerritos Mall, now under construction a few blocks from El Ray Park. The mall will be one of Southern California's largest and most complete air-conditioned shopping centers with 110 shops, department stores, restaurants and theatres.

An excellent selection of floorplans and exterior styling are available. Furnished and decorated model homes may be visited daily from the San Gabriel Freeway to South Street, west on South Street to Studebaker Road and left to El Ray Park.

AT WESTHAVEN, TOO

Free Auto Litter Bags Are Given to Yorktowne Visitors

Today, everybody seems to be wound up in the ecology bag and Larry Shields thinks he has a new wrinkle.

Every visitor to his Yorktowne or Westhaven master-planned community will receive a plastic automobile litter bag, free.

"We hear so much talk about pollution of the air, land and sea but nobody really seems to be doing anything constructive about it. In my small way, I hope that people will dispose their waste materials in the litter bag I am providing instead of dumping their garbage on the streets," Shields pointed out.

Shields' campaign to clean up the Southern California area coincides with the big builder's closest sale at the Westhaven and Yorktowne complexes.

The Westhaven community in Westminster-Fountain Valley features outstanding values with the best in location, features, floorplans and designs. At Yorktowne in Huntington Beach, a similar closeout sale is going on featuring the spacious two, three and four bedroom homes.

AT WESTHAVEN the homes are priced from $31,095 with financing available through VA, FHA or conventional terms and there are 20 exciting exteriors to select from.

The one and two-story models come complete with built-in kitchens including double ovens, dishwashers and a host of other time saving conveniences.

For shopping needs, the Huntington Center and the South Coast Plaza are close by.

To inspect these homes, take either the Santa Ana, Garden Grove, or the San Diego Freeway to Brookhurst then drive south to Yorktowne Avenue, then right to the models. The homes are open from 10 a.m. until dusk daily.

Assessed valuation of land in the Los Angeles five-county consolidated area has increased by $6 billion, or 156 per cent, in the 11-year period since 1958.

Figures do not include improvements on land or personal property.

During the same period the population rose by 2.6 million, or 35.36 per cent.

Orange County led all counties in land percentage increase with 262.6 per cent, but Los Angeles County had the highest dollar increase, $4.23 billion, according to Donald Katz of PBL Research Corporation.

PBL Research is a subsidiary of Pre-Builder Land Corporation.

Population-increase percentage winner over the 11-year period was Orange County with 138.4 per cent, followed by Ventura County with 110 per cent. Los Angeles County, which had the greatest numerical population increase — 1.2 million, had the lowest percentage increase, 21 per cent.

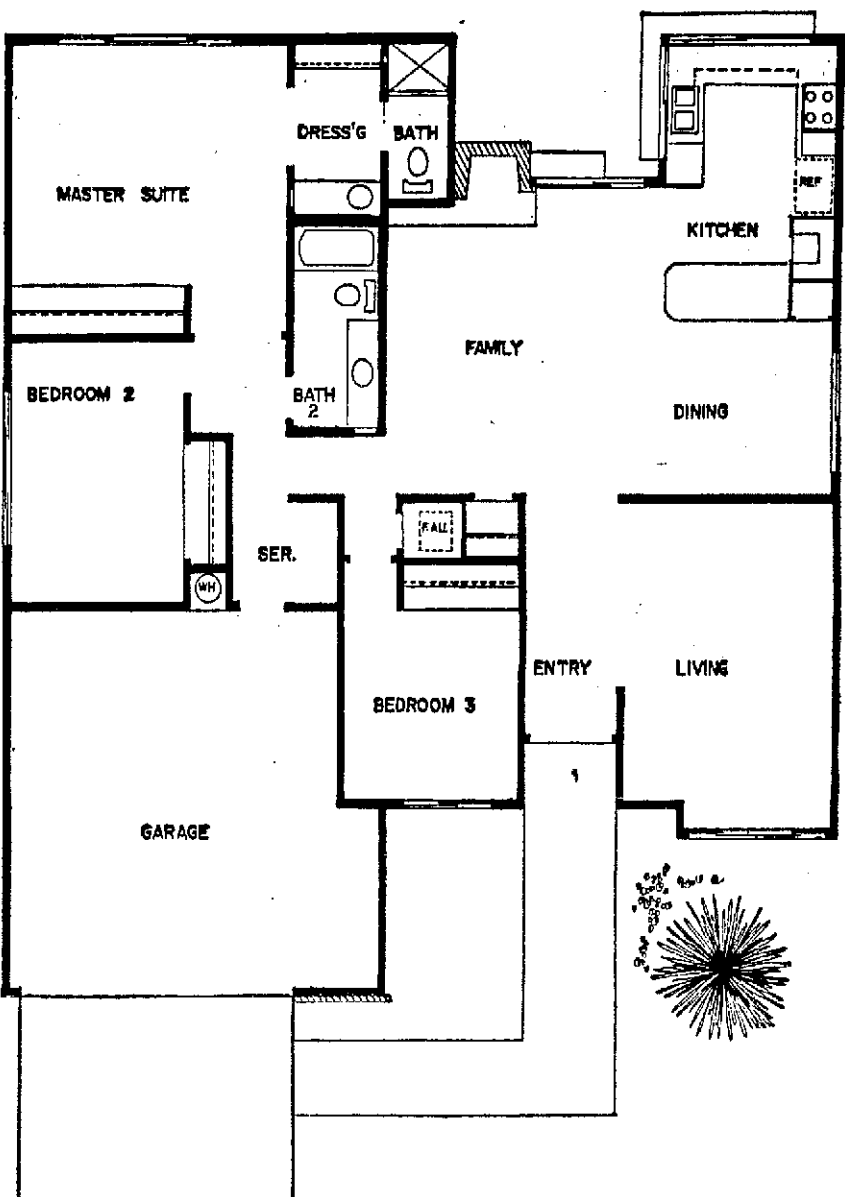

OVER THE past year, however, Ventura County led all others in population percentage increase, 4.6 per cent. Orange had the greatest numerical increase, 60,000.

Riverside County assessed land valuation increased by 199.5 per cent and $327,263,560, to place that county second by percentage increase and third in dollar-value increase. Although Los Angeles County grew by $4.2 billion, it ranked fourth in actual percentage increase, with 144.4 per cent.

Although Ventura County ranked fifth in percentage increase with 108.6 per cent over the period, it ranked first at 17 per cent during the one-year '68-'69 and '69-'70 period, Katz pointed out.

IN SPITE OF the tight money situation, no county in the study showed a decrease in land value over the 11-year period. In the period '68-'69 to '69-'70, Los Angeles County again led the way in dollar increase with $538 million.

Raw population figures are based on data furnished by California Department of Finance, and land-assessment figures were provided by the State Controller's Annual Report of Assessed Valuation.

UTILIZED BY WALKER & LEE

New Space-Age Rental Plan at Work

Tele-Trend, the nation's first "space-age" home rental information system, began operating in Orange County in mid-August with Walker & Lee, Inc. as its first major client, it was announced by Paul Pacera Jr., chairman of the board of Tele-Trend Systems, Inc., Tustin, and William McCabe, senior vice president of Walker & Lee, the Anaheim-based realty firm.

Pacera, a second generation real estate man, said the idea for the system stemmed from an experience in a rental office eleven months ago:

"I was astounded by two things, the volume of the home rental business and the horse-and-buggy era methods employed. A prospective renter was handed a list of 10 or 15 addresses of properties.

"If all the properties had been rented, were in poor condition, or were unsuitable, that was just too bad. The renter had used up the list and was no better off than before he paid his fee.

"Obviously, it was time for space-age ideas and equipment to enter the picture."

"THIS IS really an exciting, new solution to the prospective renter's home-hunting problem," said McCabe.

"It enables our brokers to be kept really well informed on all available rental property. We firmly believe this system represents as big an improvement over conventional home rental procedures as today's tele-communications from the moon over Alexander Graham Bell's first telephone."

Eighteen Walker & Lee offices in Orange County are linked through a Xerox telecopying system with Tele-Trend's main office in Tustin.

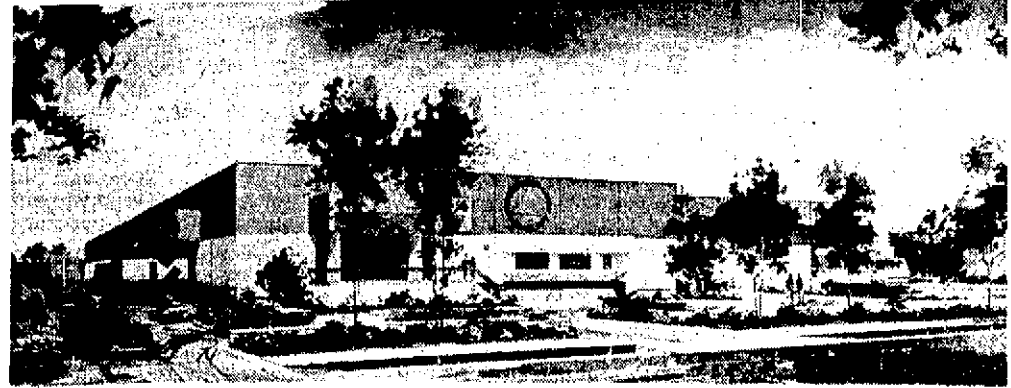

Each afternoon the Walker & Lee offices receive from Tele-Trend a detailed listing approximately 95 per cent of all available apartment and house rentals in the county.

FOR A $15 fee, a prospective renter may obtain the daily listing through any of the 18 offices. The fee entitles him to a new list every day for one month, providing hundreds of listings more than conventional rental information procedures.

Complete information is provided on each rental, including the size, description, and condition of the property; location; rental price; and type of lease. The listings may be as lengthy as the landlord wishes.

There is no fee to the landlord for the service.

"If a prospective renter finds inaccurate information of any kind in the listing," Pacera notes, "we will return the entire $15. If, at the end of 30 days, a client is unable to find suitable premises, a $10 service fee is retained by the company, and $5 is returned to him. The refund policy is fully bonded."

The Lighter Side

necessarily synonymous.)

THE OPTIONAL payment plan was an extremely sensible arrangement and its repeal has been mainly responsible for the decline and fall of the Post Office Department.

Every consumer knows that when you pay in advance you are unlikely to get as good service as when you withhold payment until the service has been performed. This includes postal service.

Compulsory prepayment of postage relieved the department of any real incentive to deliver the mail within a reasonable length of time.

Now there is a move afoot to abolish the department and replace it with a non-profit postal corporation. Should that happen, the corporation's first step should be reinstatement of the optional system.

IF YOUR baker offered you stale bread, you would refuse to pay for it, right? Then you should be required to pay for stale mail. Unless a letter is delivered while it is still fresh, you should have rejection rights.

Or possibly some sort of discount rate could be adopted. As a baker usually charges less for day-old bread, the Postal Corporation could knock down the price of stale mail.

Requiring mailmen to make collection along their routes would, I'll concede, be somewhat burdensome. But it need not be unduly so. The Postal Corporation could make their jobs easier by issuing credit cards.

Among the consumer protection measures pending in Congress is a bill to require food processors to stamp freshness dates on their packages where everyone can read them.

At present, the date when a product becomes too old to be sold is printed in code. Supermarket clerks decipher the code and supposedly remove the product from the shelf when it passes the freshness date.

But if a stale product remained on the counter, the customers would never know it. At least not until they got home and tasted the stuff. For the only way consumers can determine the relative freshness of food products is by breaking the code.

Examine it closely and you will find that this situation has all the elements — mystery, intrigue, etc. — of high melodrama. The first publisher who brings out a book titled "I Was a Cryptographer for the A&P" probably will make a fortune.

Or, if you prefer movie thrillers, here's a scenario I've been working on:

The scene is the code room of the Maltese Falcon Supermarket. Bertie Plunker, chief cryptographer, who closely resembles the late Peter Lorre, is routinely stamping code numbers on kumquats, which closely resemble the late Sidney Greenstreet.

Suddenly the secret panel flies open and into the room bursts Jonathan Plunksteak, head butcher, who closely resembles the late Humphrey Bogart.

"Plunker!" he gasps. "Someone has broken our brisket code!"

"Gad, man!" Plunker exclaims, blanching. "You must be mistaken. What aroused your suspicions?"

"I put a batch of August briskets in the meat counter, carefully covered by July briskets, whose freshness date expires in two weeks. They look identical in the clear plastic packages. But the customers pushed aside the July briskets to get at the August briskets. That wouldn't have happened if they didn't know the code."

Plunker gives a low whistle. "Sounds fishy, all right. Any clues?"

"It has almost got to be an inside job. I think you had better call in counter-intelligence."

"Right. Where is counter-intelligence located?"

"On Aisle 3 next to the canned fruit..."

Well, I don't want to give the whole plot away, but I'll give you a hint. Keep your eye on the nude checker who closely resembles Raquel Welch.

Sidewalk Solicitors Under Control, Police Chief Says

It is illegal under state law to beg or solicit alms in a public place, and Long Beach police work closely with downtown merchants to enforce this law, Police Chief William J. Mooney reported Friday.

Chief Mooney was responding to an inquiry by the City Council, which stemmed from a complaint by Bill Helton, 532 Newport Ave., about street-corner solicitations in the downtown area.

Helton had enclosed a newspaper clipping about an individual who reportedly had been stopped at every Pine Avenue corner between First and Fifth streets by requests to buy a magazine, or make a donation to some organization.

HELTON, WHO operates a pool hall and a car and motorbike rental business at 227 and 233 E. Ocean Blvd., said also that he had observed "many people" in recent months panhandling on Ocean Boulevard from Locust Avenue to Long Beach Boulevard and on Long Beach Boulevard north to Third Street.

During a recent three-day period, Chief Mooney said, two police officers from the fraud section made six checks of Pine Avenue and found two young men passing out miniature Bibles at Fourth Street, a blind man selling pens and pencils between Third and Fourth, a blind woman playing an accordion and selling pencils near Fourth Street, and a young man asking people to sign a petition at Sixth Street.

The man and woman selling the pens and pencils were informed of the city ordinance prohibiting such action and immediately left, the chief said.

CHIEF MOONEY also noted that there are newsstands at the northwest corner of Pine Avenue and Sixth Street and at the northeast and southwest corners of Pine and Fourth.

Voter registration tables are frequently set up at the entrances to some of the larger stores on Pine Avenue and, from time to time, sororities or other organizations have a bake sale, the chief said. He pointed out that these activities actually are on private property.

Chief Mooney said that the Police Department works closely with members of Downtown Long Beach Associates, the merchants' organization, to control solicitors in the area, "and will continue to keep this type of activity under control as problems arise in the future."

2½-HOUR CROSS-EXAMINATION

Seal Beach Chief Grilled

By BOB SANDERS
Staff Writer

The Seal Beach City Council hearing into the Marina Palace license case ground through another session Friday night with the prosecutor himself — Police Chief Lee Case — cross-examined for 2½ hours by the defense.

Shortly after the hearing opened at 7 o'clock, acting City Manager Dennis Courtemarche moved from the council rostrum to the counsel table to aid Case's No. 2, Lt. Al Chase, in the prosecution, vacating a place he has maintained throughout two Marina Palace hearings.

Chief Case, who was beleaguered by questions concerning "discrepancies" in undercover police reports on the Marina Palace by defense attorney Russell Bledsoe, was at one point asked how he had been chosen to act as prosecutor in the hearing.

"I don't know how I got into this position," Case responded.

The hearing is the second to be conducted by Seal Beach city officials into charges of sexual misconduct, drug use and overage — above 20 — patrons at the teen dance hall.

Courtemarche ended the first hearing with a decision to close the Marina Palace for two weeks and put its management on probation for a year.

The decision was appealed by William L. Robertson, who operates the Marina Palace for his wife, Mary Robertson. The council had the choice of holding a new trial or affirming or rejecting Courtemarche's decision.

Chief Case, who has acted as prosecutor in both trials, chose to put himself on the witness stand at Wednesday's session to "make a statement about the circumstances" of the Marina Palace investigation.

Defense Attorney Bledsoe consumed most of the Friday night session questioning Chief Case about the "discrepancies" between various undercover reports.

The police chief, who at times appeared on the verge of losing his temper, answered most of the questions by reiterating his earlier testimony.

Bledsoe questioned the chief pointedly on the reasons for his requesting the original hearing on the Marina Palace license and attempted to discredit reports by undercover police officers Al George of the Long Beach Police Department and Tony Piazza of the Seal Beach Police Department.

The Los Angeles defense attorney several times asked Chief Case why he did not call Robertson in to discuss the circumstances at the Marina Palace. He implied that Case was acting under the orders of former City Manager Lee Risner in conducting the investigation.

The hearing which adjourned at 10 p.m. with Chief Case still on the witness stand, will resume Monday at 1:30 p.m. in the council chambers.

New Law Abolishes Residence Requirement

From Our State Bureau

A bill which makes it illegal for cities to require their employees to live within a city's boundaries has been signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the governor's office said Friday.

Most California cities, including Long Beach, have already abolished such residence requirements.

The bill, introduced by State Sen. John F. McCarthy, R-San Rafael, states that "No local agency or district shall require that its employees be residents of such local agencies or districts."

It will take effect 60 days after the end of the Legislature's veto session, which opens Monday.

Long Beach voters tossed out the residency requirement in a 1988 city election after many local civic groups campaigned against it.

The residency rule was abolished in Signal Hill five years ago, officials there said.

CARMELITOS ANNEX EYED

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

Annexation of the Carmelitos Housing Project to the City of Long Beach could be accomplished within 100 days, the county's Housing Authority was advised Friday.

The Authority delayed action on a proposed resolution of the six-month-old rent strike at the housing project to a special meeting "within 15 days." But it approved a $1-a-year lease of a building which will house the Carmelitos Free Breakfast program.

The annexation plan was described for the Housing Authority by Dave Elder, of the Long Beach city attorney's office.

Elder said that the names of 25 proponents of the annexation will be published shortly along with the advice that petitions are to be circulated in the project seeking signatures of 25 per cent of the registered voters.

AFTER THE sufficiency of the petitions is certified, an ordinance would be drafted, given two readings before the City Council and, after 30 days, certified to the secretary of state.

"It is possible," said Elder, "that all of these things could be accomplished within 100 days."

Walter Hicks, chairman of the Housing Authority, said he thought the annexation would provide Carmelitos residents with "a much greater degree of police protection and fire protection." He said he hoped the annexation moves smoothly.

"I don't know if the City of Long Beach is anxious for this annexation to succeed," said Al Atchison, vice chairman of the Authority, "but I do know that Supervisor (Burton W.) Chase is anxious about it. He is convinced that the people in the project will profit from the greater degree of service."

The authority, presented with the Human Relations Commission's plan for ending the drawn-out rent strike which has plagued the housing project, voted to delay a decision until a special meeting "within 15 days."

"I DON'T think there is anyone who wants to see this thing settled more than this board," said Hicks.

The commission's settlement formula will have some competition at the special meeting.

The authority accepted a plan from Kenneth Steiner, manager of the Carmelitos project, which he said had been effective elsewhere. Like the Human Relations Commission plan, it entails a resident advisory board but, Steiner said, it would encompass all three of the county's housing projects, not merely Carmelitos. The other projects are located in East Los Angeles and in Wilmington.

In authorizing the use of the Carmelitos health clinic building for use as a headquarters for a free breakfast program, the authority limited its financial investment in repairing the building to $1,500. The lease agreement is to be made with Mrs. Marcia Loomis and will, the Authority's counsel said, "safeguard both the tenants and the Authority."

Clark Won't Back Recall; Sharp Silent

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Councilman Thomas J. Clark said Friday he will not support the attempt to recall four members of the City Council, but Councilman Wayne B. Sharp declined to comment on the issue.

The two councilmen, along with Mayor Edwin W. Wade, consistently have voted against all measures to increase air passenger service at Long Beach Airport.

Mayor Wade, in an announcement last week, said the move to recall Councilmen Bert Bond, Paul R. Deats, E.F. (Ted) Crucible and Russell Rubley is "unwarranted," and urged voters not to sign recall petitions.

When questioned Friday by the press, Dr. Clark said he could not support the recall, "because I don't think the basis for it is sound."

"My own feeling is that the only sound basis for a recall is corruption in office," Dr. Clark said.

COUNCILMAN CLARK
Ballot's the Way

COUNCILMAN SHARP
He Won't Comment

"I would hope that the people would express their opposition to the airport by voting against Proposition T on the Nov. 3 ballot," he said. "This would be a more logical and reasonable way to show opposition to airport expansion."

Proposition T would authorize extension of Runway 25-L, the southerly east-west runway at Long Beach Airport, for use on takeoffs by the passenger flights.

Sharp, in response to a similar press inquiry, said he did not wish to make any statement on the recall matter.

WANT A THREE-FACED DOLL?

Treasures of Past on Sale

By MOLLY BURRELL
Staff Writer

Hanker for a green diamond ring? Or an Edison gramophone?

Maybe a three-faced doll or an 1861 copy of Harper's Weekly or an 1819 Gothic crystal chandelier?

They're all there — and more at the semiannual Antique Fair and Show at the Long Beach Arena.

Seventy dealers and exhibitors from seven states have booths and stalls filled with the memorabilia of three centuries.

BUT THE youngest — and prettiest — entrepreneur in the highly competitive commerce in old things, is a 15-year-old businesswoman-student named Dodie Crouch. For the past 14 months she has owned and operated "Dodie's Antiques" in a four-room setting at 635 Market Street.

Red haired and buxom, bubbling and businesslike, Dodie admits she is "first a collector, then a dealer."

"I began all this with a doll collection. I must have more than 200 of them now — locked away. Some are very rare, some I just love," she admits.

That nightmare of all collectors of fragile things, earthquake, sent her scurrying to clutch an 1810 Capo di Monte porcelain urn.

"It's so fantastic," she chirped. "It has this goat's head and grapes clustered around and it sits on a gilded shell."

Her other favorites: a Royal Bayreuth porcelain tray, a regal throne chair upholstered in red velvet, and all the Tiffany leaded stained glass panels from the former First Methodist Church at Pacific Avenue and Fifth street.

Dodie's work permit allows her to leave Jordan High school at noon, and her mother opens shop at 11. "I stay open as long as there are any customers, and do my homework on the side," she explains.

ONE OF the most expensive items in the show is a rare Louis XV curio cabinet made entirely of tortoise shell and bronze. Price tag: $5,500.

The three-faced dolls smile, look pensive and sleep, depending on which face is turned forward. They are French, and join a unique assortment of dolls at a special booth which includes a very rare Bru doll tagged at $2,800.

Coca Cola trays are bringing $18 to $45, and the green diamond (a 1.1 carat round cut stone bombarded in a cyclotron) sells for $950.

Admission is $2. The show remains open through 10 p.m. today and reopens Sunday from noon until 6 p.m.

Council OKs Cerritos Master Plan

The Cerritos City Council has ratified contracts for a new master plan and an updated parks and recreation plan for the city, Mayor Robert J. Witt said Friday.

Lampman and Associates of Pomona has been awarded a $35,000 contract for a six to eight-month study and recommendations for land uses for the city. The existing land use plan of the city was developed in 1968.

Richard Bigler was awarded a $5,000 contract for updating the city-wide plan for parks. Both consulting firms are already at work.

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today! This year is to be your best year in all departments of life. You must start with what you are and what you have. Changing conditions to be effective. Sentimental interests respond to the same transformation. Many pleasant moments are promised. Today's natives keep themselves busy, often with unrealistic projects, occasionally radical ideas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): This Sunday should be reserved for rest and expression of faith. Travel is delayed. People are generally caught up in their own concerns and not very communicative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take a quiet, sensitive approach to discussions. As squabbles deteriorate easily into angry quarrels. Seek diversion in intellectual pastimes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You are likely to miss the point, or substitute your point in discussions. Try to do a better job of listening. If possible, spend the day in solitude. The evening is easier.

CANCER (June 21-July 20): Join in the community expression of faith. Draw away from possible discord with loose parties. Quietly monitor people, bring answers, while distracting you from emotional stimuli.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 22): Your impulse to generous hospitality and showing off would lead to extremes beyond expectations, and not achieve the results. Social activities are better kept simple.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Use care and consideration in all you do. Firmly and firmly now give people some relief from conflict and uncomfortable pressures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The temptation is to overdo in physical exertion, games, exercise. Old issues resurface and may precipitate much discussion, argument. Take it easy!

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Your tendency is to be brilliant in your statements — more than people expect — so you present yourself more strongly than you plan. Reflect on the situation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sometimes the best thing is simple cooperation, coloring questions until later. Such a line is in this direction-switching day. Later hours bring relaxation.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You are tempted to take sides, but where your climate is already well organized, perhaps more uncommitted people are needed to bridge the gap. Think before you rumormongers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Allow extra space for the general impatience of others today. Where conditions permit, take time off from your favorite pastimes.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What happens today brings you mixed feelings. Wait for the full story. You find particularly that nobody was completely right, nobody entirely wrong.

VETO PARK
Planners Vote for Rezoning

Rezoning of 4.8 acres of surplus Water Department property at the southwest corner of Pioneer Boulevard and Carson Street for an apartment development has been approved by a 4-1 vote of the Planning Commission.

The vote rejected suggestions that the property might be developed as a park.

Hal Levy, senior engineer for the Water Department said the property is "completely isolated" from Long Beach by the San Gabriel Freeway and actually borders Hawaiian Gardens.

"WE'D BE most happy to turn this property over to the city government for use as a park if they want it," Levy said, but he added the city had shown "absolutely no interest in it whatsoever."

The park proposal was made by architect Stan Golden, who was in the audience to testify in another hearing. He admitted he is "totally unfamiliar" with the property in question, but said he thought the commission had a "tremendous and wonderful" opportunity to take an action for providing park space.

"That is exactly the way I feel about this situation," said Commissioner Arnold Berg.

Commissioner Weckford Morgan contended, however, that there already are two major parks nearby — Heartwell and El Dorado — and that the 4.8 acres is inadequate for anything but a "minipark."

SUCH USE, Morgan said, could only be justified if it were surrounded by residences. The only possible people to benefit would be residents of Hawaiian Gardens, he added.

Levy said the Water Department had offered the land to the city of Hawaiian Gardens, but said that city did not have funds for the development.

Levy said the department sought the zone change because it has received a proposal from a developer to provide low and medium-cost housing.

"This is a reasonable use of a very poorly shaped piece of ground," Levy said.

Berg cast the only vote against the zone change.

3 Bus Route Changes
Approved; 1 Pending

Three changes in city bus routes have been approved by the Long Beach Bureau of Franchises after receiving company assurance that there will be no reduction in service.

One other proposed change, elimination of the Naples Plaza spur of the No. 5 route, was held over because of the absence of Councilman Paul R. Deats, in whose district it is located.

Two of the changes involve a "switch" between portions of routes 5 and 13.

One segment of Route No. 5 now crosses the Davies Bridge and, by way of Pacific Coast Highway, Loyne Drive and Margo Avenue, serves California State College at Long Beach. Route No. 13 crosses the bridge and turns on Marina Drive to serve Seal Beach.

THE BUREAU approved the request of Long Beach Public Transportation Co. to serve Seal Beach by the No. 5 line, and have the No. 13 line go to the college.

William F. Farrell, general manager of the transit company, said the change will permit economies in operation because of the comparative overall lengths of the two lines.

The changes will be effected as soon as the bus company can print its new schedules, the bureau was told.

The other approved changes, which are effective immediately, are:

—All trips on Route No. 9 will go through the state college campus, instead of the present system of half the trips by-passing the campus by turning north on Bellflower Boulevard from Seventh Street.

—Downtown Route No. 10, which now terminates at Carson Street and Los Coyotes Diagonal, will be extended east to the U.S. Naval Hospital, where it will turn around and retrace its route.

Woman Pilot Picked for Harmon Award

SAS Scandinavian Airlines flight officer Turi Wideroe of Norway, the first woman pilot for an international airline, has been selected to receive the 1970 Harmon Aviatix Award.

Miss Wideroe, a willowy blonde who visited Long Beach last spring to inspect the cockpit mockup of the new McDonnell Douglas DC-10 trijet, joins a distinguished list of previous holders of the award, including Amelia Earhart and Jacqueline Cochran.

Earlier foreign winners of the trophy were Amy Millison and Lady Mary Bailey of Britain and Jacqueline Auriol of France.

Other Harmon Trophy winners announced previously are Apollo 11 Spacecraft Commander Neil Armstrong and his crewmen, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins, who participated in the historic moon landing in 1969.

The date for the presentations ceremony, usually held at the White House, has not been announced.

Miss Wideroe's citation recognized her "skills in Arctic flying which led to her acceptance by Scandinavian Airlines as the first woman pilot for a worldwide international airline."

The Impossible Dream,
Mideast Myth, Bombing PS

By LES RODNEY

After getting some soundings from friends outside its ranks, the National Council of Churches has abandoned its plan to call an all-Christian assembly in America.

The reason — to avoid discouraging participation by those who don't like the council.

Dr. Cynthia Wedel, the council president, a practical woman, reveals that "good friends outside of the council" urged the council to stay out of the process. Some church people, Mrs. Wedel observes "don't want to be associated with anything the council does."

It was decided, she added, that "it would be better for others deeply concerned with wider Christian unity to take the responsibility."

Such an assembly would hopefully bring together all sections of American Christianity for discussions, including the massive Southern Baptist Convention, the Missouri Synod Lutherans, representatives of the millions of independent conservative Protestants, and the Roman Catholics.

The council is being realistic in bowing out as a sponsor. The question is whether it is realistic to expect that such an assembly can be brought together at all.

"The Arab governments and the nations of the world have been permissive toward such lawlessness and revolutionary anarchy far too long," he added, "and today not only Jews or Israelis are being victimized but the entire human family is being held hostage. The

RT. REV. GOODEN
At Old Pulpit

Oldest Bishop Returns to
L.B. St. Luke's

The Rt. Rev. Robert Burton Gooden, "retired" Suffragan Bishop of Los Angeles, who was rector of Long Beach's St. Luke's Episcopal Church from 1907 to 1912, will visit his old parish Sunday, preaching the 11 a.m. sermon at the church at Atlantic and Seventh.

Bishop Gooden, who turned 86 on Friday, is the oldest bishop in the entire Anglican Church. But although he formally retired in 1947 at the age of 72, his active ministry has continued right to the present. He assists the Bishop of the Southland diocese (largest Episcopal diocese in the country) in many ways, including officiating at ordinations and confirmations.

Termed an amazingly alert and active man for his years, the English-born bishop spent his boyhood years in California, and got his degree from Trinity College in Hartford, Conn. A son, Rt. Rev. Reginald H. Gooden, is bishop of the Panama Canal Zone.

MAY I HAVE A MOMENT OF YOUR TIME?

Henry Drummond tells us that the greatest thing in the world is love. Others may say that life is the greatest thing in the world. Christ, in coming to earth, expressed the great love of God, but He came that man might have life.

Jesus exclaimed, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." The entire ministry of the First Baptist Church is designed to put you in touch with this dynamic person, Jesus Christ, for a full and meaningful life.

A cordial welcome awaits you today!

Sincerely,
Jack Ostermann
Associate Pastor

Released Time Offers Kids Story of Faith

Next week, all fourth and fifth graders in Long Beach elementary schools will (if they don't lose them on the way home!) bring to their parents a brochure explaining the Released Time religious education program conducted by the city's churches. Plus a registration card to be filled if the parents decide they would like the youngster to have 40 minutes of religious instruction per week.

In that case, they are asked to check their preference for the religious group which provides the transportation, teachers, et al — the Roman Catholic Church, Evangelical Protestant churches, or the local Council of Churches, also Protestant.

These three groups, long before the word "ecumenical" became popular, combined in 1945 in the Interfaith Committee which made possible the successful program. It may have been a national "first." Starting its 26th year in Long Beach, the three have maintained peaceful cooperation and mutual respect in behalf of the common objective.

The program originally involved children from seven elementary schools, and this year will encompass 44 schools.

The three Christian groups cooperate among themselves and with the school authorities to arrange the day of release, but each group has complete freedom and responsibility to run its section of the program as it decides. The brochure gives the philosophy of each for the parent to consider.

Boys and girls who are enrolled by their parents will, once a week, be released from the last 40 minutes of the school day.

Youth Minister

Rev. Jon Mark Schoon, former chaplain at Wayland Academy in Beaver Dam, Wis., has been installed as Minister of Youth and Christian Education at Bethel Reformed Church, 10012 Ramona St., Bellflower.

The religious group chosen will escort them to an off-campus location, a nearby church or home. Classes this year begin Oct. 12.

The school district directs that instruction during this 40 minute period should provide a minimum of difficulty for those boys and girls who leave to take advantage of the released time program.

No public funds are involved, each group financing the expenses of its own program. Teachers are voluntary and unpaid. Experience has shown, the Interfaith Committee reports, that the children in the program also learn respect for the other pupil's religion.

Released time operates for more than two million children in 46 of the 50 states, and was upheld by the Supreme Court in 1952.

Members of the Long Beach Interfaith Committee meet regularly with the director of elementary schools, to coordinate things properly with the school district. Directing the three programs are Rev. Don Lindblom, executive director of the Long Beach Area Council of Churches; Mrs. G. McCleary, Evangelical churches, and Mrs. Robert Uhl, Roman Catholic Church.

The Interfaith Committee currently includes Chaplain Robert Nichols, a Christian counselor, and Rev. Ed Phillips of the Assembly of God, for the Evangelicals; Rev. James Laughname of St. Cornelius and Rev. Larry Triesch of Holy Innocents, for the Catholics; Rev. Joseph Reed of Bixby Knolls Christian and Rev. James Deemer of First United Presbyterian, for the Council churches.

All three programs utilize selected and trained personnel, with modern teaching aids. They agree that the aim is in no way to take the place of church and Sunday School instruction, but to help infuse the children, during the regular school week, with the story and the values of their religion.

LONG BEACH'S cooperative Released Time program for religious education is explained to Mrs. Richard Crain (standing) and her sons Wes, 10, and Jeff, 8, by members of the Interfaith Committee — Mrs. G. McCleary for the Evangelical churches, Rev. Don Lindblom for the Council of Churches, Rev. Larry Triesch for the Catholics (a former released time student himself.) On left is Louis A. Cook, Jr., director of Long Beach elementary schools.

Bible Clearly Approves Just War, Capital Punishment, Reader Asserts

(The following letter from a reader was written in response to an article on these pages by Mark Clutter which raised the question of whether "Thou Shalt Not Kill" literally means that.)

Dear Sirs:

The article asked for comment on the Biblical doctrines which relate to the question "When is it justifiable to take human life?"

In the light of the command "Thou shalt not kill" (authorized version):

1. First of all, the Hebrew word correctly means "to murder." (Thou shalt not murder.)

2. This commandment was given prior to the Lords subsequent command to completely eradicate the occupants of the land called Canaan; so the command obviously was not "Thou shalt not kill."

3. Scripture states that David, the great King-General, "fought the battles of the Lord"—i.e. at God's behest, and on behalf of God's purposes.

4. God frequently stated that armies were sent against Israel, in punishment for their sins; often, the loss of life on both sides was terrible.

5. The Apostle Paul, in enjoining Christians to obey constituted governments, said "they do not bear the sword for nothing"—but, to use, when necessary; thus establishing the armed police force, to keep order. What is an army but an international police force, for protection against international criminality, on a huge scale (i.e.—the Nazis, etc.)

6. Punishment by death of criminals, or by revenge, etc., was not left to individuals, but to the constituted authorities, who "bear the sword" on their hips, and the pistol today.

7. Christians are to obey the constituted authorities, and, for example, cannot harbor fugitives from justice, but are duty bound to turn them over, even though their offense means capital punishment. (This is just one example of how Christians are involved in the maintenance of order.)

Naturally, no one expects a person who does not recognize the authority of the Bible to follow the Bible in this. But Christians do. This is just a bare fraction of the proofs that a just war (defensive), and capital punishment, are not only authorized, but commanded by God.

Charles J. Myers

P.S. I believe Vietnam is a just war.

'Fish' Good Samaritan Program Set

Local citizens interested in helping one another concluded an organizational meeting Tuesday by announcing the October 1st start of a "Fish - Good Neighbor" program, according to Rev. Don Lindblom, director of the Long Beach area Council of Churches, and Harold McFarland, director of the Downtown Neighborhood Center.

Community volunteers will provide personal services including meals and child care during family emergencies. Babysitting, transportation, reading to the blind, shopping for the handicapped are among the planned aids. Some volunteers will monitor calls and serve as dispatchers, and others will provide help to persons calling in their requests.

The service will be based in the Downtown Neighborhood Center, 324 E. Broadway, Phone 437-2241. Additional volunteers will be needed and may apply by phoning Council of Churches, Phone 436-3350. They will be trained and will be backed up by professional employees of the Center.

AND INSTALLATION Twin Ceremony to Bid Farewell to Rev. Osada

An installation and retirement ceremony Sunday at Long Beach Buddhist Church will formally welcome the new pastor, Rev. Soyu Matsuoka, and bid hail and farewell to the founding pastor, Rev. Kosal Osada.

Ceremonies, during which both will speak, will begin at 1:30 p.m. at the church, 2360 Santa Fe Ave.

Rev. Osada, 59, is returning with Mrs. Osada to his native Kyushu, Japan, where he will be pastor of his home church, Daiunji Temple in the city of Nobeoka. He spent a total of 26 years in the United States.

Rev. Osada came to Long Beach from Zen Temple in Los Angeles in 1951 and started this area's first non-sectarian Buddhist temple. Under his leadership the congregation completed the present church structure in 1957. In addition to helping many people understand Buddhism, he played a role in the general life of the community, helping to ward greater understanding of cultural backgrounds on all sides. At a farewell party last week, he was saluted for this role by Mayor Edwin Wade and other city officials.

The Osadas have three children. One daughter is an elementary school teacher in Torrance, a son is serving in the U.S. Air Force, and another daughter is currently in Japan. Rev. Matsuoka, who has been acting as associate pastor, came to the Long Beach church from 20 years as leader of Zen Buddhist Church of Chicago.

Youth Leadership at Christ Lutheran

Christ Lutheran Church is planning an accelerated youth program this year under the leadership of Marilyn Ubben and Mark Huggenvik. Miss Ubben attended California Lutheran College for two years and is currently enrolled at Cal State Long Beach. Huggenvik, who came to this area from Winona, Minn., is serving his internship at the church, and will also serve with the Lutheran Campus Ministry, at Cal State Long Beach.

FROM THE PULPIT

Out of darkness God brought the light. Out of chaos God brought order. God deals with the cause before the result.

When clouds obscure our sky we become afraid, and, like Peter walking on the water, we say out in fear, But the God who dealt first with darkness and then with light is more than capable of dealing with the patches of darkness that came into the lives of His own.

Our tears are dispelled when we realize that God is able to keep us from defeat. Trouble is not our everyday lot in life. Actually, severe trouble does not come often in a lifetime. But God is standing by to sustain us, to lift us up and to make a way for us.

Whether our lives are faced with severe problems or just the plain everyday struggle in the game of life, we need God. He cannot be successfully ignored, and His help in our time of trouble is the only help. "Without Him I could do nothing," writes the poet, but "through Christ I can do all things" writes Paul.

The difference in success and defeat in the final analysis is whether or not we are in contact with God's power. Our ministry at Calvary could help you. Come to Calvary! Calvary is for you!

Oberammergau Play Powerful

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

This column is being written in Oberammergau, Bavaria, where I've just seen the world-famous Passion Play. And this isn't the first time. My wife and I were here for the special performance in 1934, the 300th anniversary of the play. There was no performance in 1940 due to the war, but I was present both in 1950 and in 1960. The 1970 version seems, perhaps, superior to the others.

For each performance 5,200 people descend upon a village of 5,000 population, but the influx is handled without tension. Everything runs smoothly. There are no excited policemen blowing whistles and yelling at people. In fact, there are few police, and they seem to be only for the purpose of helpful guidance.

AND WHAT do you think: Hardly one piece of paper was visible on the streets which were so clean you could almost eat off them. No discarded cigarette packages, no mussed-up facial tissue; indeed none of the litter we walk through back home in little old dirty New York (fun city as the mayor calls it — fun for whom?).

As to the Passion Play itself, it was a simple, well-acted portrayal of the Biblical story, a dramatized reading from the New Testament with no message added, no point of view exploited.

It is rumored that Hollywood offered fabulous sums to film this play. The villagers, so it is reported, were not even tempted. They don't want money for something they regard as their own spiritual witness. The quality of acting is amazing, especially Judas. The actors are the villagers who leave their regular jobs each day to take part. A woodcarver with whom I talked puts down his chisel every afternoon about 3 o'clock to do an ancient-style gown and appear on stage to shout, "Give us Barabas." In the mob scene. Finishing that shouting, he is soon back at work, while the play continues.

Watching the ancient story unfold for 5½ hours on an open-air stage, back-dropped by mountains, blue sky overhead, the impact is powerful. Little wonder this narrative has moved men as no other has done for nearly 20 centuries. And when you get it all within a few hours, the effect is one of awe at the sheer greatness of the event depicted. At the climax, people all around in the large auditorium, young and old, were sobbing unashamedly.

The main point of the Passion Play, as I got the message, is of a young, God-sent man who had love in His heart and wanted to help everyone. He was instructed by God, His Father, to show to all men a new and better way of life, one that would lead to brotherhood and goodness on earth and to eternal life beyond.

As the Oberammergau play depicts it, He taught in simple-thought forms, in the language the common people understood. And they flocked around Him in vast numbers. Clearly He had no thought of leaving the Temple which He loved so intensely that in one episode He drove out merchants whom He felt were defiling "His Father's house." He became extremely popular with the multitudes who started adopting His modernization of the ancient teaching.

CHURCH HUMOR

"Why it wasn't at all like 'Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice!'"

While faithful to the old ways, He believed the times required a simpler and more easily understood application of the laws of Moses.

As one watches the play he sees, clearly portrayed, that irresistible conflict in human affairs, the clash of the old and the new. Traditional forms and practices inevitably resisted any approach which would throw off the past, even though at the same time it held reverence for the source of that tradition.

THE ELDERLY men who controlled the Temple at the time saw in Jesus a young radical who challenged not alone their power, but the old order itself. They were simplistic men. His popularity must be broken. One wonders, as the play proceeds, what might have happened had these venerables been willing to have negotiable dialogue with the young prophet and perhaps amended their attitudes to permit Him to continue His ministry to the poor and forsaken within the framework of the hierarchy.

But apparently the divine tragedy had to happen. The Cross had to have its place to move the hardened hearts of men toward penitence. And it works just that way, for as the curtain dropped, I found a wistful thought engaging my mind, "I'd really like to be a better person."

'WORRY ABOUT SPIRITUAL VALUES, INSTEAD' A Plea for Accepting Long Hair and Rock Music—From Guess Who

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Religion Writer

Young people who favor long hair and rock music have a staunch defender in a person many of them may regard as a super-square.

He's evangelist Billy Graham.

"I think it's ridiculous for parents to engage in bitter battles with their children over the haircut issue," Graham told UPI in an interview.

"Long hair or short hair is a matter of personal taste, not a basic moral question. We shouldn't judge a person by how he chooses to wear his hair."

"My grandfather had a beard down to his chest and a moustache and very long hair. His whole face looked hairy. But he was one of the most wonderful Christian men I ever knew. Hairiness was the style 75 years ago — and we're obviously going back to that style now."

Graham wears his own graying hair fairly long — down to the collar if he's had a recent haircut, over the collar if he's been too busy to get to the barber.

The Baptist evangelist, who has five children of his own, also suggested that parents listen to the lyrics of rock songs before entering a blanket condemnation of contemporary youth's favorite music.

"My wife and I bought a bunch of rock records and sat down to listen to them. We had to listen quite a long time before our ears got attuned to them so we could understand the lyrics."

"I was frankly surprised to find that a lot of rock music is deeply religious. Not necessarily religious in the sense of referring explicitly to God or Christ. But they're asking in these songs, 'What is the purpose of my life? 'Where did I come from?' 'Where am I going?' And those are religious questions."

Graham said it is a serious judgment on church, home and adult society in general that so many young people have despaired of finding answers to their deepest questions about life and death.

"We are educating their minds but letting their spirits starve," he said.

GOINGS ON

The fall series of Gospel Concerts in Municipal Auditorium will open next Saturday, Sept. 26, featuring what are called the nation's two leading Gospel quartets — the Blackwood Brothers from Memphis, and the Statesman Quartet with Hovie Lister, from Atlanta, and introducing on the West Coast the Downings, from Nashville, who are seen on 120 TV stations regularly. Gospel Concerts is a non-profit organization based in the Southland.

Rev. Dr. W. Sherman Skinner, newly named executive for the United Presbyterian Southland Synod, will speak 7 p.m. after the all-church family dinner Wednesday at Covenant Presbyterian, Third and Atlantic . . . The story of businessman Stanley Tam, who turned over 51 per cent of his thriving business to God, and then made it 100 per cent through a non-profit organization distributing money to 22 missionaries and other causes, will be told in a new color film "God Owns My Business" Sunday, 7 p.m., in the drive-in area of El Dorado Park Community, 3655 Norwalk Blvd.

Rev. Frank Gonzales, former well known Hollywood band trumpeter, now an evangelist with strong emphasis on successfully combating drug abuse by youngsters, will appear with his chorale Sunday, 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., at Bellflower Church of God, 10035 E. Washington St. . . It's Rally Sunday at Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns St., starting with the Sunday School classes at 9:45 a.m. . . Rev. Eugene McDowell of the Narcotics Educational Foundation will present the film "Narcotics: Why Not?" Sunday, 7 p.m., in University Baptist, 3434 Chatswin Ave. . . The film "Torture for Christ," the story of Rev. Richard Wurmbrand's imprisonment in Communist countries, will be shown Sunday, 7:30 p.m., in Community Chapel, 6465 Cherry Ave.

"We have failed to give them a faith, a creed, a philosophy that will enable them to endure the vicissitudes of life."

He said that in his recent crusades he has found young people especially responsive to Christian teaching about the Holy Spirit as the living presence of God within the human heart.

"The average young person doesn't know there's a supernatural power that can dwell within you. When you tell him this is a cardinal teaching of Christianity, he is intensely interested."

Negro Religious Leader Hits 'Destructionists'

"The forces working against America today are self-destructing because they have no basis in faith or justice. Americanism is our salvation," Dr. Joseph H. Jackson said this week at the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A., Inc., in New Orleans.

The denomination president addressed 20,000 delegates representing 30,000 Baptist churches with a membership totalling 6.3 million, the largest Negro organization in the United States.

Grunt, Groaners Returning Today

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

For the wrestling fan who has been waiting impatiently for the return of the grunt and groaners to the lube, today's the day.

KCOP, Ch. 13, will begin airing the show at 1:30 p.m., today, and same time Saturdays for the scheduled future.

Where are these wrestling matches coming from? From the television studio itself, where a ring has been set up on a studio stage. It is very convenient — the lights, cameras and the director being handy.

Tickets for the matches, before live audiences, can be obtained free from the Olympic Auditorium, by writing the organization at 1801 S. Grand, Los Angeles, 90015. State date you wish to attend and number of tickets desired.

Ch. 13 is also premiering some off-network rerun series starting Monday.

"Petitioner Junction," with the late Bea Benaderet, will air at 5:30 p.m.; "It Takes a Thief," 6 p.m.; "Daniel Boone," 7:30 p.m.; "Dragnet," 8:30 p.m. and "felony Squad" at 9 p.m.

"Star Trek" had been dropped from the station's schedule and new times (see Monday's log) have been set for "Topper," "The Munsters," "Batman," "Gilligan's Island" and "Perry Mason."

ON OCCASION I see a show and find that I start reviewing it with the phrase, "If you like So And So, you'll like the show." It is not only my failing, I notice it in other TV writers and while it sounds like a copout, there isn't really a lot more that you can say about some shows which rely almost entirely on the personality of the performer.

When you watch Flip

Wilson (premiere show Thursday, Ch. 4) for instance, you may be tempted to say something like that. There is certainly your reaction to the way he moves and his mugging which may or may not make you an admirer. I happen to like the way the guy carries on.

But there's a bit more to Wilson than just some of the catch phrases he throws out and which become everyday phrases — "De devil made me do dat" or now, "let me hear an amen."

PEOPLE don't kid themselves too much nowadays — everybody's very cautious about affronting some group, and even smiling when you call "The Virginian" THAT name won't necessarily avoid a brawl.

Wilson apparently isn't convinced that this sort of approach leads anywhere. If you listen to what he's saying instead of just enjoy watching, you find such lines as his Gertrude (female impersonation) character throws out, "I don't drink, smoke or do windows." I confess I had to have the wife explain that one to me, after she stopped laughing. Any housewife who has employed day help is aware of the line — some household day workers won't wash windows.

Then, doing a strenuous bit with the "Sesame Street" muppets — which I found the high point of the show — Flip notes, "This equal opportunity is killing me."

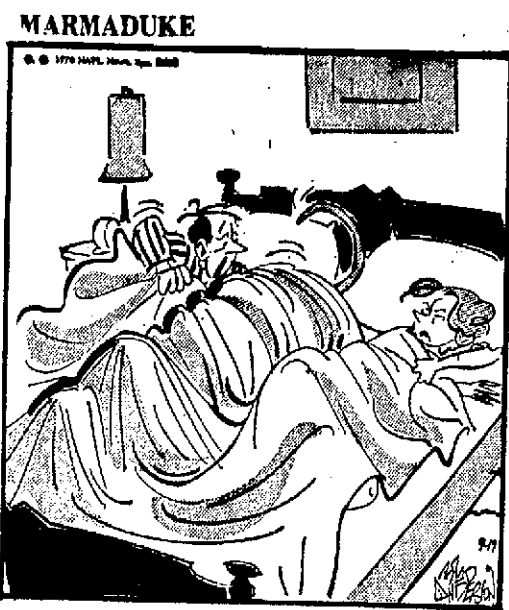

His "store church" bit and its emphasis on requests for money is more than just funning — it's got real bite.

VARIETY shows are not entirely satisfactory kinds of TV entertainment for me — you suffer through a certain amount of material that you normally would not watch in order to catch the little bits that make it worthwhile. There is a predominance of nonsense and I suppose inevitably something that offends somebody.

I would suppose that David Frost's rendition of the "begatting of the Hilton Hotels" will be offensive to some people who don't see humor in par-phrasing the Bible. I'm not offended at it, just as I'm not offended at the little tuppence about the "Begatting of a President." There is a certain cleverness of the gag-writer type in them, but they are rather juvenile and perhaps ought to be ignored as of no great significance one way or another.

'Round' Tina Louise Feeling Kicks of Life

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "I've had good experiences and bad experiences all my life, plenty of both. But this one is going to be good — I'm convinced of that."

Tina Louise, the shapely redhead who has epitomized sex in films, "Lili Abner" and television, "Gilligan's Island," was reflecting about her unusual situation: she is expecting her first child on Oct. 23; she recently filed for divorce from television personality Les Crane.

THE PROSPECT of facing a fatherless birth doesn't seem to faze her.

"Of course it's not easy," she remarked at the Hidden Valley home where she lives alone. "There are times when I become overwhelmingly lonely. But I've entered a new phase: the baby is kicking now. That becomes a reminder that it will all be worth it."

Miss Louise has always been a frank and open talker, but she was strangely silent about the details of her parting with Crane. She said only that they both were aware of the pregnancy before they separated — "the rest is too personal to talk about."

She feels that under the relaxed California law, she probably would have qualified for an abortion. She declined to have one.

"I WAS told that due to my own physiological condition, I might not be able to have another baby if I submitted to an abortion," she said. "I wasn't willing to risk that. I had been waiting too many years to have a child of my own."

Too rounded to accept acting roles, she is spending her time waiting. One of her pastimes is yoga. She conducts classes twice weekly and maintains her own daily regimen of exercises.

During the entire time we chatted, she sat on her bed in the usual cross-legged fashion — "it's the most comfortable position I know." Her single state, Miss Louise believes, will be temporary.

"It's not as though I rushed from one marriage to another," she said. "I waited a long time before I married, and Les and I were together for five years."

"I believe in marriage, and I feel sure that another man will come along who will want to marry me. Then the baby will be lucky enough to have two fathers."

BUT ADVOCATES of women's liberation should not get the notion that she is dependant on the male. Far from it.

"I believe in women's liberation," said the actress. "I've been liberated most of my life. I can sympathize with those women who believe that they shouldn't be tied down to taking care of children, that facilities should be available to watch over their children while they work.

"I intend to go on working, and I would leave my baby with paid help or in someone else's care. But not overnight."

"I was boarded out from the age of 2 to 8 — my parents were divorced. I know what it's like not to have your own home. And my baby will go with me wherever I go."

'Tora!' Cost Higher Than War Attack

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — It cost the movies almost nine times as much to re-stage the bombing of Pearl Harbor as it did the Japanese government with the original cast 29 years ago.

It is estimated the Imperial Japanese navy spent $900,000 to bomb the American fleet Dec. 7, 1941.

Twentieth Century-Fox blew $8 million in a make-believe version for "Tora! Tora! Tora!" a film based on the attack.

THE TITLE is translated "Tiger! Tiger! Tiger!" and it took a tenacious producer, Elmo Williams, to bring the story to the screen.

Total cost of the picture is one of the greatest in motion picture history — a whopping $20,360,000 and a change.

"We shot more than 400,000 feet of film and printed 263,000 feet," Williams said on the eve of the picture's release.

"It ran hundreds of hours. Now we've got it down to two hours and 20 minutes of sustained excitement and suspense."

"We've found audiences get restless after the first hour and a half, so a break is necessary. Also, big city trains leave for the suburbs at 11 p.m. so you've got to keep a picture within some definite time limits."

The enormous cost of the picture was partly due to duplicating old airplanes and shooting entirely on location under adverse conditions.

PEARL HARBOR has changed altogether from what it was three decades ago. Hollywood crews worked months to give a pre-World War II appearance to the locations.

"We built 38 flying planes and 100 nonflying planes to look like those of the era," Williams said.

"That included 33 operative Japanese planes which were modified versions of American aircraft we found in this country. Some were flown to Hawaii, others were shipped over."

"Dick Fleisher directed the American sequences. Toshio Masuda and Kenji Fukasaku directed the Japanese segments of the picture. They were great. Can't give them enough credit."

One of the problems facing the Japanese directors was to prevent their oriental performers from overacting. Accustomed to stage work, their gestures were broad and unrealistic.

"WHEN WE told them they would be laughed at and lose face," Williams said, the Japanese actors played it perfectly.

Comparisons are made between "Tora! Tora! Tora!" and "The Longest Day" even before release of Williams' film.

Both are action dramas based on historical fact. "The Longest Day" recreated the D-Day landing at Normandy. Both were made by the same studio.

Set for simultaneous premieres Sept. 23 in Tokyo, Honolulu, New York City and Los Angeles, Williams ventured that his picture was as good, in his opinion, as "The Longest Day."

Most people in Hollywood hope that Elmo Williams' opinion of his film is justified. Like many studios, 20th Century-Fox is not in particularly hearty financial health.

If "Tora! Tora! Tora!" is a winner the studio will take a giant stride toward regaining its strength.

If it doesn't, the film may prove to be an economic Pearl Harbor to 20th Century-Fox.

MOVIE GUIDE

As a guide to moviegoers this newspaper lists capsule contents of major motion pictures playing the Long Beach area. Most classifications represent the judgment of the Film Board of National Organizations.

PAINT YOUR WAGON — Movie version of the Broadway production a lumbering Gold Rush musical starring Lee Marvin, Jean Seberg, and Clint Eastwood as the backwoods menage a trois. (GP)

MYRA BRECKINRIDGE — Gore Vidal's story of a transsexual stars Raquel Welch, Mae West, Rex Reed. Pure trash. (X) "Z" — Gripping, expertly done thriller of political takeover in a Mediterranean country that looks like Greece. Won a Cannes prize and five Academy nominations. (GP)

CHISUM — Indestructible John Wayne in a lengthy, formula Western. (G)

THEY CALL ME MR. TIBBS — Sidney Poitier continues his "Heat of the Night" role as the cool, sharp black detective in the Deep South. (GP)

CRY OF THE BAN-SHIEE — Another of those chillers Vincent Price thrives in, complete with mad dogs and sidles. (GP)

THE OUT OF TOWNERS — Jack Lemmon and Sandy Dennis in caricatures of hapless suburban-ites still bound to the deteriorating city. (G)

ANNE OF A THOUSAND DAYS — Richard Burton is the lusty Henry VIII and Genevieve Bujold his ill-starred love in this richly drawn drama of passion and power. (GP)

A MAN CALLED HORSE — Richard Harris plays an English lord enslaved by the Sioux and initiated into the tribal bravery rites which are gruesome to watch. (GP)

GETTING STRAIGHT — Elliott Gould again in a talky, shallow film somewhat concerned with campus violence. Candice Bergen is as lovely as ever as co-star. (R)

KELLY'S HEROES — Adventure-drama about GI's in France at the end of World War II who go behind enemy lines to rob a bank stuffed with German gold. (GP)

PATTON — George C. Scott is excellent in humanizing the almost legendary swashbuckling figure of World War II Gen. George S. Patton. (GP)

FORMER ACTRESS TAKES VOWS AS CLOISTERED NUN

BETHLEHEM, Conn. (AP) — Dolores Hart, a former actress who left Hollywood in 1963 for the secluded life of a Benedictine nun, took her final vows Friday in a rustic, wood-paneled chapel here.

"I did not leave Hollywood as a disillusioned person," Mother Dolores said in a statement distributed after the three-hour ceremony. "I love the entertainment industry, and there I found the living God in the honest desire of some wonderful and dedicated people and in the keen awareness it gave me of my relationship with persons everywhere."

Mother Dolores, who received the Roman Catholic Church's solemn consecration of a Virgin from the Most Rev. John F. Whealon, archbishop of Hartford, also took the "vow of enclosure" never to leave the Regina Laudis Monastery again.

Regina Laudis is the only cloistered Benedictine monastery in the United States and houses 35 nuns.

Ex-Priest Confesses Matrimonial Strife

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

As the ex-priest headed for his study one morning to work, his wife called out from an adjoining room. "Make sure you don't come in and talk to your wife; Get right in there and work off all that guilt!"

Irritated, baffled, he went ahead and settled down to his typewriter. But feigning affection, he said, "Honey, is there something you want to talk about?"

"Jesus!" she snapped. "Can't you ever come in and say, 'Hi! You're beautiful, and I love you?'"

He was shocked, silent, refusing to listen further.

THAT'S A real-life scene in the troubled but still enduring marriage of former Catholic priest William H. DuBay as he describes it in the current issue of McCall's. It's been rough, he says adding:

"We're still not sure our marriage will survive."

DuBay, 35, married two years ago to an Episcopal divorcee, the former Mary Ellen Rochester, now 31, after he was suspended from the priesthood, is one of many ex-priests who have married, and he says they face special problems.

"The trouble is marriage can trap a priest in a situation for which he is not prepared," DuBay says. He says not all priests are "completely unfit for matrimony, but it would be hard to think of a background more at odds with it."

THE MAIN difficulty is not hangups about sex, he contends, but rather a fear of "intimacy, close personal contact with another human being." He adds this may stem in part from being schooled against sex.

"What priests are not prepared for is a constant, day-after-day relationship with a woman," he says. "The church has successfully implanted in its priests an almost crippling inability to carry out a healthy relationship."

WILLIAM DUBAY AND WIFE, MARY ELLEN
'Still Not Sure Marriage Will Survive'

DuBay was suspended in 1966 after he called for dismissal of now retired James Francis Cardinal McIntyre, then archbishop of Los Angeles, accusing him of not taking the lead in fighting racism and repressing priests who did. DuBay also published a book, "The Human Church," calling for a priests' union and numerous other reforms.

He worked for two years afterward in various community projects before his 1968 marriage. The couple, with her four young children and their own 11-month-old son, now live in a wooded mountainside of the San Jacinto range near the resort town of Idyllwild. He lectures, writes, and at night, has managed a town theater.

SOON AFTER their marriage, his wife began adleing in him "a certain preoccupation, a lack of spontaneity, and my uncanny ability to tune her out as I busied myself with chores.

"We made love, but there wasn't much fun and teasing. Wife and family were just two more elements I had added to a well-ordered life ... My inattention drove her wild."

He traces his impersonal detachment to seminary training, which he describes as turning out excellent "organization men," preoccupied with externals, who are usually good administrators, intellectuals, cool in the face of tensions.

But these qualities "do not prepare them to be lovers, friends, fathers, husbands. Having spent 20 years tuning out my own feelings, how could I be expected to tune in to the feelings of others?"

HIS "CAPACITY for pious withdrawal," he says, turned his marriage into a battleground. Sometimes, he says, "I would go into a rage, once even ordering her to her room. ... We fought in front of children, friend, strangers, in the house, behind the barn, in the car and in the middle of town."

Finally, he says, she gave him an ultimatum — either divorce, or he see a psychiatrist. He chose the psychiatrist, who is quoted as telling DuBay:

"What you need is sustained responsiveness. We can call it an openness to the psychological presence of another. You react well with your head. You have to learn how to react with your emotions. Not only Mary Ellen, but also her four children reacted this way — intuitively, spontaneously — and they need you to react that way, too."

In other words, DuBay sums it up, he was "responsive and hardworking, but not loving."

He says the birth of his own child to Mary Ellen gave him a sense of starting anew, to grow up. His wife still has "plenty of doubts" about their marriage and "hope is difficult ... I can't be sure that Mary Ellen and I will make it, but I do know that, in spite of our hassles, I am glad I am out of the priesthood — and married."

Methadone Legislators to Study State Hospital Woes

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two bills allowing large-scale methadone treatment programs to take heroin addicts off the hard narcotic, were signed Friday by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

One measure by Sen. Howard Way, R-Exeter, would permit counties to set up methadone programs in local mental health centers.

The other bill by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, would allow the state research advisory panel on drugs to grant permits for operation of methadone treatment programs.

PRESENT law allows only pilot programs involving methadone, a synthetic narcotic which blocks the euphoric effect of heroin and "satisfies the addict's craving for it.

Barlier in the year, Oregon Gov. Tom McCall urged Reagan to enact a methadone treatment program for California. He said Oregon's financial ability to run its own methadone clinics was greatly strained by California heroin addicts flocking into Oregon for treatment.

In signing the bill, Reagan said that although "methadone is not a panacea for the heroin problem, it is a promising approach to the treatment of addicts an important first step in leading them back on the long road to useful and productive lives."

The governor said the policy of his administration would be "to permit the use of methadone under strictest controls after therapeutic methods have been tried" to cure the adic.

Representatives of Metropolitan State Hospital will meet with state legislators next week to resolve fiscal and policy problems which have plagued the Norwalk mental institution for months.

Doctors from the institution, accompanied by representatives of the California State Employees Association and the Communications Workers of America, will state their case before the Assembly Ways and Means Committee Monday or Tuesday, this newspaper was told Friday.

Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-La Canada, agreed to grant the hearing before his committee after getting simultaneous requests from Sen. George Deukmejian, R-Long Beach, and from Assemblymen Joe A. Gonsalves, D-La Mirada, and Ken MacDonald, D-Ojai.

ON AUG. 31, Loren V. Smith, CSEA general manager, wrote to Dr. James V. Lowry, detailing what Metropolitan's doctors and nurses have repeatedly described as "a serious staffing shortage and inadequate security precautions" at the hospital. The doctors maintain that the net result of these conditions has been "employee unrest and inadequate treatment for patients."

In addition, Smith pointed out, the contracts negotiated between Los Angeles County and the hospital have "never been honored" by the state's Department of Mental Hy-

Despite a reduction in total population at the hospital, Smith continued, admissions have nearly doubled at Metropolitan in the past year but 93 nursing positions have been vacated by the DMH, producing low levels of patient care and creating safety problems.

Smith also noted that in recent months, many occasions have been recorded in which only one nurse or other employee was on duty in wards of 40 to 60 mental patients, producing an obvious safety hazard. Lanterman-Petris-Short Act regulations, under which all of the state's mental programs are supposed to function, are being systematically ignored by hospital administration practice, Smith indicated, pointing out that the hospital was ordered to terminate 950 after-care patients on short notice.

SMITH'S letter to Lowry has not yet been answered, according to the CSEA. When the letter failed to produce any reaction from the DMH, Smith said, a grievance was filed on behalf of Metropolitan's employees. The grievance has not been answered by either Dr. George Abe, director of Metropolitan, or any other DMH official, CSEA said.

"These problems are not confined to Metropolitan," said a Metropolitan psychiatrist on Friday. "They are, instead, a pattern of what is happening at various other state mental hospitals around the state. The situation at Metropolitan is mirrored by conditions at Camarillo, at Napa and at Patton.

"The only good thing that has happened to these hospitals is that virtually every doctor, nurse and staff member — excluding administrators — is in agreement that something must be done to halt further deterioration of the level of patient service to those suffering from mental illnesses."

Representatives of the other three hospital — and perhaps representatives of some hospitals not named yet — are planning to join with the Metropolitan doctors and the union officials in the Assembly Ways and Means hearing.

A meeting between CSEA officials, doctors and other concerned hospital employees had been scheduled with Dr. Lowry for Monday in Sacramento. There was no immediate word of what the status of that meeting was as a result of the ordering of the Assembly hearing.

SILENCE IS ALLOY

ST. LOUIS 10 — Faculty members weary of loud music at Meramec Community College were given an opportunity Friday to buy some relief.

By inserting a quarter and punching J-1 or K-1, they purchased 10 minutes of silent time on the jukebox in the school's busy cafeteria.

POLICE AFTER THIEF STOCKING FOR WINTER

Police Friday were seeking a man who calmly entered a trucking company yard, loaded five snowmobiles — each weighing 500 pounds — onto a company truck, and drove off with the loot.

Bruce Pittman, an employee at Enen Trucking Co., 1429 W. 11th St., told Long Beach police he had been making a delivery and returned to the trucking yard at about 12:40 a.m. Friday.

He said he noticed that a chain holding the lock on the front gate had been cut and the snowmobiles and truck were missing. Loss was $5,000.

A witness told police he saw the loaded truck leave the yard and described the driver as about 25 years old and wearing an olive-colored jacket. Police theorize the thief used a forklift to load the snowmobiles on the truck.

Drug Firms Blamed for Rising Crime

REDDING (UPI) — Rep. John V. Tunney branded drug manufacturers Friday as "major" contributors to the "spiraling juvenile crime in California."

The Senate candidate said drug firms are producing twice the amount of hard drugs needed to fill legitimate medical prescriptions.

"This intense drug traffic in all probability is mainly responsible for the vast increase in crime," he said.

Tunney also blamed unemployment for current lawlessness.

What is young?

He died young.

What is "young"—and when is it?

Young is an attitude, a spirit. A way of looking at things — of responding to them.

It is not an age. Not a hair-style or a piece of clothing or a musical beat.

Young can be a child examining his first marigold with wonder and delight . . . or Verdi at 81, composing his finest opera.

Young can be a teen-ager swinging on a surfboard . . . or Einstein, in his 70s, still working on his unified field theory, sailing his boat and playing his beloved fiddle.

Young is not a monopoly of youth. It survives, and flourishes, everywhere the vision has been kept fresh, the muscles of the mind firmly toned, the juices freely flowing.

Let's not cater to youth, for its own sake, for its shibboleths and slogans and styles of the moment. Nor scorn it for any of those reasons.

Instead, let's respect "young." Wherever it may be found. Whether the beard is soft and curly or stiff and gray. Spirit has no color. It is always translucent, with its own imaginative sheen.

Youth should be listened to, but young should be followed.

There is no generation gap between the young of any age.

Navy Land to Become Parksites

SAN DIEGO — The Navy took steps Friday to turn over to the state of California land proposed for a 500-acre international park on the sea by the Mexican border.

An announcement by Sen. George Murphy and Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., said the Navy is transferring property known as Border Field.

The auxiliary landing strip property, declared excess, includes 372 acres of fee-owned property and 123 acres of easement. A companion park would be developed on the Mexican side of the border.

THE MOVE, climaxing a five year state study, was called "exciting" by State Park Director William Penn Mott.

"I envision a friendship plaza up on the bluff, just north of the bluffing by the sea, where the history and relationships of the U.S. and Mexico can be interpreted," Mott said.

He said some of the land will become available for public use by next summer although budgeting for development of the park could not come before 1971-72.

AN INVESTMENT of $2 million for a multipurpose recreational area is planned, said Mott, because "the area provides one of the finest beaches in California and is wonderful for swimming."

Day and overnight campsites are planned.

The announcement made in Washington, D.C. came a day after the Marine Corps said it would lease 3 1/2 miles of Camp Pendleton beach in the state on a 25-year agreement.

Black American Day Bill Signed; Slated March 5

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan Friday signed a bill setting March 5 as Black American Day in California.

The date is the anniversary of the death of Crispus Attucks, the first Negro to die in the American Revolutionary War.

The bill by Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., D-San Francisco, originally set Jan. 15, birthday of Martin Luther King Jr., for the observance.

The Senate Finance Committee, however, changed the date.

7 Prisoners Accused in Soledad Slaying

SALINAS — Seven black inmates at Soledad prison were charged with murder and conspiracy Friday in last July's slaying of a white prison guard.

Monterey County Chief Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward Barnes filed the complaints in Municipal Court here. Arraignment for the seven, all from the Los Angeles area, is scheduled Monday.

Guard William C. Schull, 40, was found stabbed to death July 23 in a prison hall yard office. He had been stabbed more than 40 times with a prison-made knife left sticking in his chest.

The trial of three other black prisoners accused of murdering another white guard at the prison last February was ordered moved to San Diego on Thursday by a San Francisco Superior Court judge.

Three black prisoners, also have been killed in racial turmoil at the 192-acre correctional facility in the Salinas Valley.

Those accused in the Schull killing were identified by Barnes as: O. C. Allen, 28, serving a five-year to life sentence for second degree murder; Alfred Dunn, 20, serving a five-year to life term for first degree robbery and Jimmy James, 23, serving a one-year to life sentence on two counts of second degree robbery.

Also Jessie Phillips, 20, serving a life term for murder; James Wagner, 28, serving a one-year to life sentence for second degree robbery; Walter Watson, 23, serving a five-year to life sentence for first degree robbery; and Roosevelt Williams Jr., 27, serving a five-year to life term for first degree robbery.

If convicted of murder, Barnes said, each could face the death penalty. He said he planned to amend the complaint to include specific charges of the killing of a prison guard by a prisoner, which carries a mandatory death penalty.
